DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

(BEFORE MR. C. P. CUSSEN.)

Francis Scott, van driver, St. Alban's road, was committed for trial on a charge of having embezzled sums of money amounting to £82 which he had received from shopkeepers on behalf of his employers, Messrs. Thompson, wholesale bakers, Bridgefoot street, Dublin.

Mr. Frank McCarthy appeared for the defendant. Sergeant Deering and Detective Officer Gordon had charge of the case.

DEPORTED FROM U.S.A.

Christopher Murphy was charged with having been in illegal possession of a Waterman fountain pen, value 20s.

Detective Sergeant Moran stated that when he was arrested, the defendant said that he found the pen in Grafton street about a month ago, and that he did not think it was of any use. He had the pen concealed in the lining of his coat. He had been deported from America as an undesirable alien. Since then he had been guilty of house-breaking, larceny and other offences, and had served terms in Mountjoy prison.

The defendant asked for another chance, as his wife and three children had just arrived from America, and it was his intention to go straight.

He was remanded until Wednesday.

SHEEP-DIPPING IN 1936

INSTRUCTIONS TO OWNERS OF FLOCKS

As the sheep-dipping season commences on the 1st June, the attention of sheep-owners, and all interested in the execution and enforcement of the Sheep-Dipping Orders, is directed to the necessity for the dipping of all sheep during the prescribed dipping periods, in accordance with the requirements of the Orders and any regulations thereunder of the local authorities concerned.

The principal object of the Sheep Dipping Order of 1915, and of the supplementary Orders which enable local authorities to require the prescribed dippings to be carried out under the supervision of local inspectors, is the eradication of scab, a disease which has seriously interfered with the development of the sheep industry and the country's valuable export trade in sheep and lambs. Under these Orders the local authorities have ample means of ensuring the freedom from scab of all sheep in their respective districts.

In the last resort, however, responsibility for the cleanliness of Irish flocks rests on the sheep-owners themselves. Every such owner is bound to dip his sheep in the manner and during the periods prescribed by the Sheep Dipping Order, and any local regulations in force. If regulations of the local authority require him to have his sheep dipped at a particular time and place, he must make arrangements to have the whole of his flock dipped in accordance with these regulations, otherwise he should fix a time and place himself and give the local authority due notice, either direct or through the Garda Siochana, so that they may be represented at the dipping should they so desire.

The dipping should be by thorough immersion of the sheep in an approved dip, and the greatest care should be taken in carrying out the directions given as to the mixing of the dip and the length of time during which the sheep should be kept immersed. Except where otherwise directed, the period of immersion should be for at least one minute. In the summer dipping period (from 1st June to 31st July) the sheep must be dipped once, and must have been shorn before dipping, unless they are lambs under nine months old. In the autumn dipping period (1st August to 15th November inclusive) the sheep must be dipped twice within an interval of not less than seven or more than fourteen days. The interval is important, having regard to the life history of the Scab parasite. The first dipping will probably kill the parasites, but their eggs remain, and in a short time give rise to a second brood; the second dipping, therefore, is necessary to kill the young parasites before they, in turn, lay their eggs. Where an arsenical dip is used for first dipping of sheep, it is recommended that a non-arsenical dip should be used for the second dipping. In cases, however, where an arsenical dip is used for the second autumn dipping, the second dipping should take place not earlier than the tenth day and not later than the fourteenth day after the date of the first dipping (excluding that date), and the dipping solution should be at half the strength required for the first autumn dipping. Every approved dip is retailed in a packet or vessel bearing a label indicating that the use of the dip in certain proportions has been officially approved for the purpose of the Orders relating to sheep scab and sheep dipping, and containing directions as to the preparation of the dipping bath.

It is a matter of great importance that the sheep owners should, from time to time, carefully examine their sheep for indications of scab. If there is any suspicion of disease the case should be reported without delay to the local Garda Siochana, so that the suspected animal may be examined as early as possible by a veterinary inspector of the local authority. Prompt measures taken in this way would prevent the spread of disease, with resultant serious losses.

FROM THE NORTHERN CAPITAL

Religious Instruction : The Re-Insurance Agreement : A Change in Financial System : New Aircraft Factory : A Record Show

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Saturday.

THERE has been an avalanche of correspondence in the Northern Press following the statement by the Rev. Canon Pratt at the General Synod deploring the inadequacy of the religious instruction in the new provided and transferred schools in the North.

Many laymen of the Church of Ireland agree with Canon Pratt in this matter. Other correspondents, principally teachers, express the view that the common programme of Bible instruction arranged by the Joint Committee of the Protestant churches is adequate, while one correspondent declares that teachers should only give secular instruction, and the churches provide the instruction in catechism. It is a remarkable coincidence that in England, where simple Bible instruction only has been given in Council schools for thirty years, it is the consensus of opinion that it is not adequate, and a bill is now passing through Westminster providing for a more definite religious and moral basis in education in these schools. The increase in juvenile crime in Northern Ireland and the epidemics of housebreaking and other indications of a lower moral standard all point to the necessity for improved religious instruction in the schools.

A committee is now sitting to inquire into juvenile crime and the possible remedies. Various things have been suggested, including a greater use of the birch and reformatories. It is hoped that these may cure the disease. In a matter of this kind, however, prevention is better than cure, and there could be no better means of prevention, not only of juvenile crime, but all crime, than a more definite religious instruction in citizenship in all the schools in the country. Great Britain has found this out, and Northern Ireland is beginning to realise the fact. The committee appointed at the recent General Synod of the Board of Education to deal with questions of religious instruction in Northern Ireland affecting members of the Church of Ireland has abundant scope for its activities. Such matters as the right to continue Protestant voluntary schools, the provision of an adequate number of Church of Ireland teachers for voluntary and provided schools capable of giving religious instruction, a proper proportion of Church of Ireland teachers in the larger provided and transferred schools, the religious instruction in all schools, both primary and secondary, are matters requiring immediate attention.

Teachers' Salaries

There is a good deal of sympathy with the Northern teachers whose salary "cuts" have not been restored, although the "economy cuts" imposed upon teachers in England were fully restored last year. Altogether the Northern teachers have had their salaries reduced by 14 per cent. since they came under the jurisdiction of the Northern Government, and this year 3½ per cent. (minus 1 per cent. deduction for a new retiring lump sum grant) has been restored, and an effort is being made to stabilise the salaries on this basis.

The teachers are quite right to claim equality of treatment with the teachers in England so long as Northern Ireland is part of the financial and fiscal system of the United Kingdom. Northern officials of all kinds are entitled to an equal standard of service in such a system. The teachers would receive more sympathy if they were prepared to give the same standard of service as teachers in England, particularly in regard to religious instruction and moral training of the children entrusted to their care. Unfortunately, while the great body of teachers are willing and even anxious to give this service, as the great majority of them have done in the past, there is a small but vociferous section which objects to any demands in regard to religious instruction and usually finish their objections by attacks upon the clergy, or former clerical managers. In England religious training is becoming more definitely part of the ordinary programme. This small, but noisy and short-sighted, section does the teachers' cause a great deal of harm. Teachers and the Churches who press for more religious instruction would achieve better results if the Minister of Education and his Parliamentary Secretary were more susceptible to public influence at elections. It has been a handicap that the political heads of this department are not called upon like other Ministers and members of Parliament to face ordinary constituencies in elections. If they had they would be inclined to pay more attention to popular demands.

Re-insurance Agreement

The re-insurance agreement between the British Treasury and the Northern Government to maintain the unemployment funds in both areas in a state of parity is excellent for its main purpose, but there is a danger that too much reliance may be placed upon it.

The Acting Minister of Finance, in his Budget statement, for instance, declared: "The ratification of this agreement by both Parliaments will remove permanently, it is hoped, the one major cause of instability in our financial framework." If it is intended permanently to stabilise the finances of Northern Ireland upon the fluctuations in unemployment, the Government is building upon very shifty sand. The ratio of unemployment in Northern Ireland and Great Britain is, roughly, 25 as to 15, and it is because Northern Ireland has a larger rate of insured workers unemployed that it received last year £752,000 from the British Exchequer as an equalisation payment under the re-insurance agreement. The instability of the agreement, however, is already revealed, although the new agreement has not been a year in operation; for the payment anticipated this year is £550,000, or £202,000 less. In other words, the ratio of unemployment is likely to change to that extent. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that the ratio may change further in future years; that Northern employment may increase, or Great Britain's decrease, until the two Exchequers are paying the same amount to the Equalisation Fund, or, as happened under the old agreement, Northern Ireland contributing a large sum and Great Britain paying nothing. If this should be accompanied at the same time by a reduction in income tax—to help industry to recover—or a reduction of other duties by the British Chancellor, Northern Ireland's revenue would again be seriously dislocated. There would be virtually no surplus or imperial contribution, and Northern Ireland would have to make up the deficit from its own resources. Thus would be revealed again the glaring inequality of the financial clauses of the Government of Ireland Act.

Time to Make Change

Northern Ireland finances are in a favourable position at present. There is a surplus estimated for the coming year of, roughly, £450,000, and it might be considerably more when the full year's figures are available.

The increase in income tax, revaluation, education levy, and reduced de-rating grants and the brighter trade outlook have contributed to this result. Past experience shows that large surpluses may not continue, but when the prospects are bright, and there is a possibility that they may continue for a few years, then it is time to arrange an equitable adjustment with the British Government for a distribution of the revenue of the United Kingdom upon a population basis between Great Britain and Northern Ireland. So long as Northern Ireland has a substantial surplus this can be done without any great loss to the United Kingdom Exchequer. It will still get the surplus revenue of Northern Ireland as imperial contribution; but, on the other hand, there is an assurance that Northern Ireland taxpayers will be on the same level as those in Great Britain. Motorists will not have to pay more; teachers' salary "cuts" will be restored; even de-rating grants might be considered worthy of restoration. Northern Ireland will not need to worry if its unemployment is slightly above or below the level of that in Great Britain, and this would remove a tremendous load from the mind of the Cabinet. Great Britain would recognise Northern Ireland more clearly as a partner in its financial and fiscal system, which it is now in theory, but not in reality. A scheme for amalgamating the reserved revenue of Northern Ireland with that of Great Britain, allocating Northern Ireland's share on a population basis and deducting only the necessary and equivalent expenditure, and retaining the balance as Northern Ireland's imperial contribution, is not only feasible, but experience has proved is desirable. It would appear that the Northern Finance Ministry is afraid of losing control, but it is more important that Northern taxpayers should not be called upon to meet heavier burdens than other taxpayers in the United Kingdom. The Northern Government would still have full control of its transferred revenue, and would have just as much control over reserved revenue as it has now, which is not much.

An Aircraft Factory

Negotiations between Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Ltd., and the aircraft constructing firm of Short Bros., Rochester and Bedford, have been concluded, and in a short time a new aircraft factory will be established at Belfast, in proximity to the Belfast shipyard.

It is anticipated that the new industry will give employment to several thousand men, the majority of whom will be highly skilled workers. A number of these, as well as "key men," may have to be brought from England, but it is believed that many now unemployed in Belfast will get work in the new factory. The Northern Minister of Labour, anticipating the expansion of the aircraft industry, last year sent some thirty or forty unemployed skilled workmen to Norwich for training in industries associated with aircraft construction.

Messrs. Harland and Wolff have had experience of aircraft construction; for during the War they built a thousand of the largest aeroplanes then being manufactured. Some of these were completed just before the termination of the War, and were intended for air raids on Berlin. The factory and plant for the building of those machines were maintained, and it was believed that these would be utilised again; but in the discussions with Short Bros. larger possibilities were envisaged, and the establishment of a new factory was decided upon. There is plenty of ground at Belfast available near the shipyard for this purpose, while the favourable geographical position of the Northern capital and the fact that a large new aerodrome and seaplane base is being constructed in close proximity to the new factory have influenced Messrs. Short Bros. to enter into the arrangement with Messrs. Harland and Wolff and form a new company for the construction of aeroplanes at Belfast. Messrs. Short Bros. are one of the leading aircraft manufacturers in Great Britain, and are at present constructing twenty-nine 18-ton flying boats for Imperial Airways for the extension of the Empire air services. It is understood that the largest, fastest and most modern type of aircraft will be built at Belfast.

A Record Show

Over a hundred thousand people visited the annual Show of the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society last year. Judging by present indications, and if the Show, which opens on the 27th inst., is favoured by good weather, this record is likely to be exceeded.

The total number of entries is slightly above that of last year, 2,266 compared with 2,219. Although many interesting features and attractions have been added to the Show in recent years, including the industrial section, it still remains the premier agricultural display in Northern Ireland. The large number of entries in the cattle, poultry, egg and butter sections indicated that the Show is increasing in popularity with the agricultural section of the community. As the President of the Society (Mr. J. Milne Barbour) pointed out, Northern Ireland has gone through a mild revolution in agricultural economics. Various marketing schemes have been tested and have proved their worth to the agriculturist in maintaining prices. Some consumers are inclined to complain that prices have been increased by these schemes, but it is generally admitted that the low and fluctuating prices of commodities in the past have not given the farmers a fair deal. While everything should be done to keep the prices at a reasonably low level, it is satisfactory to know that, in the pig industry, for instance, the periodically glutted markets, followed by price slumps, have gone, and that both producer and consumer have the advantage of a fair price level. At the same time pig production has been doubled and shortly will be trebled. Northern Ireland is capturing a large section of the British pork market formerly held by Denmark. A feature of the Show this year will be the visit of the team of the 4th-7th Dragoon Guards and a riding display by children of the Cheltenham Riding School.

PRESENTATION TO THE REV. B. C. WALLER, M.A.

On Friday evening a large gathering of the parishioners of Holy Trinity Church, Rathmines, met in the Parochial Hall, Belgrave square, for the purpose of making a presentation to the Rev B. C. Waller, M.A., on the occasion of his appointment to the United Parishes of Clondalkin and Tallaght. The chair was taken by the Rector, the Rev. J. Tobias, B.D., who spoke in the highest terms of the work of Mr. Waller during the five years that he had served in the Parish. After Mr. W. E. Thrift, Vice-Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, had also spoken, Mr. Burgess made the presentation on behalf of those present, and Mr. Waller replied. The presentation consisted of a cheque, and a silver salver suitably inscribed.

IRISH NATIONAL GARDEN GUILD

THE AWARDS

The following are the results of the Irish National Garden Guild Spring Garden Competition. The gardens were judged by four members of the Royal Horticultural and Arboricultural Society of Ireland, and in making their decision the judges said:—"It may be mentioned that we considered most of the gardens as of a very high standard, and it was only after the most careful scrutiny that the final decisions were arrived at. We revisited several of the gardens to make sure of our judgment. As most of the houses belong to the Dublin Corporation we think that that body might be induced to support the work of the Irish National Garden Guild, which has in so many cases improved the appearance of their property, apart from the humanising influence it has on the occupiers."

This competition is open only to householders whose valuation does not exceed £15, and it is a strict rule that no help of a professional nature may be put into the actual work of the garden.

The judging was made on five points—layout, cultivation, neatness, variety and effect.

PRESENTATION TO LADY POWERSCOURT

The Viscountess Powerscourt was on Saturday afternoon presented with a Chief Commissioner's Standard by the Commissioners and Guiders of County Dublin and the Free State. The ceremony took place at the front entrance of Powerscourt House, and there was a large attendance of officers and Girl Guides.

The standard, which was made entirely of Irish poplin and embroidered by Irish Guides, was presented to Lady Powerscourt by Miss Shiela Findlater, a member of the colour party, who asked her ladyship to accept it as a token of gratitude and affection from the Girl Guides of the Free State. The world flag is embodied in the design, as well as the Cross of St. Patrick, the badge of the Free State Girl Guides, the motto of that movement and the motto of the Powerscourt family, "Fidelité est de Dieu."

Those responsible for the handsome embroidery were Mrs. Gosset and the Misses D. Findlater, S. Findlater, M. Hennen, E. Moore and M. White.

INVALID TRANSPORT

Headquarters' B team competing in the St. John Ambulance Brigade Overend Cup competition for invalid transport at the B. and I. Sheds, North Wall, Dublin, on Saturday.

PAINTINGS BY MR. J. HUMBERT CRAIG

An excellent collection of paintings of Ireland by Mr. J. Humbert Craig, R.H.A. is on exhibition at John Magee's Gallery, 4 Donegall square West, Belfast. Mr. Craig has seen much of life in America and in this country, and as an artist has established a reputation in England and Ireland for landscapes and seascapes. His pictures possess characteristic tonal qualities, and are much sought after. The present exhibition is one of the attractions of the Royal Ulster Show week in Belfast, and visitors from the South should make a point of seeing it.

There are many fine landscapes from Donegal on view; one of the best is "Anure, County Donegal," which exemplifies Mr. Craig's mastery of colour and detail, the latter being carefully subordinated to the general effect.

"The Atlantic Donegal Coast" showing in the distance the rolling water between heather covered hills is a little gem. Another fine picture is "The Road to the Bloody Foreland," which has the vividly interpreted effect of sunlight on peasants driving cattle along a mountain road. "A Galway Fair" is a typical fair day scene very cleverly done. "On the Donegal Coast" is a picture showing fishing boats returning to harbour.

The exhibition also includes some fine pictures of Connemara and Antrim scenery, among them being a perfect little scene of Cushendun, in which the artist has caught the atmosphere of the blue hills of Antrim. The exhibition will be open daily until May 30th

"SILLY SNOBS" OF B.M.A.

The British Medical Association was described by a member of the Socialist Medical Association at its annual meeting in London yesterday as "of no use to anybody" and composed of "silly snobs."

Dr. T. F. Keenan used these phrases in moving an amendment on an item in the Executive Committee's report, which recommended members of the Socialist Medical Association not to join the General Practitioners' Union.

He suggested that all Socialist doctors should also become members and so assist to improve its present policy. "We find that the British Medical Association," he said, "has been taken charge of by a group of specialists for their own special benefits. The Association is of no use to anybody except this certain clique in the profession, who use it for their own absurd ideas."

The amendment was lost.

MEMORY OF THE DEAD

ROLL OF HONOUR OF 1916

PRESENTATION TO MR. DE VALERA

To the accompaniment of rolling drums and the strains of the "Dead March" Mr. de Valera, President of the Irish Free State Executive Council, yesterday received the Roll of Honour, 1916.

The scroll, bound in black tulle, bearing the names of those who fell in the fighting during the Easter Week (1916) Rising, was presented to the President by Commandant Joseph O'Connor, in the presence of several thousand people, outside Government Buildings, Merrion street, yesterday morning.

Afterwards Mr. de Valera received from the senior surviving officer of each garrison the scrolls bearing the names of the men who participated in hostilities, and formally handed them to Mr. Liam Gogan, Keeper, of the National Museum. The scrolls will be preserved in the Museum.

PRESIDENT TAKES SALUTE

Standing on a raised dais, the President then took the salute from over 1,000 men, members of the different 1916 garrisons, who had marched in processional order from St. Stephen's Green, led by the St. James's Brass and Reed Band.

The President emerged from Government Buildings through a guard of honour, composed on one side by officers representing all sections of the Regular Army and Volunteer Force, and on the other by members of the Dublin Metropolitan Guards, Civic Guards, and Detective Branch, all drawn from the ranks of 1916 men.

A detachment of the regular Army, under Commandants Hegarty and McGrath, and a company of Volunteers, under Lieutenant V. de Valera, headed by the No. 1 Army Band, rendered military honours, while a section of cavalry in full-dress uniform lined both ends of the street.

The crash of rifles being brought to the "Present" heralded the approach of the President, who was followed by members of the Executive Council, representatives of the judiciary, and relatives of the Easter Week leaders.

Sections of the Cumann na mBan took part in the march past which followed.

Among those who marched in the ranks of the 1916 men were:—Mr. Sean MacEntee, Minister for Finance; Mr. Oscar Traynor, T.D.; Mr. P. Belton, T.D.; Mr. Frank Fahy, Speaker of the Dail, and Mr. J. J. Walsh.

One of the last signatures to be put on the roll of the survivors was that of Mr. Liam Raftis, Borough Treasurer, Waterford, who signed on the steps of the University College Church, St. Stephen's Green, prior to the Requiem Mass which was offered there yesterday morning for the dead members of the Boland's Mill garrison. The Mass was attended by Mr. de Valera, who was received on the steps of the church by the Rev. J. Flavin, C.C. The Mass was celebrated by the Rev. P. J. Deering, C.C.

THE SCROLLS

The officers who made the presentation and the numbers of the names on each scroll were as follows:—G.P.O. Garrison—Liam Cullen (58 dead and 323 survivors). Ashbourne—Mr. Charles Weston (13 dead and 46 survivors). Boland's Mill—Mr. Liam Kavanagh (29 dead and 144 survivors). City Hall—Mr. James O'Shea (30 dead and 30 survivors). Duggan, Senator Mrs. Wyse Power, Miss Wyse Power, Senator L. O'Neill, Mr. P. J. Little, Parliamentary Secretary to the President. Senator M. Staines and Commandant P. Holohan acted as assistant-marshals.

OPENING OF A GREYSTONES HOTEL

The International Hotel, Greystones, which was recently purchased by Mrs. M. D. Moynihan Rich, was opened last Saturday to approximately four hundred invited guests, who were able to inspect the building and grounds, and listen to a musical programme which was broadcast from the ballroom. The hotel, which is managed by Mr. J. W. Rich, has been refurnished and redecorated through out. It has an all electric kitchen, dance pavilion, and American cocktail bar, and in the twenty-five acres of gardens and pleasure grounds in which it stands there are newly constructed tennis courts, and a path to the shore for private sea-bathing.

The musical programme on Saturday evening was contributed by Jack Rich, assisted by Miss Manning, soprano, Mr. O'Connor, tenor, and the No. 1 Army Band conducted by Lieutenant Doyle. The band played, after the variety programme, on the lawn, which was flood lighted at night

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

The Derby : Fairway's Offspring : Burke's Peerage : Lord Decies : An Irish Sailor

Lord Decies

Lord Decies—John Graham Hope de la Poer Beresford—is about to re-marry (perhaps to-day) in Paris, and again he is showing his good sense in marrying an American; for it is hard to surpass the American woman of the social register class both for looks and brains. Lord Decies's first wife, who was Miss Vivien Jay Gould, of New York, was a very great favourite in Ireland during the time she lived here. Lord Decies gets his title from the Hon. and Reverend William Beresford, who was the third son of the first Marquis of Waterford. The reverend gentleman became Bishop of Dromore in 1780, Bishop of Ossory two years later, and Archbishop of Tuam in 1794. Eighteen years later he was raised to the Peerage as Baron Decies of Co. Waterford (pronounced Deeshies). This title originally belonged to his maternal grandfather, James de la Poer, who was the last Viscount Decies and Earl of Tyrone. Lord Decies, who succeeded his brother in 1911, has been in the Seventh Hussars and the South Irish Horse; has been through the South African War; was A.D.C. to Lord Connemara years ago while the latter was Governor of Madras. In 1899 he was also A.D.C. to the Duke of Connaught, and by the present generation he will be remembered in Ireland as Press Censor during the War years. His two daughters are married—one quite recently—but his heir, the Hon Arthur George de la Poer Beresford, will not attain his majority until next year.

An Irish Sailor

It would appear from our advertising columns that there is still a shortage of medical men for the Royal Navy. It is not difficult to imagine that this is so when one bears in mind the forthcoming huge increase in expenditure on the Services, with a corresponding expansion of the personnel, particularly of the Navy, which must be necessarily the first thought of the authorities in the existing state of things. Among the recent promotions to what is presumably the equivalent of "field rank" in that medical service is that of Surgeon-Commander F. B. Quinn, who is a Corkman, and who has recently returned from the Near East. Surgeon-Commander Quinn is a graduate of Cork University, where he qualified in 1922. He has been in a great many parts of the world since he joined the naval service, having spent some three years in China seas, mostly on a gun-boat in the West River, that erstwhile happy hunting ground of piracy. He has also served in the American and West Indian Stations, and has been at most of the American ports, both Atlantic and Pacific. He succeeded in missing the great earthquake at Hawke's Bay, Napier, New Zealand, by a day or so some years ago, and has taken part in the usual N.Z. naval itinerary to the South Sea Islands, Samoa, etc., so that he has travelled quite a fair portion of the world. His wife is a New Zealander, having been one of the first women to fly her own aeroplane in that country.

The Derby

Of the twenty-eight horses that comprise the acceptances for the Derby on Wednesday next, I notice that four are by Blandford, whose stock have triumphed in other years. I do not think any other sire is so well represented in the race, as Mahmoud, one of the Aga Khan's competitors, is by Blenheim—a son of Blandford who has already proved himself a winner-getter. Blenheim won the Derby in 1930 for the Aga Khan, when he started at eighteen to one in the betting. Bala Hissar, the winter favourite for the Derby, who has since had to take a back seat, is another Blandford. His Grace, who carries the colours of Lord Carnarvon, is also sired by Blandford. As this colt is out of Malva, it sounds as if he was bred at the Cloughran Stud, and he is trained by R. C. Dawson. Blandford has another son in the race in Mr. A. de Rothschild's colt Midstream, who is out of Midsummer. The fourth Blandford is Star Comedian, out of Comedy Star, and is owned by Lady Ludlow. I see all the scribes emphasise the fact that a woman has yet to win the Derby. However that may be, Lady James Douglas won the Derby in 1918 with Gainsborough. This was a War Derby and run at Newmarket. Even so, it was the Derby of that year. In this year's race Miss Paget, one of the woman owners, is having her colours carried by what sounds to me (without the book) as an Irish-bred colt. This is Ormstead, by Felstead, the winner of 1928. Ormstead's dam is Orby Lass—evidently a descendant of another Derby winner, the late Mr. Richard Croker's Orby.

Fairway's Progeny

Taj Akbar, the Derby favourite, whose owner, the Aga Khan, and the public obviously hope will win the Derby of 1936, is by Fairway from Taj Shirin. Fairway has also sired Pay Up, Lord Astor's colt, who is out of Book Debt, as well as Major Courtauld's Walvis Bay. Fairway, although he won the Leger, let his connections down in the Derby when he started favourite for his race in his year. It was said that he was a horse who disliked crowds, and, naturally, the vast crowd at Epsom on Derby Day must have an adverse effect on a horse with any kind of temperament. Fairway did not run in the Guineas, as he was withdrawn from the race, as far as I remember, on the eve of the race. After his defeat in the Derby, however, he won the Eclipse, and, despite his whims and the fact that he is by Phalaris—said to be a "non-stayer"—Fairway has always been held in high estimation as a classic sire.

Lord Carnarvon

As the owner of His Grace—a Blandford colt in the Derby—Lord Carnarvon will be one of those to figure prominently in the public eye this week. Lord Carnarvon is an interesting owner. He is the son, I believe, of the Lord Carnarvon who devoted much thought to Egyptology, and who was in the front page headlines some years ago in connection with the discovery of Tut-ank-Amen's tomb. The present Lord Carnarvon, who is now about 38, devotes his time to racing, hunting, polo and shooting, and lives in Highclere Castle, in that very sporting district of Newbury. He has ridden as an amateur with some success, I believe; and, although he does not come to Ireland, he often purchases Irish-bred horses. Of course, His Grace is not among the stars for next week's race; but in racing the "extra" often steals the show.

"Burke's"

Having occasion recently to refer to a copy of "Burke's Peerage," I was reminded how few people realise that this valuable work of reference is the work of an Irishman. John Burke, in whose mind the idea of the compilation originated, was born in Tipperary. Although he was the eldest son of the house, by a family conference the estates were willed to a younger son, and John went to London to find work as a journalist. His brief career in journalism was not notably successful, and he settled down to devote his researches to genealogy. In 1826 he issued the first copy of his "Genealogical and Heraldic Dictionary of the Peerage and Baronetage of the United Kingdom," and, after several other editions had been printed, it was organised as an annual publication. Finding that his work was in great demand, not only for the study of heraldry, but as a reference book, he produced "The Landed Gentry," and followed that by starting a journal of genealogy called "The Patrician." This venture was not successful, and after his death his son continued editing only "The Peerage" and "The Landed Gentry." This son, John Bernard Burke, was appointed Ulster King of Arms, and, after receiving his knighthood in 1854, returned to Ireland as keeper of the State Papers in Ireland and one of the directors of the National Gallery.

Another son, Peter, became a barrister, and, perhaps, due to his father's prestige among the nobility, represented various members of the peerage in trials before the House of Lords. Finding the family urge to write too strong, however, he deserted legal practice, and produced a book which caused great consternation and surprises among his former clients, as the book was entitled "Celebrated Trials connected with the Aristocracy in their Relations of Private Life."

An Irishman's Idea

"Dod's Parliamentary Companion," in its various editions, was also the idea of an Irishman. Charles Rogers Phipps Dod was born in Drumlease, Co. Leitrim, in 1793, and, going to London as a journalist, found himself greatly handicapped by lack of a ready guide to political personages. He was appointed by the London Times to cover the reports of parliamentary debates, and evolved the idea of making a concise summary of the more notable figures in public life. He is said to have been so expert in his work, with such a minute knowledge of personalities, that once, called upon during a holiday to compose the obituary of a famous statesman, he was able to write it from memory during a train trip, and hand it to the printer upon his arrival in London, adding to it only three dates which he had to verify. Before his death in 1855 the "Parliamentary Companion" and its pocket edition had also become annual publications.

MOTOR NOTES

RACES PAST AND TO COME

Cork's Respectability : Bangor and Tallaght Prospects : Limerick Looks Good : Isle of Man Field : Germany and Ireland

BY HAROLD C. BROWN

CORK does not call for the same sort of post mortem as we held upon the Limerick race last year. One of the reasons is that everything to be said about the race seems to have been said.

After the Limerick race newspaper people has a terrific rush. Reports had to be written with great haste and flung to the post office telegraphists almost without revision in order that they should appear in all the editions of Tuesday. Then, when we saw our stuff in print, we realised that there were omissions.

Cork's race being on a Saturday, there was time to reflect upon it all during that evening and on Sunday morning. All the loose ends were tucked in when the reports were written.

I have the desire to say all sorts of nice things about the race, but I feel that it is so unnecessary, for by this time everyone interested in motoring, whether or not he was at Cork, must be aware that the event was quite the best thing of its typo that Ireland yet has known.

Limerick last August really amazed us all, it was so perfect. We were prepared for Cork, knew what to expect, and geared down our enthusiasm to avoid any journalistic fireworks.

Socially

SOME of the lads had expected Cork to be rather "hotter" socially than it turned out to be. They expected a repetition of Limerick's wonderful week-end. Well, it just did not happen.

I think the eminent respectability of Cork was due to the fact that everyone took the race so seriously, and also to the fact that everyone had a job of work to do. There was not the "break" that Sunday provided in Limerick.

The Racing Club's principal officials, the industrious Niall MacNeill and Desmond Scannell, seemed to be tied to the race office; while I.M.R.C. discipline now is so strict that the rest of the club directors, in a Pickwickian sense, were positively scared to go too far from barracks in case they should have to do a fatigue or report to the orderly room next morning.

At Limerick the party remained a party from Saturday afternoon till Tuesday morning, but they tended to spread at Cork—to cinemas, dances, cafés and other hotels. Yet there was some fun. I have recollections of "Hoi!" and "Taxi" being shouted for no particular reason; and there seemed to be agreement that no other part of Ireland—not even Belfast—has such a wealth of beautiful women as Cork.

One thing, however, I did not like, and that was my hotel bill.

Afterthought

I WAS going to leave the Cork race at that but on second thoughts I think it would scarcely be fair to do so. There are a few bouquets that should be presented.

One is to the Free State soldiers who helped with the marshalling. I heard them praised highly, particularly the sergeant-major who was on duty near the pits.

There were few opportunities of meeting the members of the Cork Race Committee, they were working so hard. Ivor Horgan, however, seemed to make a splendid chief marshal, while Messrs. Whitaker and Bryce laboured like Trojans. There were others whose names I did not hear, but who, no doubt, did their jobs with enthusiasm and efficiency.

Men like R. H. Wright and S. T. Robinson were in the thick of it, and it would be a bit late in the day to write of how they always perform their respective pieces of work.

When one reflects upon these and all the other fellows who were behaving so splendidly in the interests of the sport it is impossible to be indifferent or to pretend to be blasé.

And the assistance given by the Ford factory, with accommodation for the scrutiny, the use of the workshops, and the loan of cars, was just wonderful.

The Future

NEXT Irish race is the County Down Trophy, which is to be held on the Bangor course on 20th June. Entries close to-day at single fees, but the final list will not be available until next month. The Ulster Automobile Club is satisfied that the race will be even better than last year's—and last year the only fault was that the handicap rather favoured the slower cars.

Entries for the Leinster Trophy, which is to be held on 18th July, close on the evening of the Bangor race—which means that some people will do nothing about Tallaght until they are quite certain that they will have a complete motor after the County Down affair. The Leinster Club is making the chief appeal of its race to the young amateur driver. While entries from the more famous cross-Channel drivers will be welcomed, it is not for such primarily that the race is being run.

Then Limerick, on 3rd August. Already Prince Birabongse and the Duke of Grafton have entered. There are half a dozen other early 'cross-Channel entries, and it is safe to say that this will be, so far as "class" is concerned, the race of the year. It has the title of Grand Prix, and is Ireland's priority event on the International calendar.

Next Week

ON Thursday next the Royal Automobile Club's International 1,500 c.c. Race takes place in the Isle of Man, replacing the Mannin Moar and Mannin Beg events. Entries total twenty-six, and include two Irishmen—L. R. Briggs and P. M. Dwyer. Unfortunately, it is just possible that Dwyer's Alta may not be ready. What are the Alta people doing?

Rayson, Manby Colegrave, Tongue and "Bira," who drove at Cork, will be competitors; also Goodacre, who drove in the Park, and Fairfield, who drove at Limerick. The list is as follows:—

E.R.A. (S.)—P. G. Fairfield, C. Paul, W. G. Everitt, R. Mays, Marcel Lehoux, Lord Howe, "B. Bira," R. E. Tongue, T. H. Wisdom, G. F. A. Manby Colegrave.
Alta (S.)—J. H. Bartlett, P. M. Dwyer, A. J. Cormack, J. P. Wakefield.
Austin (S.)—L. P. Driscoll, C. J. P. Dodson, C. L. Goodacre.
M.G. (S.)—L. R. Briggs, H. Williams.
Rapier Special (S.)—R. H. Eccles.
Frazer Nash (S.)—P. F. Jucker.
Bugatti—T. K. Humber.
Maserati (S.)—E. K. Rayson, C. Kautz.
Riley (S.)—F. W. Dixon.
Delage (S.)—R. J. B. Seaman.

Flagging in R. E. Tongue, the winner of the Cork Motor Race.

Motor Cycle T.T.

THERE are six Irishmen in the motor cycle Tourist Trophy entry lists. They are:—Stanley Woods, with Velocettes in the Junior and Senior and a works D.K.W. in the Light-weight; C. H. W. Manders and H. G. Tyrell Smith, with Excelsiors in Light-weight and Junior; M. Barrington, with a Vincent-H.R.D. in the Senior; C. W. Johnson, with a Cotton in the Light-weight; and W. F. Rusk, with Nortons in Junior and Senior.

A description of the R.A.C. race in the Isle of Man on Thursday will be broadcast from the North Regional Station at 1.45 p.m., 2.45 p.m., 5 p.m. and 5.25 p.m.

The races take place on 15th, 17th and 19th June, and the total entry at single fees is 82. Others, however, are expected. Probably the best race will be the Light-weight, and as it takes place on the Wednesday there is plenty of time to get back to Ireland for the County Down Trophy.

Stanley Woods won last year's Light-weight on an Italian Moto-Guzzi. With the exception of the Guzzi the German D.K.W. is now probably the fastest light-weight in the world. You may remember how easily Arthur Geiss won his class in Ulster last year, notwithstanding long stops to change plugs. A few weeks ago he won the 250 c.c. Class of the Barcelona Grand Prix, and was second in the Swiss Grand Prix, his conqueror at Berne being Tenni on a Guzzi.

In the Light-weight T.T. the D.K.W. team will be Woods, Geiss and Steinbach. They will have to face a great challenge from British machines, with Excelsiors strongest both in numbers and in hopes. As Manders and Tyrell Smith will have two of the fastest of the Excelsiors, the race will have quite a Germano-Irish flavour.

Chicanes

LIMERICK is the only Irish race in which chicanes—barriers to form artificial bends—are used, but they have a definite advantage on that course, slowing the competitors where it might be dangerous for them to go as fast as the road's appearance tempts them to. Exactly to what extent speed restrictions should be used in a race is a matter which the organisers, as a rule, are best able to judge for themselves.

Writing about the use of tortuous courses for modern Grand Prix races, the Autocar says:—"Obviously, there is something wrong, when, after the best brains of the designing staff have been engaged in evolving a car which, within the limits set by the regulations, shall be the fastest machine of its type, the car produced by them has to race on a circuit where corner follows corner so closely that the powers possessed by it cannot be displayed.

"Of late it has even been considered necessary to introduce artificial bends, or chicanes, on any part of the course which otherwise would allow real speed, thus making the circumstances of the race still more artificial. Actually, another danger is added, since a chicane is extremely hard to judge in comparison with a genuine corner on the road.

"The ideal circuit is surely one in which a series of interesting corners, including bends which can be taken really fast, precedes a long straight, on which very high speed, indeed, can be accomplished—a circuit, for example, like that at Le Mans. On such a course the cars can fulfil their destiny, the skill of the drivers comes into play to the utmost, and—which is important—it is comparatively easy for one machine to pass another. On the modern circuit the passing difficulty alone has been known to affect the results of the race unfairly."

Does not Cork approach to the Autocar's ideal?

Leinster Notes

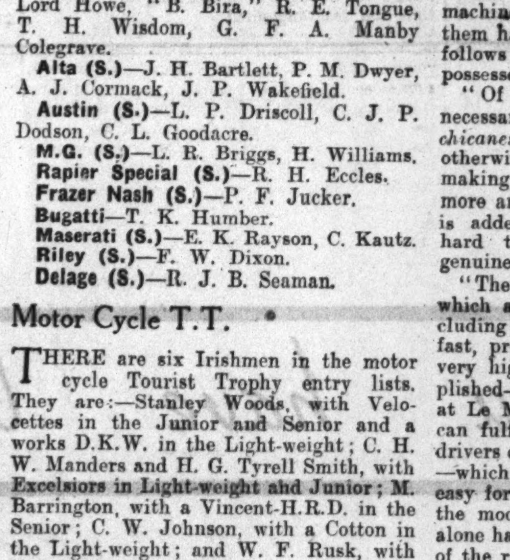

ON Whit week-end the Leinster Club is to hold a tour, from Dublin to Mallaranny, Co. Mayo. Dublin departure, 3 p.m., 30th May; tea, Athlone; half-hour's halt, Claremorris; at Mallaranny from night of 30th to morning of 1st June; lunch, Monday, at Clifden; tea at Salthill; halt at Athlone; arrive home, 11.15 p.m. Cost 35s., excluding lunch and tea on Sunday, per person.

Mr. M. G. Beglan, who has been secretary of the Leinster Club for some years, is, I understand, resigning that post. So far rumour has not named a successor.

Probably the regulations for the Leinster Trophy Race will be available by the time these notes appear in print. There is no radical change from last year, except that practising will be in the evenings. Prize money totals something around £180.

EMPIRE DAY, which was celebrated yesterday, was made an occasion for the first broadcast of Rudyard Kipling's works. To-day the London Children's Hour will give their first broadcast of the famous "Just-So Stories," the first being "The Elephant's Child." In the same programme Stuart Robertson will sing some of the "Just-So" songs, set to music by Edward German. Now that the ban on broadcasting Kipling's works has been lifted, listeners may expect frequent and varied examples of the author's poems and stories to come on the air.

An Empire Day programme for young people in which Sir William Wayland, Chairman of the Empire Day Movement, will speak is arranged for 11 this morning (National). At 4.30, on the same wavelength, there will be an exchange of greetings between Captain D. Euan Wallace, M.C., M.P., Secretary to the Department of Overseas Trade, and His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Wauchope, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., High Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief in Palestine and Transjordania.

"Liebelei," by Arthur Schnitzler, translated from the German by P. Morton Shand, and adapted for the microphone by Marianne Helweg, was broadcast last June, the revival of the play may be heard to-night, and again to-morrow night, when it will be repeated. The story passes in Vienna before the War. Carol Goodner makes a perfect Mizi as chief character.

A colourful word picture of the hill of Epsom on Derby Day, which will serve to set the scene for listeners on Wednesday next, may be expected from Phillip Allingham. He will describe the sidelines which go to make the famous picture. Philip Allingham, who belongs to the fair ground, has written books on this aspect of life and has given many vivid broadcasts on the subject (Regional 9.15).

Geraldine Dillon will speak on Joseph Plunkett to-night in the Great Irishmen Series at 8.45, and H. F. Brennan commences a series of talks on swimming at 7.55, taking "Swimming as an exercise and a means of saving life" as the first subject (Radio Athlone).

LAST YEAR'S DERBY DRAW ECLIPSED

BIGGER PRIZE FUND : INCREASED SUM FOR HOSPITALS

EIGHTY-TWO HORSES : TWELVE PRIZE UNITS

DESPITE the fact that the period between the Grand National and the Derby this year was shorter by eleven days than last year's interval between the two races, the authorities of the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstakes were able to announce at the opening of the draw in the Mansion House on Saturday that the Derby "Sweep" of 1936 had not only equalled that of last year, but had beaten it handsomely:—

DERBY PRIZE FUND, 1936	£1,253,375
DERBY PRIZE FUND, 1935	£1,204,538
Increase	£48,837

CONTRIBUTION TO NATIONAL HOSPITAL TRUSTEES INCREASED BY £23,126.

The total number of prizes was 3,178, as against a total of 2,870 for the Derby Sweepstake of 1935. In last year's Derby draw there were eleven prize units of £100,000 each: this year there were twelve such units. The race prizes had increased from 880 to 984.

The draw for the 82 horses ended on Saturday afternoon. The draw for the ten residual prizes of £5,337 10s. 0d. each, and the 1,200 cash prizes of £100 each, will commence to-day.

By a Special Representative.

A FEW faint smiles, a vague tittering, a gentle murmur of approbation, a soft rumble of applauding feet—yes, it was an apathetic audience, indeed, that assisted on Saturday at the eighteenth Irish Hospitals' Sweepstake draw at the Mansion House, Dublin.

Scarlet, yellow and green sea serpents, seals and fish, specially imported from the coastal waters of the Never Never Land, swam before their eyes in the charmingly absurd setting. A gay King Neptune, one giant eye set in a cheery wink, grinned at them from over the stage. Mermaidenly mixing girls, shimmering with gorgeous, scaly costumes, invited admiration.

The audience remained very solemn.

Viscount Powerscourt (Chairman of the Trust), his voice weak from his recent illness, had his little jokes. Angling for a laugh, he boasted of the Sweepstake prize fish "that weighs £30,000," and of the £100 consolation "sardines." He said that it was paradoxical that, though the draw ceremony was in that marine setting, there was positively "nothing fishy" about it.

The audience was not noisily amused.

The boringly efficient officials, the disinterested, patient nurses, the unexcitable pressmen, the hundreds of people who obviously had seen it all before, or had worked out arithmetically the remoteness of their chances, seemed to have spoiled the colourful nonsense with their dull commonsense.

"Whether we lose or whether we win," appealed Viscount Powerscourt, "let us do so with good cheer and a bright heart." He expressed his conviction that the Sweepstakes had done good far outweighing anything on the opposite side of the scale.

The audience agreed inaudibly, and then listened politely while the Deputy Lord Mayor (Dr. Myles Keogh) offered ten thousand welcomes to the visitors who had been drawn to Ireland.

So uncannily successful has been the operation of the "Sweep" and so wide is its reputation that Mr. Jack O'Sheehan's usual announcement: "The prize money for this draw exceeds that for the previous draw by ———," went apparently unnoticed, too. By the way, the excess over the Derby, 1935, prize fund was £50,000, and in the Hospitals' Fund over £24,000, despite the fact that there were only five working weeks available for running this year's sweep.

THE "JEREMIAHS"

Then, Mr. O'Sheehan had his little "crack" at the "perpetual Jeremiahs," who have for a long time been prophesying the imminent collapse of the Irish Sweep. The audience chuckled feebly. The hundreds of brilliant lamps, the heat, the atmosphere of the well-accustomed ceremony began to depress me; I closed my eyes. Mr. O'Sheehan's voice said that he had calculated that since the Irish sweeps began £31,812,817 had been given in prizes. A dispirited baby in the crowded audience cried out and was instantly "shushed."

"And the Hospitals' Fund totals £9,618,186," continued Mr. O'Sheehan, unperturbed. Nine million pounds and a baby's yowl! Only then I considered the unseen audience—the really important draw audience—babies, to whose birth the sweep has brought better circumstances than poor mothers could know before its millions gave new hospitals; out-patients queuing up at extern departments admiring more comfortable, more efficient looking rooms. I saw men busy in Irish laboratories seeking cures for the as yet incurable; surgeons, physicians, radiologists, and dispensers working more happily in improved hospitals; grey-haired hospital matrons walking contentedly through new, airy, well-equipped buildings; nurses in the pleasanter homes, to which unselfish service, mean pay and difficult work entitle them. I saw a million patients in Irish hospitals progressing much more favourably than would have been possible without the aid of, say, "Four Wise Guys" (Chapel Hill, Cork), "Three Mugs" (Europe), "Ras Kassa" (British Guiana), "Wong Fok Chew" (65th Street, N.Y.), and "Susan M. James," (Hadlyme, Connecticut).

Then the dashing little messengers began to fling sweep results, hot from the drum, on the table before me. I recollected my wits and was encompassed once more by the huge, buzzing, clicking, smooth-moving, sweep machine.

GOOD DONE BY THE SWEEPSTAKES

LORD POWERSCOURT'S BELIEF

The speeches which preceed the draw in the Mansion House on Saturday were commendably brief and to the point. In introducing Lord Powerscourt, Mr. O'Sheehan, Director of the draw had referred to his recent illness, and his lordship was greeted with a round of applause on rising to speak.

He said that during the past six years they had 18 sweepstakes, and the success of every one had been little short of miraculous. They were going ahead steadily under Government supervision towards an end which, if achieved, would make them the only country in the world which had achieved that object.

Every person who had bought a ticket in each sweepstake since they began had paid £2 towards a fund for the relief of the sick poor. He was convinced that the good the sweepstakes had done outweighed everything on the opposite side of the scales.

Alderman Dr. Myles Keogh, Deputy Lord Mayor, who attended in the unavoidable absence of the Lord Mayor, who was in England, said that whatever else they might agree to differ about, every Irishman and woman was justly proud of the fame of the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstakes, and of the success which had attended them.

"This success is no mere accident," he said. "It is the result of Irish genius backed by hard work and the untarnished honesty of those who planned and directed these draws for the primary purpose of assisting the sick and suffering in our hospitals."

MORE TRADE FOR BRITAIN

Drastic tariff increases and a licensing system on a wide range of foreign goods designed to divert a million pounds of Australia's purchases to Britain, are features of a new trade policy announced in the Commonwealth House of Representatives by Sir Henry Gullett, Minister without Portfolio, says Reuter. The policy will affect mainly the United States and Japan. It is designed to divert some £2,290,000 worth of Australia's import trade from "indifferent" customers to British and other good customers of Australian goods.

"MURDER IN THE CATHEDRAL"

Mr. E. Martin Browne, who is producing "Murder in the Cathedral" at the Gate Theatre this week, will give a lecture on the play on Wednesday afternoon at University College. The following afternoon he will lecture to the members of the Dublin University Dramatic Society.

On Thursday night the play will be broadcast from the theatre.

TENEMENTS IN DUBLIN

FOURTEEN PERSONS IN ONE ROOM

MR. W. BLACK, K.C. (Chairman) presided at the sitting of the Town Tenants' Tribunal in the Circuit Court, Chancery place, Dublin, on Saturday.

Mr. William Richardson, Secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association, who was present, said that he wished to give evidence.

The Chairman said that he had received a memorandum from him about converting Corporation houses into shops. He asked how that came within the terms of reference of the Tribunal.

DAMAGING PROPERTY

Mr. Richardson said that there were other matters that he had wished to bring before the Tribunal. He wanted to show how people living in houses in the city, as soon as they thought that there were Corporation houses available, smashed up property where they lived, so that their case for possession of the new houses would appeal all the stronger.

The Chairman told him that he could submit a further memorandum dealing with this matter, as it was not referred to in the one submitted.

Mr. Herman Good, solicitor, on behalf of the Irish Tenants' Protection Society, said that it was the intention of the Society to submit evidence to show that, not only was it desirable to have in force the present Rent Restriction Act, but that further laws and regulations should be passed to protect the tenants against being charged exhorbitant rents. The Society had a large membership, and had been instrumental in having a large number of cases brought before the Courts, in which rents, charged by landlords, were reduced.

HIGH RENTS

Mr. F. J. Scott, T.C., Dublin, stated that the greatest hardship existed in the old residential areas of the north city, Mountjoy square, Eccles street and Blessington street, where property was being converted into tenements, which were not under the control of legislation. In those houses, rents of 12s. 6d. to 14s. 6d. were charged for one room.

The Chairman said he thought it would be found that most of those houses were controlled and came within the scope of the Rent Restrictions Act.

The witness stated that he believed that these high rents were charged because houses were not controlled and because of the competition which existed for housing accommodation. He knew of one tenement where there were fourteen members of a family living in one room. It would take a number of years before the Corporation would have reached a point when they could relieve all the people living in the slums. From 1922 to 1931 3,500 Corporation houses were erected, and from 1932 to 1936 4,618 houses were built. At present the Corporation had 15,000 applicants unprovided with houses. Without taking into consideration the growing population and the migration from the country, it would take at least ten years before the Corporation would have reached any satisfactory position with regard to houses.

The time would come, Mr. Scott declared, when the Corporation would have to give houses free of rent to people who had no money and were in bad circumstances. At the present rate of progress the existing tenement system of dwellings must continue for at least another decade.

FAST SPEEDS ON GRASS

DUBLIN MOTOR CYCLE MEETING

Speeds approaching thirty miles an hour on a grass track, that was at times slippery after showers, had the inevitable result of producing many falls at the meeting of the Dublin and District Motor Cycle Club at Windy Arbour, Dundrum, on Saturday. Fortunately none of them was serious, though one rider was rendered unconscious and had to be removed to hospital.

The handicaps were framed from a Graham Leask and T. Carroll, but neither of them rode as steadily as at the earlier meeting at this venue. After making a disappointing show in the handicap events, A. E. G. Moore rode brilliantly to win the scratch race from J. J. O'Neill. The latter secured the 350 c.c. class handicap, and O. Sheridan won the 500 c.c. class event, as well as securing the unlimited capacity handicap for standard tyred machines. Results :—

350 c.c. Handicap—J. J. O'Neill (Levis), 8 secs., 1; R. Kenny (Royal Enfield), 3 secs., 2; T. Phillips (A.J.S.), 10 secs., 3. Won easily. Time—3 mins. 16 secs.

500 c.c. Handicap—O. Sheridan (Sunbeam), 10 secs., 1; J. J. O'Neill (Levis), 6 secs., 2; E. I. Gibson (Triumph), 8 secs., 3. Won by two lengths. Time—3 mins. 14 secs.

Unlimited Capacity Handicap (standard tyres)—O. Sheridan (Sunbeam), 8 secs., 1; D. Ewen (Matchless), 6 secs., 2. Won by three lengths. Time—3 mins. 21 secs.

Unlimited Capacity Handicap (competition tyres)—E. Lyons (A.J.S.), 11 secs., 1; E. I. Gibson (Triumph), 11 secs., 2; A. E. G. Moore (Royal Enfield), 4 secs., 3. Won very easily. Time—3 mins.

Obstacle Race—A. E. G. Moore.

Unlimited Capacity (scratch)—A. E. G. Moore (Royal Enfield), 1; J. J. O'Neill (Levis), 2; P. Gill (Ariel), 3. Moore took the lead at the start and held it throughout. Time—2 mins. 55 secs.

THE UNITY OF THE CHURCH

VITAL ELEMENT OF DOCTRINE

YESTERDAY in Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, there was special intercession for unity in the Church of Christ. The preacher at Morning Service was the Rev. R. R. Hartford, B.D., Acting Archbishop King's Professor of Divinity. Taking as text St. Paul's words: "Speaking the truth in love may grow up into Him in all things" (Ephesians iv., 15), the preacher said that the Second World Conference on Faith and Order would meet in Edinburgh next year, and Irish Churchmen should make the Conference a subject for continual and earnest prayer. What contribution, he asked, could they make towards the restoration of Christian unity? Let them remember that whatever contribution they made they made as members of a great world-wide body, the Anglican communion. It was to the initiative of one of the sister Churches in that communion that they owed the first World Conference on Faith and Order, and clearly their Church had a special contribution to make to the second.

Their contribution must be a strong and resolute witness to the principle that a true unity of the Church is impossible apart from unity of doctrine. The questions to be asked were not questions about social ideals or similarity of religious experience, but rather questions about truth. The unity which God wills for the Church is a unity of faith. Therefore, we must state how much of our own distinctive Church system is vital. We must put the whole question of the unity of the Church on a higher level than that of expediency.

RATHMINES FEIS AWARDS

MINISTER ON THE IRISH LANGUAGE

"I do not think that the trouble in the future lies in the fact that we are going to have active opposition, but will be due to the fact that we have a large number of people in the country who are not opposed to the revival of the Irish language, but will, themselves, do very little to advance it," said Mr. Thomas Derrig, Minister for Education, yesterday, in declaring open the Rathmines Feis.

The festival, which is the first annual event of its kind in Rathmines, will continue for a week, with an entry list totalling 4,500, and offering thirty-three cups to be won.

Very Rev. Canon Fleming, P.P., Rathmines, who presided, mentioned that the new Bernadette Hall had cost £2,000, of which £500 had been contributed by the Archbishop of Dublin.

"EMPIRE DAY" IN ITALY

RIFLES FOR CHILDREN

"ASSURANCES" FOR BRITAIN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Sunday.

"WE are preparing for the defence of our Empire the young armies of to-morrow, and since they are animated by the Fascist spirit they will be invincible."

In these terms Signor Mussolini explained to the crowd assembled to hear his speech from the balcony of the Palazzo Venezia the significance of the parades of Fascist youth which took place in all towns throughout Italy to-day.

"The spectacle of strength and youth you have seen this morning on the anniversary of our entry into the Great War, which was the first phase of the Fascist revolution, has been magnificent, and is, at the same time, a warning."

The ceremony began with the handing of their rifles to the newly-enrolled Balillas, who are boys of 14.

TO REMAIN IN THE LEAGUE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

Mussolini is ready to give Britain "all possible assurances" that her East African possessions and Egypt will not be touched, according to an interview granted by the Duce to a correspondent of L'Intransigeant.

"If Britain asked you to give your solemn guarantee not to touch her East African possessions or Egypt in return for material, if not formal recognition of Italian Abyssinia, would you be ready to give such assurance?" asked the Duce's interviewer.

"I ask nothing of Britain. I am ready to give her all possible assurances," was the Duce's reply.

Mussolini assured his interviewer that Italy desired to remain in the League.

"Do you foresee Italy being compelled to leave the League of Nations?" he was asked.

Mussolini replied :—"I have remained hitherto, and hope to remain, in the League in future; but our subsequent presence and collaboration must not be rendered impossible. It is time to descend from the clouds of metaphysics, and recognise realities and facts, which are definite and favourable to the development of European civilisation.

"How do you envisage military and economic organisation of Abyssinia? Will you seek the aid of foreign capital?" were other questions.

"Veiled military occupation, based principally on aviation," was the Duce's reply to the first question.

"As for the aid of foreign capital," he added, "the question does not arise to-day."

BRITON RELEASED

Mr. L. J. Bunner, the London man attached to the British Red Cross unit in Abyssinia, who was reported to have disappeared on a journey from Addis Ababa to the coast, has been released. This news reached London yesterday.

The British Red Cross authorities believe that he was a victim of mistaken identity. Mr. Bunner is now at Djibuti undergoing anirabies treatment.

EMPEROR'S JOURNEY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

JERUSALEM, Sunday.

The Emperor of Abyssinia is expected to reach England during the first week in June. H.M. cruiser Capetown, in which the Negus and his small party embarked at Haifa last night, should arrive at Gibraltar about May 29th.

The Emperor, who has spent a bare fifteen days in the Holy City, recuperating from the mental and physical strain of the war, is accompanied by his two sons, the Crown Prince and the Duke of Harar, the Princess Tsahai, the Imperial Secretary, Wolde Gorgis, and Ras Kassa, formerly one of the chief commanders of the Abyssinian forces in the north.

The Royal party is travelling with Abyssinian diplomatic passports, which are still valid, inasmuch as no country has yet recognised Italy's annexation of Ethiopia.

PLAIN CHANT

KEEN COMPETITION IN THURLES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

THURLES, Sunday.

"It is absolutely the most difficult job I have ever had as adjudicator, because the standard reached by all the choirs has been extraordinarily high," said Mr. Hubert Rooney, adjudicating the plain chant competition in Thurles to-day. Nine choirs from the Archdiocese of Cashel competed.

All the choirs got sufficiently high marks to secure a first place at any similar competition that he knew of, Mr. Rooney said. They should remember that the ultimate aim of these competitions throughout the country was to hear the singing of plain chant in all their churches. To promote the plain chant he urged the formation in every parish of Gregorian societies, by which the people as a body, and not the choir in particular, would sing their appropriate parts of the Mass. He paid a tribute to the Benedictine Order for their endeavours to restore plain chant.

The Cashel and Emly Cup and Dermot O'Hurley Shield were won by St. John Bosco's (Presentation Convent) Choir, Cashel.

LIMERICK CONTESTS

The Rev. Father Burke, adjudicating in the Plain Chant Competitions, which were held at St. John's Pavilion, Limerick, yesterday, expressed great pleasure at the high standard reached by the competing choirs. The progress in the singing of plain song in Limerick, he said, had reached remarkable heights.

He made a strong appeal for greater public encouragement in the singing of Church music.

Female Adult Choirs (cup presented by the Most Rev. Dr. Kane)—1, St. Michael's Church Choir; 2, St. Joseph's Church Choir.

Male Adult Choirs—1, St. Joseph's Church Choir; 2, Redemptorists Church Choir.

LEAGUE OF YOUTH CONGRESS

RESOLUTIONS TO BE SUBMITTED

Resolutions to be considered at the annual Congress of the League of Youth, which will begin to-morrow in the Imperial Hotel, Cork, include one from the Mid and South-East Cork branch, asking that immediate steps be taken "to formulate a definite working plan for the establishment of a corporate system best suited to the needs of the country in the event of Fine Gael being returned to power at the next general election."

Another resolution has been put forward by the Kilkenny divisional staff in the following terms :—"That this Congress requests the Fine Gael National Executive to consider the advisability of the re-formation of the Senate on corporate lines."

A resolution over the names of the Wexford unit states "that, when Fine Gael takes over the government of the country, legislation should be introduced setting up a national scheme of insurance, which will enable every working man to retire from work at the age of 65 on a decent pension." The same unit has put forward a resolution asking that a commission be set up to inquire into the working of the National Health Insurance scheme, as the present sickness benefit paid to workers "is totally inadequate."

The members of the Bruff district have put forward a resolution as follows :—"That this Congress condemns the section of the Irish Nationality and Citizenship Bill, whereby aliens are empowered to enter the country and grasp control of Irish industry."

TRANSPORT UNION

THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE

CREDIT BALANCE OF £104,688

"IT is up to the workers of this country to use all their power and force, both in industry and in the Dail, so that they may share in the profits and the prosperity which the bulk of recent legislation is bestowing upon Irish industry," said Senator Thomas Foran, President, Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, in his address to the delegates to the annual delegate conference yesterday.

Senator Foran said that no employer parted with anything because he thought it right or just or timely. In all cases he parted only when forced to part either by trade union action or by political action.

Big strides forward had been taken and big cash gains had been won by the workers during the year under review, but these were not enough. They would never have peace in industry, and the workers would never have their rights, until the whole present basis of society and the wage system were changed radically. In bringing about that change the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union would mobilise all its forces.

Senator Foran stressed the need for raising wages by union action. He said that under the tariff system this need must continue.

THE BUDGET

Referring to the Budget, he said that the Minister for Finance had been applauded for his business man's Budget, but he had given nothing worth while to the wage-earner.

Continuing, he said that some of the recently converted would-be leaders of the Irish working class, outside the trade union movement, had been telling them how to fight, but these people had nothing they could teach the front-line fighters of trade unionism. They had neither responsibility nor a working-class industrial and political tradition behind them, and all their attempts to gain a rank and file following among the working masses had been inevitably vain and futile.

He added that the only effect people of this kind had upon the workers was to weaken them in the face of their class enemy. In the interests of the workers as a whole, the union was bound to oppose these tendencies.

Senator Foran then dealt with Labour activities on the political field. He said that after several years' agitation they had secured an undertaking that the Dail would legislate in favour of an Agricultural Wages Board for farm workers. These workers were now the most depressed and worst treated wage-earners in the country—a state of affairs which was a disgrace in what was primarily an agricultural State.

THE NEW ACT

He said that by the week-end the Conditions of Employment Act would be in operation. It had its defects, but its merits were neither few nor little. In a short time the principle of that Act, which now applied only to industrial employment, would be extended by legislation to other forms of employment, and the members of the union would stand to gain both in earnings and in conditions. Where the working week was reduced there would be no fall in wages.

Senator Foran referred, in conclusion, to the Labour summer school, which is to be run jointly by the Labour Party and the Trade Union Congress. He said that this had been the union's suggestion, and he urged the delegates to impress upon the members that they must educate that they might be free.

The conference opened at the union headquarters, 35 Parnell square, Dublin, last Saturday night, and was continued yesterday.

Following Senator Foran's address, Mr. William O'Brien, general secretary, submitted the annual report. The report indicated that the progress of 1933 and 1934 had been steadily maintained in the year under review. The increase in membership, organisation and industrial activity was on a scale comparable to the most strenuous period in the union's history.

REMITTANCES

During the year the remittances from branches totalled £23,531, an increase of £4,191 upon the previous year. The report pointed out that the increase under this heading had been substantial over a period of four years. The total income for the year was £27,482, and there was a surplus of £892 on the year's working, notwithstanding the payment of £15,509 during the year in dispute benefit alone. The union's credit balance at the end of the year was £104,688.

The conference will be continued this morning.

In addition to Senator Foran, Senators T. Kennedy, vice-president T. Farren and M. Duffy were present at yesterday's meeting. Deputies J. Everett, Wicklow; T. J. Murphy, West Cork; and J. Pattison, Carlow-Kilkenny, also attended.

BISHOP FOGARTY'S WARNING

THE CRAZE FOR PLEASURE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

NENAGH, Sunday.

AT Borrisokane to-day the Most Rev. Dr. Fogarty, Bishop of Killaloe, administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to 240 children from Borrisokane, Eglish and Kyle.

Addressing the congregation after last Mass the Bishop said that there was one danger in Ireland at the present time, and that was the danger of secularism. Secularism meant putting the world's riches and pleasures before God. It made its appearance in many ways, but last century it became widespread all over the Continent.

Laxity was creeping in. What was the cause? There was a whole lot of things operating at the present time. For instance, there was the change in dress and habits of women. One could not say it was a sin, but it was a loosening of the rivets. They had cut their hair and lost the robes of modesty of the Blessed Virgin.

Referring to the craze for pleasure, for dancing and racing in motor cars, the Bishop said that all these things were operating like a spray upon their minds, and leading gradually to the loosening and weakening of the profound reverence for God and God's Holy Will.

TERRORISTS ACTIVE

MORE TROUBLE IN PALESTINE

REPORTED DEATH OF SOLDIER

THE situation in Palestine grew more serious during the week-end. One British soldier, according to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, was killed when an Arab mob attempted to rush a prison at Nur-el-Shem.

Bands of armed terrorists are reported to be at large all over the country, firing at the police and troops and throwing bombs, recklessly destroying crops and cutting telegraph and telephone wires.

A Seaforth Highlander was slightly wounded in an ambush, and a company of armoured cars was fired on. The soldiers returned the fire, and the raiders were driven off. There are persistent rumours that an attack on the official residence of Sir Arthur Wauchope, the High Commissioner, is being planned.

Five prominent younger Arab leaders have been arrested, and under a new decree certain Arab leaders are confined to specified areas.

WARNINGS

"Black Hand" warnings to British troops, urging them not to walk in the streets "if life is precious to you," are said to have appeared at Nablus, 35 miles north of Jerusalem. The casualties in this city on Saturday night, when police fired on rioters, were given to-day in an official communiqué as two Arabs killed and four wounded.

The communiqué states that Arabs fired at the police from behind barricades in the streets and from the roofs of houses. The police were forced to retreat, but with the arrival of reinforcements restored order.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency also reports that police were forced to fire on an Arab crowd at Jaffa yesterday morning after orders to disperse had gone unheeded.

RAISING A LAUGH

AFTERNOON OUT WITH A COMEDIAN

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

IF you want to spend a quiet afternoon don't go out with a celebrity. Yesterday I made a mistake and went out with "Schnozzle" Durante and, apart from the laughs he gave me, it was what he would call a "tough toime."

Meeting him quietly in an ordinary room was just like meeting anyone else with a big nose, except that he found something to laugh at in everything—even the sea crossing from Holyhead. The fun started when we stepped out in the street to get into a car. I thought he would not be recognised. Mistake number one. It took fifteen minutes to bundle him through the autograph hunters and into the car.

Away we went down the quays towards Phœnix Park, and he told me something of his early life. His father was a barber, and he himself a lather boy who learned to play the piano. Lathering was not much fun, so he started "picking up bucks" in "caffays" as a variety "act." That was the first rung of the ladder to vaudeville fame which, in the United States, means the Palace Theatre on Broadway.

This is his first visit outside the United States, and he likes : (1) bacon and eggs; (2) "the folks"; (3) the Liffey and the Thames; (4) children, and (5) Phœnix "Poik."

"This is the second largest park in the world," I announced proudly as we swept through the main gates. The Park may be big, but from every nook and corner "the folks" came to meet "Schnozzle" as soon as he was spotted sniffing the flowers (for the benefit of the photographers). Somehow we reached the "Zoo," and I am sure that he deserves a percentage of the "gate money," if the crowd did pay to get in.

IN THE PELICAN'S CAGE

Once again he obliged the photographers—this time in the pelican's cage. I drew the line at going into the cage, and as "Schnozzle" approached the "boid" (bird) it backed away. "Come here, you're jealous," called "Schnozzle," dangling a fish before the bird and cocking his nose in the air.

Escaping was great fun. Durante was pushed into the car, I fell in on my knees, and the door was slammed after me. Total damage—one car window and two bruised knees. The driver was good, but six or eight cars came after us in pursuit up the "straight" in the Park, and we were forced to pull in for more autographs. At last we returned to town, and as he pushed his hat on the back of his head and grinned, he asked that famous question—

"Was I mortified?"

And he added the answer himself—"No. It was great! It's all a great 'gag.' In my film 'Hell Below' they made me fight a kangaroo. In my last stage show, 'Jumbo,' an elephant walked over me. Why? Just for a 'gag' to raise a laugh. Now I'm on holiday, playin' vaudeville and seein' the things I've been wantin' to see; so am I mortified? No!"

THE COUNTY CARLOW CAR ACCIDENT

INJURED MEN DOING WELL

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

Bagenalstown, Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Cosgrave, the well-known Dublin golfer, who was involved with three other men in the motor crash near Bagenalstown, County Carlow, last week, regained consciousness to-day, and is reported to be doing well.

Mr. G. Owens, who was also seriously injured, is also making satisfactory progress, while the remaining members of the party, Mr. A. Sullivan and Mr. E. McGowan, both of Skerries, County Dublin, are almost completely recovered.

The men were injured at about 5 a.m. last Thursday when the car in which they were travelling on the main road near Muine Bheag, skidded and crashed into a wall. All are well-known in golfing circles, and are members of Skerries Golf Club.

THEATRE ROYAL

An attractive array of Irish talent appeared on the Theatre Royal platform last night. Top of the bill were Jack Crosbie and Fay Markey with an amusing radio station act. Grace, Margaret and Marina did some smart tap-dancing and Mike Nono put over some good comedy. The clever monologues of Patrick Ryan were well received, and ballroom dancing by Morosini Whelan with partners held the general interest well.

Alban Chambers at the organ and Jimmy Campbell with the Theatre Royal orchestra provided special popular music befitting a good variety show.

The film, "The Murder of Dr. Harrigan," in the unusual setting of a hospital, completed the programme. Ricardo Cortez and Mary Astor are the principal players.

TWO IRISHMEN KILLED

Two men employed in the construction of a Falkirk reservoir were killed yesterday in a car crash on the main Edinburgh-Stirling road, near Winchburgh.

They were Hugh O'Donnell and Patrick O'Hagan, both Irishmen.

The saloon car in which they were travelling collided with a telegraph pole and somersaulted.

MYSTERIOUS COUNTY CORK AFFAIR

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BANDON, Sunday.

This evening five young men who, it is stated, arrived by motor car, entered the residence at Ballineen of Colonel J. J. Coughlan, who is a director for West Cork of General O'Duffy's party. It is stated that heated remarks ensued, in the course of which Michael Murphy, of Clonakilty, who was visiting the house with his four children, was, it is alleged, assaulted.

Colonel Coughlan, it appears, then threatened to proceed in his car to report the matter at Ballineen Civic Guard Barrack, whereupon the men left.

It was stated that the raiders' car was later traced to Drinagh, eight miles west of Dunmanway.

The police are making inquiries into the matter.

Italy and the Future

Yesterday, on the twenty-first anniversary of Italy's entry into the Great War, Signor Mussolini held one of those spectacular displays which have been found so useful to keep the enthusiasm of his countrymen at fever-heat. Parades of Fascist youths were held all over Italy, and in Rome the Duce, seated on a charger, and wearing the plumed helmet which is reserved for special occasions, took the salute from thousands of boys who in time will become a part of Italy's regular army. Several of his principal generals, and even a few Arabian chiefs who had come from Libya, also were in attendance, and the whole affair was on an even more elaborate scale than usual. Speaking afterwards from the balcony of the Palazzo Venezia, Signor Mussolini explained to the crowds below why so great a display had been made. The young men of fourteen, whose rifles had been ceremonially handed to them earlier in the day, were needed for the defence of the new Roman Empire. "The spectacle of strength and youth which you have seen this morning," announced the Duce, "has been magnificent, and is at the same time a warning." Italy had gone "straight ahead" in the Abyssinian affair, and the crowd was promised a similar policy in the future. Moreover, the armies of to-morrow would be invincible, because they would be filled with the spirit of Fascism. The boastings and the veiled threats are pardonable; for Italy still is intoxicated with the thought of a war in which her troops have won battles, but they reveal a rather dangerous condition of mind. The average Italian, we may be sure, does not give much consideration to the facts that the war was against primitive and ill-equipped soldiers, that the brunt of the fighting was borne by native troops, and that mustard gas earned the final victory. All he knows is that there was a victory, and he is encouraged to draw from it the conclusion that Italy's armies can get her anything she wants.

Signor Mussolini, it is true, reserves a rather different tone of voice for his remarks to other nations. In his interview with L'Intransigeant there is little of the fire of the oration at the Palazzo Venezia. He is working "with all his might," he says, to preserve peace, and he does not intend to leave the League of Nations unless circumstances make it impossible for him to stay. Italy's position within the League, indeed, may be one of some delicacy before long, and the time evidently has come for diplomacy. The "dum-dum" charges, although Italy was foolish enough to make them twice, have been withdrawn again in the interests of moderation. Chile is about to suggest to the Co-ordination Committee at Geneva that, "as a result of the latest developments which have brought the war to an end, it is opportune to lift the economic, financial and other measures decided upon in connection with the conflict." Obviously a tone of conciliation is needed if the League members are to approach this question in a favourable spirit, and there also will require to be a good atmosphere when an even more delicate question is brought before them—Italy's claim for formal recognition of her conquest in Africa, and her King's new title of "Emperor of Abyssinia." All these points, no doubt, are being borne in mind by Signor Mussolini, and he has not forgotten the special need to reassure Great Britain. A great deal of his statement to L'Intransigeant, indeed, is intended for British, rather than for French, ears. He is willing to give Great Britain "all possible assurances" that her East African possessions and Egypt will remain untouched, and he will not ask in return even that she should give formal or material recognition to an Italian Abyssinia. So far as he is concerned, he wants to make it quite clear that there is no threat to anybody's interests in Africa.

Unfortunately, Italy's seizure of Abyssinia is likely to upset Africa seriously, though it may be some years before the full effects begin to be seen. Already France is becoming worried about the future of Djibuti, which stands at the end of the railway line to Addis Ababa, and, up to the present time, has supported itself almost entirely on the trade with Abyssinia. Now, however, it is very probable that another railway will be built from the capital to an Italian port in Eritrea, and Italy will make sure that the bulk of the Abyssinian trade no longer is enjoyed by France. France will not lose her interest in Djibuti, for its strategic value to her is higher than ever, but she will not watch its commercial decay with complacent eyes. Again, Signor Mussolini has announced, logically enough, that an Italian Abyssinia must not be allowed to trade with the "sanctionist" countries, so that in any case most of her future commerce will be with Italy. These are only minor matters, however, compared with the general question of security in Africa, and the Duce's pledge to Great Britain is less reassuring than it is meant to be. Great Britain, however much she would like to believe the contrary, knows that an Italian Abyssinia is a potential threat. It would give Italy an added strength in the Mediterranean and in the Red Sea, and might make more difficult the task of keeping open the route to India. Moreover, in spite of Signor Mussolini's statement, there can be no guarantee that Italy, encouraged by her success, would not try to strengthen her position in Africa by intrigue. She might not seek—indeed, she hardly would dare—to extend her territories, but she very easily might begin to stir up discontent in Egypt or Palestine. There are many chances of trouble in Africa, though the most fruitful source of all is the growing resentment among the natives at the way in which Abyssinia has been left to her fate, and of that resentment the Duce is only one of the causes.

Flats

Everybody who is familiar with London must have noticed a new phenomenon in the city's life—namely, the growing popularity of block flats. These are not homes for the poor, like block flats in Dublin; they are designed, rather, for the wealthy and "well-to-do" classes, and their lay-out and equipment vary between the narrow extremes of luxury and substantial comfort. An excellent article in yesterday's Sunday Times calls attention to the phenomenon. So long ago as the 'eighties of last century, says Miss Grace Lovat Fraser, the author, London had its red-brick "mansions"; but it was not until the post-War period that the fashion of blocks of flats, laid out in the most modern fashion, became really widespread. These great buildings are not old houses, divided into sets of apartments; they are built expressly for their purpose, and the various flats which they contain are designed to provide the highest possible degree of spaciousness, airiness and comfort. What explains this new fashion in England, the most conservative and "home-loving" of nations? Much of it, we have no doubt, is due to the growing congestion of London. For all the splendid organisation of London transport, travel within the metropolis is a slow business, and the professional man and office worker prefer to live as closely as possible to the scene of their work. The upkeep of a house anywhere near the centre of London is a costly business, and incomes are not what they were before the War. Moreover, the separate house has lost many of its attractions. Families are small nowadays, and servants, when they can be obtained at all, expect substantial wages. The flat is the obvious solution; its rent may not be small, but it is far less than the rent of a house of corresponding amenities; it requires few servants, or none at all; it is modern, attractive and labour-saving. Nevertheless, to those people who have tried to justify Dublin's new blocks of flats by reference to the London phenomenon we would point out a few essential differences. First, the London flats are for the well-to-do, who can, and do, escape from the city for the whole of every week-end. Those which the Dublin Corporation has erected are for the poor, who have no such refuge from the smoke and smell of the city. Secondly, flats are a necessity to London, with her teeming life, her high ground-rents and her crowded streets. They are not a necessity in Dublin, where a modernised transport system could bring every house within a radius of ten miles into rapid communication with the city's centre. Thirdly, a system which suits the small, rich family in London will not suit the large, poor family in Dublin, whose chief desire is "a house for ourselves." London, with her population of millions, cannot expand further, unless communication is to become impossible. Dublin, a tiny city by comparison, has unlimited elbow-room at her disposal—and ought to use it before she makes any more experiments in congestion.

The "Sweep"

Although the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstakes have been in existence now for nearly six years, there seems to be very little diminution in their popularity. On Saturday it was announced in the Dublin Mansion House that no less than £2,063,556 had been subscribed for the eighteenth sweepstake of the series, in spite of the fact that the interval since the last event had been only slightly more than six weeks. Various reasons can be given to explain this remarkable success. The chief reason, of course, is the gambling instinct of the human race; but, in the case of the Irish sweepstakes, the general public throughout the world has placed its confidence in the gamble because it has become convinced of the absolute fairness of the draw and the integrity of the sweepstakes' organisers. We imagine also that, outside the Free State—just because there is an element of forbidden fruit about the whole business—the demand for tickets is greater than it would be if there were no ban on their sale. Men and women, after all, are contrary creatures. From the point of view of the Irish Free State, these sweepstakes are of threefold importance. In the first place, they have become virtually a national industry; they give fairly lucrative work to some three or four thousand girls, and the amount of consequential employment that they create is substantial. Secondly, they provide a comparatively large contribution to the National Exchequer—the present "sweep," for example, has yielded £125,991 in Stamp Duty—and the Minister for Finance has come to count on this novel source of revenue. By far the most important function of the sweepstakes, however, is their raison d'être—they provide funds for the Free State hospitals. They have acquired such a widespread popularity that, at times, the means assume a significance that seems to be greater than that of the end; but the fact is that the sweepstakes exist in order to create a fund for the hospitals, and that, so far, they have done very well. Some critics may argue that the proportion of the total money that goes to the hospitals is not very high—the present venture has produced £377,973 out of a sum of more than £2,000,000—but when it is remembered that the amount provided for the hospitals since the "sweeps" began comes to £9,618,180, their value to the hospitals will become apparent. Of course, they also have provided the sum of nearly £32,000,000 in prize money. When all is said and done, however, they are primarily a gamble—and the subscribing public must have its reward.

Food for Thought

In the considered opinion of Professor Wirz, it is not right for everybody to go round just eating what he likes. Eaters must consider the effect that every one of their lunches, dinners and teas is going to have upon the population. Professor Wirz, it is superfluous to explain, is a Nazi expert on health, or, more precisely, an expert on Nazi health. A few days ago he delivered this edict: That good Germans should eat plenty of dry bread, the more surely to stiffen the backbone and neck of the Aryan. Professor Wirz would like to see the Aryan shovel away four hundredweights of bread in the year; but let not the citizens of the Irish Free State stand aghast at the tyranny which forces unwanted dry bread down the neck of defenceless men, women and children. Professor Wirz, so far as lies in his power, is limiting the consumption of the average National-Socialist. If he raised his peak figure to eight hundredweights there would be room for complaint, and none for dry bread; but when the thing stands at four Germany can sit back and laugh. Regard the German eating day. The office worker takes a few rolls and a cup of coffee on rising to carry him through the journey to his labours. At his desk he completes all outstanding tasks, and then unparcels the sausage and cake. At noon he has a ponderous meal of soup loaded with dumplings, heaps of hot meat and a suet pudding. Throughout the afternoon he staves off starvation with heavy chocolate or pastry cakes. Towards evening, pinched and faint, he begins at the southern end of a tray of variegated cold meats, and emerges some time afterwards at the northern limit with his eyes protruding only very slightly. Then it is "down tools" until bed-time, but round about ten o'clock there is more coffee and Kuchen. ("Cakes" is an entirely inadequate description of the German bun.) Finally, lest the worker awake in the night numbed with the pain of hunger, a glass of milk, or a banana, or pretty well anything edible, is laid beside his couch. There will be a revolution if the four cwts. limit is enforced.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

MR. BALDWIN'S ROLE

The Times observes to-day in a leading article:—Mr. Thomas's resignation has provided the gossips with so much material during the week-end that it has rather overshadowed the Prime Minister's speech to his Conservative followers on the previous evening. Yet it is easy now to see that there was a close connection between these two events. The meeting of last Thursday with the Private Members' Committee, which is a normal occurrence, happened to coincide with one of those attacks upon Mr. Baldwin which recur at regular intervals, and on this occasion there was sufficient general dissatisfaction in the background to call for a fresh demonstration of leadership. It was commonly supposed, therefore, that he would seize the opportunity to make a formal defence to his critics, or, at any rate, to provide his supporters with an active policy to set against their criticism. In the event he seems to have ignored them altogether.

Every one who holds high office—certainly every one who has set a limit to his term of office—should be in a position to indicate his successor when he goes. To fail in that final duty is to admit failure in everything.

Mr. Baldwin has certainly made up his mind about his eventual successor, and therein he has shown more foresight than some former Prime Ministers. The danger is that, having made up his mind, he may come to sit too loosely to the responsibilities which he alone can still discharge and neglect opportunities of leadership which he could grasp far better than any of his colleagues.

It is commonly believed—and it is very much to be hoped—proceeds The Times, that he regards himself as entrusted with two main tasks to be fulfilled before he can conscientiously lay down his office. The first is to stand at the side of the Sovereign during the early months of a new reign. That belief is responsible, of course, for the popular view that the Coronation next year is intended as the limit of his term as Prime Minister; but there is no reason whatever to suppose that Mr. Baldwin has ever contemplated anything so precise. And the second task is to make some definite contribution to the appeasement of Europe, which means, first and foremost, so far as this country is concerned, the promotion of a better understanding with, and between, France and Germany.

CHARTERED SURVEYORS'

A meeting of the Irish Free State branch of the Chartered Surveyors' Institution was held at their Dublin offices, Captain W. Molony, vice-chairman, presiding in the unavoidable absence of the chairman (Mr. C. A. Fentum).

The Committee considered the report of a joint deputation of quantity surveyors and master builders to the Local Government Board regarding the employment of quantity surveyors by local authorities in building schemes in the Free State.

The re-appointment of standing sub-committees for the following matters were made: Examinations, Parliamentary bills, general purposes, quantity surveyors.

A number of proposals for transfer of professional associates to the Fellowship and for the enrolment of students were dealt with. It was announced that the following candidates were successful in the 1936 examinations:—

Morris and Kavanagh, quantity surveyors, 68 Harcourt street, Dublin; Mr. James Sheehan, assistant in the office of Mr. P. F. Coveney, quantity surveyor, Douglas, Cork.

BIG SCALE BATH

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

One hundred and ten people were thrown into the icy waters of the Yarra last night from a paddle launch which struck a submerged object in a fog. The panic-stricken passengers, who were returning from an excursion, struggled in the water for ten minutes. All scrambled ashore by themselves or were rescued.

LONDON LETTER

MR. BALDWIN'S PROBLEM

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The world of politics was humming yesterday with the news of the resignation of Mr. J. H. Thomas from the Colonial Secretaryship, and there were expressions of regret that he had thought it desirable to leave the Government, of which he has been so long a member. His departure provides Mr. Baldwin with a problem which he alone can solve. Until Friday there were fourteen Conservatives, four National Liberals and three National Labour members of the Cabinet; and Mr. Baldwin must decide whether he will replace Mr. Thomas with a Conservative or a National Labour member. His difficulty in this matter is all the greater, because there are only ten members of the latter party in the House of Commons, with two in the House of Lords—Lord de la Warr and Lord Sankey. Lord de la Warr is the only one of the twelve possessed of experience in departmental work; but he has not been in the Cabinet, and his promotion to a Secretaryship of State would probably evoke feelings of dissatisfaction among the Conservatives, many of whom think that the Cabinet should be composed of Conservatives only. Mr. Baldwin, however, is determined to retain the national character of the Government, and is most unlikely to depart from this determination if he can avoid doing so.

Mr. Thomas

Mr. J. H. Thomas and his son, Mr. Leslie Thomas, have disappeared into the blue; and the most sought for man in the country could not be traced yesterday. It is understood that he has taken refuge with his son at the manor house of a friend in a Sussex village, where he is taking a rest after the anxiety of the past few weeks. It seems that he has not been at the Colonial Office for some days, though he will go there to-morrow to clear up his office, say good-bye to his colleagues and collect his seals of office to take to Buckingham Palace. It is a little surprising that, while Mr. Thomas resigned on Wednesday last, the news was not made public until yesterday; and it was stated at the Government offices in the meanwhile that nothing whatever was known of his retirement. Some members of the House of Commons will endeavour to ascertain why there was such a delay in the announcement.

A Conservative Meeting

During the week-end a meeting of Conservative leaders is being held at the country house of Lord Winterton, and among those present are:—Sir Austen Chamberlain, Mr. Winston Churchill, Sir Henry Page Croft, and Sir Edward Grigg. It is scarcely surprising that such a gathering at such a moment has aroused much speculation among politicians, particularly as it has been noticed of late that Sir Austen Chamberlain and Mr. Churchill have been drawing closer together in their criticisms of the Government and its activities. To-morrow Lord Winterton is to ask the Prime Minister whether an opportunity will be given to the House of Commons to discuss the report of the Budget Tribunal after it has been published as a White Paper. To this query the Prime Minister will certainly reply in the affirmative, and Mr. Thomas, it is understood, has stated that he will be present during such a discussion, and make a personal statement.

The Education Bill

In the House of Commons this week the most important measure to come up for consideration is the Education Bill, on its Report stage and third reading, on Tuesday and Wednesday. During the earlier stages of the bill the criticism was that, while it raises the school leaving age to fifteen, the facilities for exemption will nullify the provision. A number of amendments in committee have much reduced the objections, but the point is likely to be sternly debated, and there will be further attempts to reduce the causes allowing for exemption. Foreign affairs may come up for discussion again on the motion for the adjournment on Friday, but as international affairs are rather quiet at the moment, the idea of a debate may be dropped.

Haile Selassie

The Emperor of Abyssinia is on his way to Great Britain, and the diplomatic world is rather troubled as to the courtesies to be shown him on arrival. The question is a very delicate one, and great care is being devoted to its solution. A meeting of the Co-ordination Committee of the League of Nations is to be called shortly, and, as this body was appointed to deal exclusively with the war between Italy and Abyssinia, it would cause little surprise if the Emperor decided to visit Geneva to attend its meeting. It is expected that strong efforts will be made at the gathering to put an end to sanctions, as being no longer of use.

International Affairs

International affairs are likely to move at a more rapid rate as soon as the new French Government takes office. Germany, it is said, is waiting for this to take place before replying to the British and French questions, and as soon as the answers are received new Franco-British discussions are inevitable. The nature of these discussions must depend upon the line of policy indicated in the German reply. Italy also is waiting for the new French Government to take office, and may make a direct demand that the conquest of Abyssinia should be recognised. This may be done by a claim that Ambassadors and Ministers in Rome should present new letters of credence owing to the addition of "Emperor of Abyssinia" to the title of the King of Italy. How such a direct challenge by Italy would be met remains to be seen.

The Colours of Flowers

The Royal Horticultural Society has embarked on a great undertaking, as it is determined to standardise the names and colours of flowers. In collaboration with Mr. Robert Wilson, Art Director of the British Colour Council, an elaborate colour chart is to be produced for gardeners. It will give two hundred colours, each with four tones, and standard names will be found for all these eight hundred varieties. There is an immense number of reds and blues and many gradations of white, and the Secretary of the Society states that even this extensive list of colours and tones may not exhaust the number produced by nature, though it will enable gardeners to reach a good working standard and will reduce the margin of error. The chart will be produced in two volumes, and it is hoped to make it a standard work of international authority.

THE CORONATION DATE

WILL PROBABLY BE FIXED THIS WEEK

It is probable that the Order in Council fixing the date of the King's Coronation next year will be made at a Privy Council, which the King will hold at Buckingham Palace next Thursday.

The date will be announced immediately afterwards in the House of Commons by the Prime Minister, and will be proclaimed by the Kings at Arms of the College of Arms on the following day.

NORTHERN SPECIAL POWERS ACT

COMMISSION OF INQUIRY REPORT

"PERMANENT MACHINE OF DICTATORSHIP"

ULSTER CABINET MAY REPLY THIS WEEK

"IT is sad that in the guise of temporary and emergency legislation there should have been created, under the shadow of the British Constitution, a permanent machine of dictatorship—a standing temptation to whatever intolerant or bigoted section may attain power to abuse its authority at the expense of the people it rules?"

In such terms does the Commission of Inquiry, appointed by the National Council of Civil Liberties, condemn the Special Powers Acts of Northern Ireland, into which it was appointed to investigate, in a report which has just been issued.

The Special Powers Acts, or, as they are properly styled, the Civil Authorities (Special Powers) Acts (Northern Ireland), 1922 and 1933, the report states, furnish the Home Minister of Northern Ireland with unlimited powers of search and seizure which may be delegated to any police officer. Under the Acts habeas corpus is suspended, and persons may be arrested on suspicion only, and may be kept in prison indefinitely without a trial, while the death penalty may be imposed for offences other than murder and treason.

In the summer of 1934 the attention of the National Council for Civil Liberties was called to the Special Powers Acts, and it was decided that an independent Committee of Inquiry should be set up to examine the whole question of the administration and the constitutional validity of the Acts.

The Commission consisted of the late Edward Aylmer Digby, K.C., J.P., Commander (R.N.), retired; Miss S. Margery Fry, J.P., M.A., LL.D.; Mr. William McKeag, ex-M.P.; Mr. Edward Lancelot Mallalieu, M.A., and Mr. Neil Lawson, barrister-at-law, Secretary. The Commission sat during 1935 in Belfast, and later in the House of Commons.

"PART OF THE PERMANENT LAW"

At the outset the report lays stress on the point that the Special Powers Acts have become part of the permanent law of Northern Ireland, and that the permanence and generality of the Acts necessitate their treatment upon consideration quite other than those which would apply to the examination of exceptional powers of a purely emergency character.

In its concluding paragraphs, the report states:—

"Through the operation of the Special Powers Acts contempt has been begotten for the representative institutions of government.

"Through the use of special powers individual liberty is no longer protected by law, but is at the arbitrary disposition of the Executive. This abrogation of the rule of law has been so practised as to bring the freedom of the subject into contempt.

"The Northern Irish Government has used special powers towards securing the domination of one particular political faction, and, at the same time, towards curtailing the lawful activities of its opponents. The driving of legitimate movements underground into illegality, the intimidating or branding as lawbreakers of their adherents, however innocent of crime, has tended to encourage violence and bigotry on the part of the Government's supporters as well as to beget in its opponents an intolerance of the 'law and order' thus maintained. The Government's policy is thus driving its opponents into the ways of extremists.

"The Northern Irish Government, despite its assurances that special powers are intended for use only against lawbreakers has frequently employed them against innocent and law-abiding people, often in humble circumstances, whose injuries, inflicted without cause or justification have gone unrecompensed and disregarded."

POLITICAL LIFE

The report continues:—

"Jurists have hitherto regarded the sovereignty of Parliament and the rule of law as the two cardinal principles of the British Constitution. The Northern Irish Government in abrogating them has ravished the heritage for which generations of Britons have fought and suffered. The Special Powers Acts, the basis of a legal dictatorship, are a vital link in the chain which has been forged around the freedom of the community of Northern Ireland."

The Commission expresses the belief that the operation of the Special Powers Acts has the most widespread effect upon political life in Northern Ireland. The existing conditions of rule—secured by the supercession of representative government and the abrogation of the rule of law and the liberty of the subject, the bases of Special Powers—cannot be described otherwise than as totally un-British.

"It is clear to the Commission," concludes the report, "that the way to the re-establishment of constitutional government, the perquisite of law and order in democratic communities, can be paved only by the repeal of the Special Powers Acts. Wherever the pillars of constitutional rule, parliamentary sovereignty, and the rule of law are overthrown there exist the essential conditions of dictatorship."

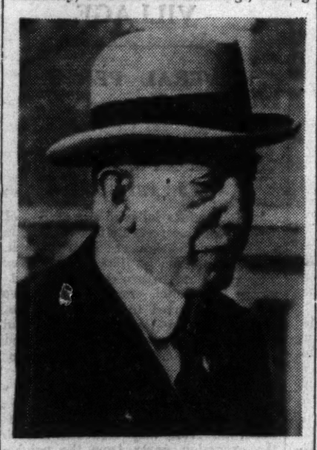

DELEGATION OF POWERS

The Commission, in its report, examines the Special Powers Acts in detail from the time of their introduction in 1922, in a time of some emergency, up to the present, with special reference to the delegation and surrender of powers to make and revoke laws by the Legislature to the Executive. The effect of the Acts was, it states, a resignation of all power, coupled with an unlimited right of delegation to the Executive. It must, however, be borne in mind that the Northern Irish Government was not, and is not itself, a fully sovereign body, since its legislative power is bounded by the express and implied limitations of the Government of Ireland Act, 1920, to which it owes its existence. The question thus arises as to whether or not the Special Powers Act falls within the competence of the Northern Irish Legislature.

The 1920 Act, from which the Northern Irish Government derives its being and authority, entrusts the exercise of such limited sovereign powers as it enjoys to the elected representatives of the people. It is a constitutional question of importance how far, in such case, these representatives are free to over-ride the "trust" vested in them by making over their sovereign legislative powers to the Executive. The most cursory examination of the Special Powers Acts makes it apparent that they purport to effect an almost complete delegation of law-making power to the Executive, and that this delegation covers a considerable portion of the sovereignty conferred upon the Northern Irish Legislature by the Act of 1920. There are, therefore, in the opinion of the Commission, some doubts as to the constitutional validity of the Special Powers Acts in their entirety.

POLICE POWERS

It is noted by the Commission that the wide powers conferred by the Act and its original schedule in 1922 were apparently deemed insufficient, and a series of Statutory Orders was later added empowering military and police officers, without notice, to close, stop, destroy or render impassable roads, paths, bridges and ferries, empowering the "Civil Authority" to order the evacuation, either temporarily or permanently, of houses and buildings, making it an offence to refuse to answer questions put by a police constable or member of His Majesty's forces on duty, empowering the making of internment and exclusion orders by the Home Minister without trial, and proclaiming certain named bodies to be unlawful associations.

Examination of the added regulations seemed to show that little time was lost by the Executive in obtaining powers far wider than were requested or assented to at the time of the passing of the Act. Indeed, amongst the most important of the regulations are those made by order of the Home Minister without the Legislature's assent. These include the power to examine banking books and accounts, and to confiscate moneys or other property lodged in banks, to make orders prohibiting the possession of films or gramophone records, and to search for, seize and destroy such prohibited articles; to prohibit, remove or destroy monuments, to prohibit any meeting public or private, procession or assembly; to make it an offence to refuse to answer any questions, however incriminating, in a private examination, and to prohibit the possession or display of republican emblems, flags or colours.

NEWLY-CREATED OFFENCES

The Civil Authorities (Special Powers) Act, 1922, was renewed annually under the Expiring Laws Act until 1928, when the Act was made permanent for five years only. The action of the Government in 1933, in renewing the Act of 1922 to continue in force until Parliament otherwise determined, is described by the report as "the complete metamorphosis of special powers" from a merely temporary emergency measure into a permanent part of the law of North Ireland.

Reviewing the provisions of the Special Powers Acts, the Commission point to an abundance of newly-created offences, in respect of which the maximum penalties are two years' imprisonment or a fine of £100, or both. It observes that the fundamental principles of public law are violated by the Act, which, by stretching the limits of guilt beyond certainty or definition, struck at the very root of the rule of law, since it permitted of criminal activity being defined in accordance with the day-to-day whim or convenience of the Executive. While the authorities thus had a perfectly free hand, unfettered by the letter of the law, to charge those offending their susceptibilities, it should be remembered that the Home Minister had by decree enlarged his powers to give him the right to detain or intern persons for an indefinite period without trial.

MAN WHO FLEW OVER TASMAN SEA

TWO airmen were killed on Saturday when an R.A.F. "Fighter" crashed into high tension cables near Folkestone and caught fire. The machine was taking part in a low-flying attack during a display at Hawkinge. The dead men are Flying Officer Wingrave Ashton and Leading Aircraftman Joseph Henry Simpson.

As the cables carried 33,000 volts, it is believed that the men were electrocuted.

COLLISION OVER THE SEA

FOUR MEN MISSING

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SINGAPORE, Sunday.

Comrades of the four R.A.F. men missing after a collision between two Vildebeeste bombers over the Straits of Malacca searched all to-day over the crash area, but in vain. At sundown the search was abandoned.

The crash occurred three miles off the mainland coast yesterday, both machines plunging into the sea.

The four men reported "missing, believed drowned," were:—Pilot-Officer William Mortimer Norman, Corporal Frank Johnson, Aircraftman Sydney Cyril Hickson, and Aircraftman Alexander French Wilson.

There was one survivor—Sergeant Alec. George Sollis, pilot of one of the 'planes, who was rescued by Malay fishermen after using his parachute

SECOND ESCAPE FROM DEATH

This is Sollis's second escape from death in less than three months. When a 'plane which he was piloting crashed into the Straits of Johore on March 1st he became entangled in his parachute and was brought to the surface just in time. A launch from the R.A.F. base near-by had meanwhile succeeded in extricating from the crashed 'plane its other two occupants. Yesterday Sollis was clinging to the wheels of one of the 'planes when picked up. His first words were: "Don't worry about me; look for the other four."

After he had been got ashore Penang Hospital was warned to get ready with X-rays and bandages, but Sergeant Sollis, although bruised and suffering from shock, said: "I am not going to hospital. All I want is a cigarette."

Two parachutes were used—the other, it is believed, by Aircraftman Wilson. As the second parachute was empty when taken from the water it would seem that its user also struggled free and attempted to swim ashore. Corporal Johnson's topee and Aircraftman Hickson's hat have also been found.

The accident was witnessed by a Malay fisherman, who said he heard a loud report, and, looking up, saw two 'planes plunging down towards the sea. They struck the water together and were smashed to pieces, most of the wreckage disappearing quickly beneath the waves.

W. H. O'HARA CRASHES TO DEATH

FLEW SOLO OVER TASMAN SEA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SYDNEY, Sunday.

The 37-year-old New Zealand planter-airman, W. H. O'Hara, who successfully accomplished a solo flight from Australia-New Zealand across the Tasman Sea in October, 1935, crashed to his death to-day.

He was touring in Western Australia when his machine dived to the ground. It immediately burst into flames, and the airman was trapped in the blaze.

O'Hara was on the eve of returning to Java, where he has resided many years.

His 1,400 mile solo flight was considered an achievement in aviation circles, and the airman had many admirers.

SPINNING MACHINE FALLS

MAN AND WOMAN INJURED

When a 'plane crashed near Dunstable, Bedfordshire, yesterday, its two occupants were severely injured. They were Mr. C. N. Startup, aged about forty, of North Finchley, of the London Aeroplane Club at Hatfield, who was piloting the machine, and Miss Aileen Smart, aged about thirty, of Nottingham.

They were taken to hospital, where Miss Smart was found to be suffering from a broken leg and a possible fracture of the skull. Mr. Startup received a broken nose and leg.

The machine, a two-seater, went into a spin and hit the ground within sight of a number of picnic parties.

It was learned at the London Aeroplane Club that Mr. Startup was an experienced war-time pilot. Members of the club were taking part in an ordinary flying day. The crash took place at the Dunstable Gliding Club's aerodrome.

A young member of the South Coast Flying Club crashed near Shoreham Airport during an Empire Air Day display on Saturday, and was taken to hospital with serious head injuries.

GOLFING AIRMEN CRASH

One of eight machines belonging to the Scottish Flying Club, and going to Islay yesterday, nose dived as it was preparing to land on the island, and its two occupants, Mr. H. Thyne, of Edinburgh, the pilot, and Mr. William Menzies, of Shotts, Lanarkshire, were injured.

They received treatment at Port Ellen, and a message was sent to Renfrew aerodrome, from which a relief 'plane was sent to pick up the injured men. Mr. Thyne was taken to a nursing home, suffering from facial injuries and shock, but Mr. Menzies was able to go home, where he received medical treatment. Both men hold pilot's licences.

Several members of the flying party were going for a round of golf on the island, intending to fly back in the evening.

GIRL INJURED BY MACHINE

A fifteen-year-old girl was slightly injured when a machine from Kenley R.A.F. Station struck the ground during a display of aerobatics, but the pilot escaped injury.

The machine crashed on Kenley Common, and the pilot, Pilot-Sergeant Brunner, made a great effort to avoid the girl, Alice Willis, of Lindley road, Godstone, who was taken to hospital for treatment.

SENATE'S FINAL STAGE

PRESIDENT MAY STATE HIS PLANS

THE CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

ACCORDING to present arrangements, the motion for the final abolition of the Senate will be taken on Thursday of this week. It stands in the name of President de Valera, and proposes to "deem" the bill abolishing the Senate to have passed both Houses of the Oireachtas. When the bill has been carried—as, no doubt, it will be—and has been signed by the Governor-General, it will no longer be appropriate to refer to "both Houses" of the Oireachtas.

The debate will be one of the most important that has taken place in the Dail this session, and probably will not be concluded in one day. In that case the House will continue the debate on Friday. The expectation is that President de Valera will indicate his intentions as to the future, and inform the House whether he has yet evolved any scheme for a substitute body, or whether, and how long, the experiment of a single-Chamber Legislature is to be continued.

A NICE QUESTION

There is a growing feeling in many quarters that, while the Constitution admittedly makes provision for the passing in this way of legislation to which the Senate objected, it never was contemplated that such machinery should be used for the destruction of one House of the Oireachtas by the other. It is known that certain legal authorities in the Government Party hold this view as strongly as it is held by the Opposition, and it would not be surprising if more were heard about it at a later period. There are several other aspects of the situation which will arise when the Senate has been abolished, and which, in the opinion of many, might be tested in the Law Courts with every prospect of success. As to these, however, no decision has yet been reached.

It is also expected that in his statement to the Dail on Thursday the President will explain his intentions as to his plans for constitutional reform and as to the part that the King and the Governor-General are to have in the economy of government. That a comprehensive overhaul of the Constitution has been in process of preparation for some time is generally known, and in normal conditions it would be due to the people's representatives that they should be informed of the President's plans at the earliest opportunity. Next Thursday's debate would afford such an opportunity. If the President is in a communicative mood, the debate on the Senate motion may be momentous.

To-morrow the debate on the Budget resolutions will be resumed, and it probably will be continued on Wednesday. If further time is available, the remaining stages of the Turf Bill will be taken.

NEW EMPLOYMENT ACT

BREWERS TO MEET IN DUBLIN

A meeting representative of brewers from every part of the Irish Free State has been called for Wednesday next in Dublin to consider, and, if possible, devise means to meet difficulties which, it is stated, have arisen in connection with application of the Conditions of Employment Act, 1936.

The Act comes into force on Saturday next, May 29th, and some of its provisions, it is believed, will offer serious difficulties in so far as compliance by the brewing interests is concerned.

Principal among these are certain clauses relating to the employment of juveniles, as well as regulations affecting shift-work. The brewing process, at certain stages and at certain periods of the year involves continuous work for at least twelve hours at a stretch, and it is this fact, coupled with the necessity of long night and other shifts, that makes the application of the Act liable to difficulty.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE DERBY

LARGE CROWDS ON EPSOM DOWNS

The number of people who assembled on Epsom Downs yesterday to watch preparations for the Derby was larger than that which gathers sometimes on Epsom race days.

All roads leading to the Downs were, up to a late hour, filled with traffic, which at times became congested. Thousands of motorists, cyclists and pedestrians visited the scene of next Wednesday's race, and many other persons arrived by 'bus.

There were numerous picnic parties on most sections of the Downs not occupied by motorists.

At the grand stand there were scenes of great activity, heavy motor lorries constantly arriving with provisions.

Many of those who had come to witness the Derby Day preparations attended a religious Service held at night at the Epsom racecourse paddocks.

The clergy and choir of Epsom Parish Church were present, and after robing in the grand stand marched in procession to the paddocks, where a small altar was erected.

CATHOLIC BAN ON NAZIS

TO BE REFUSED SACRAMENT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

AMSTERDAM, Saturday.

Dutch Catholics who henceforth give any substantial support to the Dutch National Socialist movement are to be refused admission to the Sacrament.

This is announced in a Pastoral Letter from the Roman Catholic Hierarchy in Holland that is to be read from the pulpit in the churches to-morrow.

The letter further states:—"We remain convinced that the interests of the Roman Catholic Church in Holland would be greatly impaired if the National Socialist movement came into power."

TRANSYLVANIA'S CALL AT DUBLIN

PASSENGERS AND MAILS EMBARKED

Twenty-five passengers and forty-seven sacks of mail were embarked on the Anchor liner Transylvania in Dublin Bay on Saturday for New York. This was the second liner to leave Ireland on the direct Dublin-New York service.

The California left New York for Dublin on Saturday, and is due in Dublin Bay on next Sunday.

CROSS-CHANNEL AIR SERVICES

DEVELOPMENT OF ROUTES

DUBLIN TO LONDON IN TWO HOURS

OFFICIAL STATEMENT ISSUED

BY OUR AIR CORRESPONDENT.

"IRISH SEA AIRWAYS" is the name officially selected for the cross-Channel air services to be operated by Aer Lingus, Teoranta, and Blackpool and West Coast Air Services, Ltd., which open on Wednesday next.

Further plans for the development of the routes were explained to me in a special interview with the Chairman of Aer Lingus (Mr. Sean O hUadhaigh) during the week-end. Special half-day excursions to the Isle of Man are planned for the summer, and at the earliest opportunity an air line will be opened direct to Croydon Airport, London. The first of these developments will enable Dubliners to reach the Isle of Man in an hour from the Free State capital, spend the evening in Douglas, and return to Dublin the same night.

MR. ARMSTRONG.

For the London service an aircraft of the D.H. 86 type will be acquired, and this should cover the Dublin-London flight in approximately two hours.

BALDONNEL AERODROME

At Baldonnel Aerodrome a Control Office has been opened, and the building will include facilities for the Customs examination of passengers' baggage and offices for the air transport company. An Airport Control Officer will be appointed by the Free State authorities, and Aer Lingus has appointed the former commander of a cruiser in the Chinese Customs Service—Captain J. J. Hurley—as its Station Superintendent. His deputy is Mr. M. J. Finnegan, and both these officials have undergone a course of training in air line work at Croydon and other airports in Great Britain.

Mr. O. E. Armstrong is to pilot the first machine out of Dublin for Bristol on Wednesday, and will return with it on the same afternoon. Bookings on the air lines open on Tuesday, and I understand that a number of inquiries have been received already. "Irish Sea Airways Ticket No. 1," however, has already been reserved by Mrs. O hUadhaigh, wife of the Aer Lingus chairman.

The Irish company will also concern itself with the development of internal services in the Free State, while the cross-Channel services must always be kept on a reciprocal basis—the British Air Ministry approving of the service by the Free State company and the Department of Industry and Commerce approving the similar service of the English organisation.

STATEMENT BY DEPARTMENT

EARLY LEGISLATION TO BE INTRODUCED

The following statement was issued by the Government Information Bureau on Saturday:—

In view of recent announcements in the Press the Department of Industry and Commerce considers it desirable to indicate the position as to the development of air transport services by the Saorstát.

The International Convention on Aerial Navigation, to which the Saorstát is a party, implies that air services between two countries shall be established on a basis of reciprocity. The British Government have agreed to the operation of cross-Channel air services by a Saorstát company, and the Saorstát Government have approved of the operation of similar services by a British company. With a view to securing the development of the services on sound commercial lines the Irish company and the British company have entered into an agreement for joint operation.

The cross-Channel services, which will be operated from the 27th instant, are the beginning of Saorstát air services, which will in due course be developed to include other centres, such as Cork and Galway, in the Saorstát and cities both in Great Britain and on the Continent. Primary necessity, however, for the operation of services to and from centres other than Dublin is the establishment of aerodromes adequately equipped and staffed for the operation of regular services.

It is intended to introduce legislation very shortly to provide for the grant to one national company, the controlling shares of which will be held by the Government, of the right to operate internal air services, and on the basis of reciprocity to institute international services. The company which has been established for the purposes of the cross-Channel services, will be a subsidiary of, and be financed by, the national company when established.

"RITUAL SLAYING" IN U.S.

POLICE ON TRACK OF "BLACK LEGION"

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

DETROIT, Sunday.

Reports that responsibility for 50 recent deaths rests with a secret society, whose members wear black-hooded robes, are being investigated by officials here following disclosures in connection with "ritual slaying" allegations against seven men.

In Michigan alone 135,000 people belong to the "Black Legion," according to these estimates, and the round-up of suspected members extended to-day on receipt of this information.

The police are preparing warrants for the arrest of seven men alleged to have been present when ten days ago Charles Poole, a 32 years old worker employed on a Government relief project, was shot dead at a lonely spot in the country after he had been carried off by a band of black-robed figures.

State Police-Captain Marmon, whose men have been carrying out close investigations for months past, said to-day that he was examining a report that 50 Michigan people had been marked down for death, and that the Black Legionaries made their "executions" appear to be suicides.

In New York the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan denied that there was any affiliation between the Klan and the "Black Legion."

NAZIS KILLED IN RAID

AUSTRIAN ARMS PLOT

STARHEMBERG CASTLE AFFRAY

TWO men, described as Nazis, were killed in a battle with police, when a party of which they were members raided a castle near Linz, owned by Prince Starhemberg, the former Heimwehr leader and Vice-Chancellor, recently deposed by Chancellor Schuschnigg.

It is believed that the men were seeking arms. Fearing a revival of violent Nazi activity, police throughout Upper Austria have been ordered to remain on alarm duty.

The plot was betrayed to police, who ambushed the raiders. After a 15-minute battle two of the Nazis were killed, one was seriously injured, and eight were arrested. Close watch is being kept on the frontiers for the leader, who escaped.

This new development has added to the uncertainties created by Chancellor Schuschnigg's determination to disarm the Heimwehr.

Dr. Schuschnigg, the Chancellor, yesterday challenged the Heimwehr and forecast important events in Austria for next month in an address to 10,000 Catholic peasants at Gaenserdorf, Lower Austria.

He said: "I wish to give all who have Austria's fate at heart the following watchword for the coming months. It is especially urgent for next month—'See that we stand together. See that the disturbers, wherever they stand and from wherever they come, are got out of the way.'"

In many quarters the phrase "from wherever they come" is believed to have been aimed at Prince Starhemberg.

RUSSIA'S TWO CONDITIONS

NAVAL TALKS WITH BRITAIN

MENACE OF JAPAN AND GERMANY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Sunday.

THE successful conclusion of an Anglo-Soviet naval agreement is dependent on two conditions, according to Karl Radek, writing in the Izvestia to-day. They are:—

(1) The willingness of Germany to conclude a similar treaty with England; and

(2) The Far Eastern Fleet of the Soviet not to be included in any agreement.

The article states that the failure of the London Naval Conference, the steady increase in naval armaments of other Powers, and the loss of nearly all her Navy owing to the Great War obliges the U.S.S.R. to build her Fleet anew. This is necessary to safeguard the Republic against the growing Navies of States which openly proclaim a struggle against the U.S.S.R.

In spite of this, however, the Soviet agreed to enter into negotiations with London regarding qualitative limitations for Fleets under construction.

The U.S.S.R., declares Radek, is striving to conclude an agreement with Japan regarding limitation of naval armaments.

The U.S.S.R. cannot bind itself either on the question of qualitative limitation of ships of its Far Eastern Fleet or on the question of information regarding its naval forces in Far Eastern waters until a corresponding agreement is reached with Japan. The Soviet's attitude in this respect, Karl Radek continues, is the direct result of the breach by Japan of the Washington Treaty and of her departure from the London Conference, which untied Japan's hands for naval armaments.

The Izvestia concludes that these Far Eastern reservations on Russia's part should not hamper the conclusion of an agreement for limitation of naval armaments in Europe, since the Far Eastern Fleet of the U.S.S.R. cannot influence the relative strengths of naval forces in European waters.

GUN BATTLE IN CANADIAN STORE

GANGSTERS AND POLICEMAN KILLED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SARNIA (ONTARIO), Sunday.

Canada's one-time "Public Enemy No. 1," "Red" Ryan; a man named Edward McMullen, and a police constable, John Lewis, were shot dead in a gun battle at a Government liquor store here on Saturday night.

Ryan and McMullen held up the store at closing time while there were 20 people inside. A late arrival raised the alarm, but Constable Lewis was killed before he was able to draw his gun.

The gangsters, each handling two guns, then opened fire on two other policemen. A miniature battle followed. Fifteen shots were fired before the gangsters were brought down.

Ryan had served 15 years in Kingston Penitentiary for train robbery, and was let out on parole only last year at the personal intercession of the ex-Premier, Mr. R. B. Bennet.

The Lithuanian police have made seventeen arrests in connection with the discovery of an organisation in Memel, said to consist of former and present officials, including some members of the Memel Diet, alleged to be working against Lithuanian sovereignty.

BALL TRIAL ENDS

JURY'S LONG CONFERENCE

VERDICT: "GUILTY BUT INSANE"

CLOSING SCENES IN COURT

EDWARD PRESTON BALL, the twenty years old son of Dr. Charles Preston Ball, the well-known Dublin nerve specialist, was found "Guilty, but insane," at the conclusion on Saturday of his six days' trial, at the Central Criminal Court, Dublin, for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Lavena Ball, on February 17th last, and was ordered by the Court to be detained until the pleasure of the Governor-General be made known to him.

Mr. Justice Hanna began his summing-up immediately the Court resumed, and the jury retired at 12.40. After a brief return to court to question one of the maids, they returned with the verdict at 5.30 and within a few minutes the curtain had been rung down on the six days' drama.

CLOSING SCENES

It was about 4.30 when the jury first returned to the jury box. The Foreman said that they wished to recall Miss Lily Kelly, the maid who had been employed by Mrs. Ball.

The Foreman asked her if Mrs. Ball had used a safety razor or safety razor blade for any purpose, and Miss Kelly replied that she had not done so to her knowledge.

The Foreman then asked if any safety razor or blades had been found in the house, and Chief Superintendent Reynolds answered that a number of blades and a razor had been found.

The jury retired again and returned at 5.30. As they entered the courtroom there was complete silence. Ball, the accused youth, walked slowly up the stairs and into the dock. He was wearing his heavy blue coat and scarf. Immediately he entered the dock he threw a rapid glance at the jury, scanning the faces of each of them, as if he wished to read their verdict on their faces.

The Registrar (Mr. O'Connor) asked: "Have you arrived at your verdict, gentlemen?"

The Foreman replied that they had, and handed down the sheet to Mr. O'Connor.

The latter then read out: "The verdict of the jury, my lord, is 'Guilty, but insane.'"

As the words were pronounced a startled look came on Ball's face, and he stared for a second at the judge, his hands clasped before him.

Immediately Mr. Justice Hanna said: "It is the order of the Court that you be kept in strict custody until the pleasure of His Excellency the Governor-General be made known to you."

Ball glanced at the floor, and then Mr. O'Connor said: "Remove the prisoner."

One of the warders went across to Ball and touched his shoulder with his hand. Ball turned and, with his head slightly bent, walked down the steps leading from the dock. As he was passing out of sight he put his hands to his head.

PRISONER IN TEARS

Earlier in the day, when the judge was summing up, Ball, who was seated in his accustomed place in the dock, broke down and sobbed when Mr. Justice Hanna was making a reference to the boy's father. He frequently used his hankerchief and scarcely looked up.

When the jury had entered the courtroom to ask their questions he shot a glance at them, and when he heard their request his face brightened a little.

The courtroom was crowded during the day, and, in spite of the long absence of the jury, scarcely anyone left the court for lunch. Many women read books, while the men studied their newspapers. One well-known Irish poet was among those in the gallery. Dr. Ball, the accused youth's father, was also present.

When the verdict of the jury had been announced, a young girl dressed in a black costume, grey jacket and black hat, who was seated in the well of the court, threw her head down on her arms and began to sob. Several women went over to her and tried to comfort her. In the earlier part of the week she had occupied a seat high up in the gallery, and had smiled at Ball when he had looked towards her several times.

THE JUDGE SUMS UP

In his summing up Mr. Justice Hanna described the case as a very important trial—a tragedy and a mystery. Three verdicts were open to them—"Guilty of murder with malice aforethought"; "guilty, but insane," and "acquittal."

The outstanding peculiarity of the case was that the body never had been found. There was a popular idea that no prosecution was possible for murder when the body was not found. That was incorrect. There must be established, however, the fact that the person alleged to have been murdered was dead; that the person met his or her death by violence, and that the violence was the felonious act with malice aforethought of the person accused. In that case the difficulty was on the third ground.

An attack had been made on the Guards. In that case the difficulty was that the house where the death occurred was in one police district, and the car was found in another. While the officers had worked together, each district superintendent had to investigate certain matters individually. Superintendent O'Reilly had shown the boy every consideration.

Dealing with the disappearance of the body, Mr. Justice Hanna said that, apart from the boy's statement that the body had been put in the sea, the Guards' evidence would suggest that it would be seen no more. Th evidence showed that Mrs. Ball had met her death violently and unnaturally.

JEKYLL AND HYDE

From the evidence of Mrs. Allen and Cecil Monson, said his lordship, Mrs. Ball seemed to be a charming and cheery woman; but the jury must bear in mind that people were different in their own homes from what they might be outside. Men who were bears in their own homes were the best of companions in the golf club. It was said that no man was a hero to his valet, but it was possible that no woman was a heroine to her maid.

"I have always believed," said Mr. Justice Hanna, "that there is a parable behind Stevenson's story, 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.' In most of us there are two personalities."

According to Miss Whelan Mrs. Ball was nervous and hysterical. That was the kind of person who, by a continued course of nagging, might drive a person with an unbalanced mind to do some violent act.

The description which had been given by Mrs. Fagan of the boy coming to her home, saying that he could not pay for the flat, and sleeping on a couch, was almost pathetic. Apparently his mother did not want him, and whether his father wanted him or not was a matter for debate. It might be that the boy did not care for the stern discipline of his father, but there was the evidence of the poor boy going to Mrs. Fagan, and begging to be allowed to sleep on the couch.

The boy had an allowance of £2 10s. a week. Many boys could live on that, but it could not be done if he was going to golf clubs and dinners in restaurants.

"ONLY A BOY"

His lordship said that the jury probably would come to the conclusion that the presence of the boy did irritate his mother, because of the disappointment he had caused. He did not get work; but, after all, he was only a boy.

Having spoken of the efforts to place the boy in employment, his lordship said that the boy's drifting about like a piece of flotsam on the sea was pathetic. From the age of eleven he had been without a mother. His aunt and his father had been kind to him; but, as the wise man said: "When the parents have eaten sour fruit, the children's teeth are on edge."

In regard to Ball's mental condition Mr. Justice Hanna said that it was a great relief to anyone engaged in the administration of justice to have, in Dr. Coyne and Dr. McGrath, two State witnesses on whom the greatest reliance could be placed—to be absolutely fair and to stress nothing.

He disliked the word insanity and the loose way that people referred to others as being sane or insane. There was a time when people thought that these conditions were in separate compartments as different as black from white, but modern science had shown that that was wrong. There were cases where people who were normal in many respects in others were mentally unstable. There were many people with reasoning powers in ordinary circumstances who, when it came to the crucial point, were so mentally unstable that one was entiled to say of them that they were mentally unstable.

The question as to the way Mrs. Ball had met her death was that of razor versus hatchet. There had been very little blood on the hatchet, and it was for the jury to decide whether it could have been used.

CRITICAL POINTS

One of the critical points in the case was whether the boy had invented the story that his mother had committed suicide. Either the boy must have been very clever or the story was true.

There was no doubt that the boy had lied in some respects, but the jury had to consider whether he lied in the interests of his mother or in his own interests.

An important matter in favour of the accused youth was that he made the statement in which he said his mother committed suicide, forty-eight hours after the tragedy and at a time when the body might have been found. If the body had been found it would have proved beyond doubt whether the woman had cut her throat or had her head battered.

Mr. Justice Hanna refused an application by Mr. FitzGerald for a certificate for leave to appeal.

The jury were exempted from further service for a period of ten years.

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., and Mr. Kevin Haugh (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; and Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., and Mr. John Hooper (instructed by Messrs. Miley and Miley, solicitors) appeared for the accused.

CHILDREN'S COURTS CRITICISED

"CLUMSIEST INSTRUMENT COULD BE INVENTED"

"Juvenile crime is certainly on the increase here, and it is very hard to cope with it," said Superintendent Kilroy to District Justice McCabe at Waterford during an unusually lengthy sitting of the juvenile Court. "We have to appeal to you, sir, to find a way of checking it."

Three youngsters were facing charges of breaking and entering Messrs Woolworth's premises and stealing goods value almost £4. They pleaded guilty.

Superintendent Kilroy described the offence as a daring outrage, and resembled a crime committed by adults rather than children. Entrance had been effected through a skylight, which had been opened with knives that had been stolen on the previous day. The boys had also admitted that they had stolen bicycles, one of which had not been recovered. One of them had been committed to an industrial school last February, but had been discharged owing to ill-health. Another had had the Probation Act previously applied for housebreaking and larceny.

The District Justice, in adjourning the cases for four weeks to see how the boys would behave in the meantime, said that, though he believed in the modern tendency towards leniency of juvenile courts in Ireland and England, it could be carried too far. In some cases they had boys coming into Court with a puffed-up sense of their own importance, and the proceedings were treated by them with the greatest contempt. He believed that the old way of bringing up a child was not a bad way. A little bit of punishment was a good thing. The Children's Court system was the clumsiest instrument that could be invented for dealing with children.

REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ELECTIONS

It was announced by Mr. J. Russell, who presided at a meeting of the new Republican Party of Ireland (Cumann Poblachta na hEireann), in Cathal Brugha street, Dublin, yesterday, that the Party was putting forward at the next general election enough candidates to declare a Republican Government, not only for the twenty-six,, but for the thirty-two counties.

Mr. Russell said that on the previous night the police had made a raid for Mr. Tom Powell, who had spoken at the Party's meeting on the previous Sunday. He added that the recent raids and arrests show that Fianna Fail was afraid even of constitutional opposition.

The meeting passed a resolution of protest against the "round up."

FORTHCOMING SALES

Arthur Jones and Son, auctioneers, are holding an important auction of interest to the hairdressing trade at 128 Stephen's Green (next cinema) on Tuesday at 12 o'clock, when "Icall" permanent waving machines, "Mucholos" electric pedestal dryers, "Russo" permanent waving machines, "Thor" electric washing machine, Hollar copper boiler and Richmond Equator boiler, shot fittings, showcases, etc., etc., will be sold.

On Wednesday, 27th May, No. 51 Casimir road, off Kenilworth Park (lease and furniture) will be sold on the premises at 12 o'clock.

Four technical experts of the Columbia Gramophone Company, who left Sydney on a week-end fishing expedition, are believed to have been drowned when a bad storm broke near the coast.

TARIFFS AND INDUSTRY

VIEWS OF MR. J. DILLON, T.D.

"EXPLOITING THE COMMUNITY"

"COMMON sense moderation" on the question of tariff reform was urged by Mr. J. M. Dillon, T.D., when he spoke yesterday at Ballyhaunis, County Mayo. He said that by the reckless and improvident imposition of tariffs, quotas and monopolies the Irish industrial revival was beginning to assume the form of a very grievous burden on the masses of the people. If that situation was allowed to continue, sooner or later there would be a violent reaction, which would inevitably go too far in the other direction, with disastrous results for Irish industry as a whole.

"There are many men in the industrial life of this country, enterprising and successful, who are producing excellent merchandise at a reasonable price, although they built up their businesses behind very moderate tariffs," continued Mr. Dillon. "The country, as a whole, is indebted to these men. But we also know that under some of the recent tariffs of 75 per cent. and 100 per cent. individuals are exploiting the community and unjustly profiteering at the expense of the consuming public, and many of them are failing in their duty to provide conditions of employment, which the State is entitled to expect from them."

DEMOCRACY

Speaking on the maintenance of "honest democracy" in this country and of individual rights, Mr. Dillon said:—

"Individual liberty means that every man has the right to speak his mind, but it does not confer the right on anybody to exhort his fellow-men to employ force to overthrow the Government chosen by the majority of the people. Democracies must make it clear, inside and outside their own countries, that, while they stand for constitutional politics and believe in international peace, they have not become too proud to fight; that dictators must know that any attempt inside this country to overthrow constitutional government by force will be met with force, and that any attempt to impose upon this country a tyrannical constitution by any outside power will be met with all the force which the community can command."

LOUGH ALLEN SCHEME

OPPOSITION BY FARMERS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Sunday.

SIX members of the Dail, representing different political interests, were present at a public meeting of farmers, which was held at Dowra to-day, to protest against the raising of the water level at Lough Allen, which, it is stated, will affect 1,700 farmers. The meeting was representative of Leitrim, Roscommon and Cavan. Mr. R. W. Hamilton, Dowra, presided.

Mr. James N. Dolan, T.D., said that the original idea was to embank Lough Allen and harness the water of it, and, even if it cost more, it would be better to have such a scheme than flood the people out of their homes.

He suggested that, in conjunction with the revised scheme to embank Lough Allen, the Government should take in hands a £60,000 drainage scheme that he proposed for North Leitrim, and take in the waters of Belhavel Lake and other sources, which caused much flooding and havoc to farmers.

FARMERS' POSITION

Mr. S. Flynn, Chairman of the Leitrim, County Council, said that the present Government might be blamed, but this was only part of the scheme in existence for the last eight or ten years. He was aware of the damage and sufferings the farmers would experience, but, as a contract was given, his advice was for the farmers to unite and secure the best compensation for the lands lost.

Senator Connolly, to whom he had been speaking on the matter, gave instructions to ascertain the number of farmers affected and the number of farms which would be rendered uneconomic as a result of the raising of the level.

Mr. M. Roddy, T.D., said that the expenditure of an extra £100,000 would be money well spent if it saved the little farms.

Mr. P. McGovern, T.D., and Dr. J. J. O'Reilly, T.D., also spoke, and suggested that the people should put their view before the Government.

A resolution was adopted protesting against the compulsory acquisition of lands by the Electricity Supply Board in Tarmon, Spencer Harbour, Drumkeeran, Creevelea, Corry, Newbridge, Dowra, Drumshambo, Ballinaglera, and the portion affected in Roscommon.

The resolution added that all those in the affected area and others in the vicinity stood the danger of an outbreak of fever by reason of decaying vegetation and stagnant water, and would find it impossible to remain.

"For an Irish Government to allow a man who has always paid his rent and rates to be rendered homeless and deprived of his living is unthinkable, and we will not tolerate such inhuman treatment."

The resolution called on the Government to have steps taken immediately to have the scheme altered to the original plan of banking the lake, or any other scheme which would not necessitate flooding people out of their homes.

COMMUNIST AGENTS ACTIVE

WARNING AT FINE GAEL MEETING

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CASHEL, Sunday.

Murder and lawlessness should be stamped out by the Government, said Mr. R. Curran, T.D., addressing a Fine Gael meeting in Cashel to-day. They had seen their country's fair name dragged in the mire and disgraced in the eyes of the world. The first essential for any State calling itself Christian was that there should prevail a respect for law and order. The agents of Communism had been active throughout the length and breadth of the land, doing their utmost to introduce their anti-God doctrines and to undermine the authority of Church and State. There was hardly ever a time when it was so necessary that the youth of the country should hearken to the advice of their bishops, who had been insistent in warning young men of the dangers resulting from joining any secret society or any organisation aiming at the overthrow of the properly constituted authority of the State.

Mr. Curran paid a tribute to the Dean of Cashel, who had appealed to the youth of the country not to be led away from the attachment to the old ideal of faith and fatherland.

SPECIAL POWERS ACT

The principle in English law where an accused man was presumed to be innocent until the contrary was proven had received but short shrift at the hands of the Northern Irish Parliament; for one section of the 1922 Act provided that the burden of proving that any act was done with lawful authority rested upon the person alleged to be guilty of the offence. An individual might be examined by a private tribunal consisting of a resident magistrate (a political appointee), with everyone else excluded, and without legal assistance. A refusal to answer any incriminating question was punishable as an offence, and most serious of all, perhaps, was the provision which derogated from the personal liberty of the subject by rendering him liable to arbitrary imprisonment.

The effect of these regulations, in the opinion of the Commission, was completely to abrogate the principles of habeas corpus, so fundamental to the British Constitution. "This fact, coupled with the disestablishment of the rule of law in Northern Ireland, places the Executive in a position paralleled only by continental dictatorships." A wealth of evidence, the Commission state, proves beyond doubt that these regulations are the very basis and instrument of government in the North of Ireland, and are used continually, and to the maximum.

The report gives instances of arrest and detention on suspicion, of interrogation in many instances, of several hours duration, by large numbers of police working in squads, the searching of houses in working-class districts without warrants, of the aggressive and minatory attitude of the police. Raiding and searching of houses from which arose many complaints of violence and brutality, appeared to have been frequently carried out in the presence of a representative of the Home Minister's Department, and clearly violent breaches of the law had been committed and had been brought to the notice of the proper authorities, but no action had been taken.

THE RESIDENT MAGISTRACY

The report notes particularly that, whereas formerly some balance was present in appointments to the Resident Magistracy between the two leading religious sects of the Northern Irish community, to-day the eleven officials number among them but one Roman Catholic, and more than half of them are ex-police or ex-military officers, while three of them are bare of legal qualification.

"Although there have been instances of disorder which may, perhaps, be partly attributed to religious motives, a greater number of incidents cannot be so explained. Such, for example, are the occasions on which organised bands of 'Orangemen' or 'Protestant Leaguers' have interfered with working-class meetings and demonstrations of a non-party character or have been permitted riotously to terrorise working-class districts or to stone the offices and clubs of labour organisations. Whatever the true explanation of the activities of these sectarian partisans be, it is interesting to remark that the Northern Irish Government has made but little use of its drastic special powers against the Orangemen and their sympathisers.

"The close relations maintained by the Government's leading members with the Orange Order, coupled with the little use made of special powers against activities notoriously productive of disorder, provides some show of reason for the view that the Government permits the perpetuation of, rather than seeks to quell, sectarian troubles. This view is by no means contradicted by the record of the Unionist Government in Northern Ireland apart from the Special Powers Acts.

MINISTER'S SPEECHES

"The widespread allegations of 'placing' in Government offices, the fact that important judicial and official positions (e.g., County Court Judgeships) are largely withheld from practising Catholics, the maintenance of the 'B' Specials, the personal ties between the Executive and the Orange Order, and the frankly sectarian speeches made even by Ministers, are all disquieting features of the political life of the Six Counties. Coupled with the electoral 'reforms' introduced by the Government some years ago—the abolition of proportional representation and the re-arrangement of the constituencies—these tendencies make it difficult to contradict the assertion that the Unionist Government's policy has resulted in an inflammation of religious bigotry and the aggravation of sectarian differences among the community."

The Commission further state:—"The method of 'rounding-up' practised in Northern Ireland under special powers does not greatly differ from similar practices carried out in countries under Fascist rule."

The Commission give a selection of cases which they state are typical of the operation of the Special Powers Acts. An unemployed workman, after being responsible for a deputation of unemployed to the local authority respecting the payment of out-relief, was served with an Exclusion Order and forced to leave Northern Ireland.

A young man, returning from a social gathering, was arrested, detained for twenty-six days, and released without a charge having been made.

A man was charged with being in possession of a photograph of an Easter lily, purchased in Belfast, and was sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

A Catholic student of Queen's University, arrested at his father's house, was detained some weeks without charge.

As his University degree examination was approaching, the academic authorities offered to permit armed police to sit in the room with the student if he were permitted to sit for his examinations. The Home Minister refused this offer, and the student was therefore unable to sit for his examinations. Subsequently he was charged with an offence relating to the keeping of firearms or explosives. The charge was summarily dismissed and the student set free at once.

LORD CRAIGAVON'S STATEMENT

THE CABINET MAY REPLY

Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, told a reporter on Saturday that his Cabinet will give careful consideration to the National Council for Civil Liberties' Commission report.

He added that the Cabinet will probably issue a statement in reply next week.

Sir Joseph Davison, Grand Master of the Belfast Orangemen, commenting on the report, declared that the Commission were "irresponsible nobodies" who were full of prejudice. In these circumstances, it was impossible for the inquiry to be impartial and exhaustive.

Responsible members of the Protestant community were not asked to give evidence, he said, the inquiry was "deplorably one-sided," and the report was "valueless."

Lieutenant J. Doyle conducted the No. 1 Army Band in a recital in the Phœnix Park, Dublin, yesterday, when the attendance was somewhat smaller than expected, due to the drop in the temperature and to the cold breeze.

Leitrim, Louth, Kildare, Roscommon, Galway, Kilkenny and Cavan secured one each. Sixteen counties failed to draw a horse.

One of the Dublin tickets was a "Sweet Afton" gift ticket, held by Mrs. N. Buggy, 34 Leinster street, Phibsborough, and Mr. F. J. Coyne, 128 North Circular road.

SHOCK FOR DERRY GUARDIANS

INMATE'S SWEEPSTAKE TICKET

At Saturday's meeting of Derry Guardians, during consideration of the outdoor relief list, Mr. R. J. Hyndman said, that an inmate of the workhouse held a sweepstake ticket, and it was not right that the ratepayers of Derry should be asked to keep a man who was able to buy a 10s. Free State sweepstake ticket.

"I could not afford it," said Mr. Hyndman," "and hundreds of ratepayers in the city could not afford to do it."

The Clerk (Mr. A. W. Perry, J.P.), said the man referred to helped in the Union Infirmary, where he was a very useful man.

Lady Anderson—Supposing he were to win the "sweep." (Laughter).

The Chairman (Mr. A. J. Irwin, B.A.)—Maybe he has only a bob share of that ten shillings. I think we shall pass from the question.

Mr. Hyndman—It is only being passed from for the day. It will be brought up again.

BOUNTY ON SHEEP OFFALS

The Department of Agriculture announces that a bounty on offals of sheep and of lambs exported on and after the 1st June, 1936, will be payable until further notice at the rate of 20s. per cwt., provided that the regulations governing payment of such bounty are complied with.

Copies of the regulations will be obtainable on application to the Secretary, Department of Agriculture.

BELGIUM HAS TO VOTE

SUCCESS OF NEW PARTY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BRUSSELS, Sunday.

VOTING in the Belgian elections proceeded quietly throughout to-day. No serious disturbances were reported, but last night there were one or two minor brawls in Liège, Ghent and Namur.

At Liège a priest was slightly wounded by some young men who were sticking up posters outside his house during the night. The only really serious incident was at Antwerp on Saturday, when two people were killed in a clash between propagandists for the young Fascist group, the Realistes—a counter-part to the new party "Rex"—and a group of Socialists.

The average Belgian has taken the elections calmly. He is legally bound to go to the polls, or be fined 35s. He has had the choice of voting for a list of candidates or for a particular individual.

There has been a swing to the extreme Left and extreme Right at the expense of the three moderate parties—Catholics, Liberals and Socialists—which held the great majority of seats in the last Parliament. The position of the Liberals up to the present is precarious, but the Socialists, in spite of losses, are expected still to be powerful in the new Parliament.

The surprise of the election has been the remarkable success of the Rexistes, a break-away group from the elderly Catholic or Clerical Party, who have conducted a violent campaign against political and financial power, and have made great play with various financial "scandals" of the past ten years. The party, which did not exist at the last election, has polled as high as 43 per cent. of the votes recorded in some cantons.

TEACHERS' SALARY "CUTS"

CLAIM FOR THEIR RESTORATION

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BOYLE, Sunday.

A meeting of the Roscommon County Committee of the Irish National Teachers' Organisation took place here last night.

Mr. P. J. Griffith, of the Central Executive, said that the national teachers of the Free State now had the unenviable distinction of being the lowest paid teachers in Ireland, despite the heavier burden of the restoration of the national language that is being borne by the schools. All public servants in the Free State, with the single exception of the national teachers, had had their economy "cuts" restored to them. The Government, he thought, was in honour bound to restore these "cuts" as soon as the State showed signs of recovering prosperity.

On the motion of Mr. T. McManus (chairman of the County Committee), seconded by Mr. M. Kelly, it was resolved:—"That as the salaries of other public servants who have suffered under the Temporary Economies Act have been restored in full, we consider it grossly unfair that national teachers, on whom devolves the most difficult part of the work of Gaelicisation of Saorstat Eireann, have been discriminated against, and we claim as a right the salaries embodied in the salary agreement of 1920."

RIOT IN NORTHERN VILLAGE

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

STEWARTSTOWN, Sunday.

Riotous scenes followed the arrival of an excursion party from Belfast at Marghery, a village on the shores of Lough Neagh, on Saturday afternoon. The party arrived by 'bus at about three o'clock, and had tea at the local hotel. Some time afterwards they are reported to have walked to St. Mary's Roman Catholic church and to have thrown stones, breaking the windows of the schoolhouse at the entrance to the church.

The majority of the village folk were engaged in farm work and were absent from the village at the time of the attack. Soon, however, they returned and drove the excursion party from the neighbourhood of the church and schools. It is stated that some shots were fired in the course of the encounter.

After a time the excursion party returned, and the struggle was renewed. There was a free fight for upwards of an hour, and when the excursionists at length took refuge in their 'bus its windows were smashed with stones. A number of the excursionists had been wounded in the encounter. Quiet was restored only when a police force arrived in two Crossley cars from Portadown. The wounded men were placed in the 'bus and taken to the Birches barracks. One man, who had attempted to snatch a revolver from a constable, was arrested. Dr. Fleming, of Portadown, attended to the wounded men, and they were taken to the Lurgan Hospital.

The police searched several houses during Saturday night.

ROYAL HOSPITAL FOR INCURABLES

Lindsay, Miss Fry, the Misses Mooney, Miss Seeds, Miss Walker Brown, Miss Molony, Miss Redington Roche, Miss Boland, Miss Harding, Mrs. W. H. Fry, Miss Sweetman, Miss Hutton, Miss Mave Marnon, Miss P. Sarsfield Brady, Miss Fahie, Mrs. Thomson, Miss Stephens, Miss Sullivan, Miss Henshaw, Mrs. Pringle, Mrs. Walter V. Jones.

BRITISH DRUG ADDICTS

SAID TO NUMBER 30,000

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Sunday.

THE number of confirmed drug addicts in Great Britain is now estimated at 30,000. This figure is the total arrived at by the Opium Section of the League of Nations, which is making the first scientific attempt to estimate the total number of drug addicts in the world.

It is believed that the annual consumption of drugs by addicts in Britain is five tons.

Altogether there are more than 2,000,000 addicts in the world, according to the Opium Section's preliminary figures. These addicts use between 350 and 500 tons of narcotics yearly. These totals do not take into account the multitudes in the East who smoke opium—they are numbered in tens of millions.

The United States narcotics authorities calculate that there are 120,000 confirmed drug addicts in their country, and that they consume some 25 tons of drugs annually—an average daily consumption of six grains.

In one province in China the police use dogs which are able to smell opium, even when a man is carrying it carefully concealed.

One of the sensations of the Board's session has been the discovery of a new drug, announced by Mr. S. F. Fuller, the United States delegate, who referred to it as "the world's most deadly." The effects of this drug, which is named dihydrodesoxymorphine, are said to be more terrible than those of heroin.

NEW PLAY BY DUBLIN AUTHOR

A new play, entitled "Letters," by Garry Hundon, a Dublin author, is to be presented by the Pembroke Players, in aid of the Presbyterian Church Fête, in the Presbyterian Hall, Tritonville road, Sandymount, next Tuesday and Thursday.

A drama of the "thriller" type, "Letters" deals with the machinations of a blackmailer and his fate. The blackmailer, played by Paul Carr, the producer, is murdered, and, in so far as the time factor is all important, the murderer has an alibi that would remind one of "The Ten Minute Alibi." While dramatic tension is achieved by the main theme, there is sufficient humour in the play to give balance to the action and the dénouement is surprising.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE NOTES

THE UNION SCHEME

HONORARY DEGREES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

THE Senate of the National University met last Thursday, with Mr. Eamonn de Valera, Chancellor of the University, in the chair. It was decided to grant the degrees of B.Sc. and M.Sc. to Associate and Fellows of the Royal College of Science. This college, which had done much good work since its foundation, was finally merged with the National University in 1925, and its headquarters in Merrion street have been, since that date, the main engineering and scientific buildings of University College, Dublin.

Dr. Simon Flexner, Director of the Rockefeller Institute, and Professor John Taylor, Professor of Mechanical Engineering, are to be recipients of the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

PROF. T. CORCORAN, S.J.

At this meeting also further advances were noted towards the completion of the National University Union scheme. It will be remembered that at the previous meeting, which unanimously set up a Statute embodying the idea of such a union, the sum of £16,000 was accepted as a figure with which the scheme could be started.

This sum has now been divided in the following ratio:—55 per cent. to University College, Dublin; 25 per cent. to University College, Cork, and 20 per cent. to University College, Galway. The annual subscription for graduate members of the Union has been fixed at £1, though the subscription for undergraduate members will be arranged by the governing committees in each individual centre. Provision has been made in the statute which allows the particular local governing body great liberty of action in its own particular area. This system, I understand, is a result of the situation which now exists. University College, Dublin, is well equipped on the athletic side with its new ground at Belfield Park and boathouse at Islandbridge. Neither Galway nor Cork is as well off in this respect, though, from the social point of view, they both have a Union building, which is lacking here. Such a happy completion to the efforts that have been made by students' councils since their earliest days has been received with the greatest enthusiasm here. Dr. Corcoran, Professor of Education, must be congratulated again on all he has done on their behalf. It may be truthfully stated that without him it is extremely doubtful if this happy conclusion would have been reached—at least, within the student life of the present undergraduates.

Music in U.C.D.

A new enthusiasm for the art of music has seized University College within the last few years. The Musical Society, under Professor O'Dwyer, has experienced an activity formerly reserved for such bodies as the Literary and Historical Society. It produced "The Pirates of Penzance" last year, while this year not alone has it "Patience" to its credit, but a further public production of "Eithne" is well under way.

Dr. Larchet, Professor of Music, last term resuscitated the College orchestra, and is at the moment busily engaged with his selection. At the Feis Ceoil last week Miss T. Coleman was a prize-winner in the ladies duet and the winner of the mezzo-soprano section. Miss Maire McHugh was third in the mezzo soprano contest, being the winner of the Denis O'Sullivan Cup. Mr. P. Brennan won the Esposito Cup, and was placed with his brother in the piano duet competition. Miss Maire Viani, a most enthusiastic supporter of the Musical Society, who was one of the "stars" of its recent productions of "Patience" and "The Pirates of Penzance," was very highly commended for her singing of "Madam Butterfly" in the Feis. Miss Viani has broadcast on more than one occasion.

MISS M. VIANI.

An extraordinary general meeting of the Literary and Historical Society took place last Saturday evening. Only members of the Society were in attendance. It was proposed that in future the Auditor shall be given powers to report any member of the Society or of the public gallery to the President of the Society if the particular individual is indulging in unwarranted obstruction of the general business of the house. It was also proposed that the Visiting Chairman should take the chair immediately on entering the room, and that, if there should be any private business in session then, it should be completed at the end of the ordinary debate. The election for auditorship of this Society will take place on Wednesday next. Mr. Vincent Grogan and Mr. Seamus O'Conaill are the two candidates for this important office.

Constitutional Amendments

Another extraordinary general meeting of the Cumann Gaedealacht has been called for Tuesday, to consider similar amendments of its constitution to those who engaged the Literary and Historical Society's attention on Saturday night. There is also a motion to exclude members of the Society from voting at its general meetings who have not previously spoken before it. At the election last week Miss Maire O'Carroll was elected Auditor, with Mr. T. Waldron, Mr. T. Shiel, Mr. P. Cearney and Mr. S. Clery as her committee.

T. D. PURCELL.

The Golf Club, with their "star" player and captain, Mr. T. Purcell, are having a wonderfully successful year. They have already beaten Dublin University and Newcastle, though defeated by very strong teams from St. Andrew's University and Glasgow University. Last week they advanced into the third round of the Barton Cup by defeating Bettystown, 4-1. Later in the week they became Leinster junior champions for the first time by defeating Rosslare. Before this, in the Junior Cup, they had won against Hermitage, Sutton, Portmarnock and Milltown.

The Australian Immigration Regulations, by which Asiatic visitors to the Commonwealth have to give a security of £200 each, have been suspended so far as Ceylon visitors to the Adelaide Exhibition and Centenary Celebrations are concerned.

KILBEGGAN TO-DAY

Battleforth Fancied for the Loughnagore Plate

THE annual meeting at Kilbeggan is always a popular event, and, as the programme for this afternoon is a fairly attractive one, there should be the usual big crowd. Many horses have been declared for more than one race, but there should be fair-sized fields for the majority of the races. Battleforth is one horse that has a choice of races, and, should he be saddled for the Loughnagore Plate and win, the Kilbeggan Challenge Cup will likely be won by Roman King. Selections:—

Brusna Plate—Spinthoris.
Midland Plate—Bromley.
Loughnagore Plate—Battleforth.
Stand Plate—Wavelet's Pet.
Tally-Ho Plate—Donardo.
Kilbeggan Challenge Cup—Roman King.

THE DERBY SITUATION

The Doubt About Abjer : Boswell's Prospects : Theft and the Coronation Cup

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Sunday Night.

WITHOUT waiting for the return from the Continent of Lord Astor, who is due back in England to-morrow, Major Gerald Deane, his manager, struck Rhodes Scholar out of the Derby at three minutes past mid-day yesterday. He had been in communication with Lord Astor by telephone and informed him of a certificate which Mr. J. B. Walker, the Reading veterinary surgeon, had signed, to the effect that the colt was slightly lame in both forelegs, and that his future career might be ruined by running him.

This entirely confirms what I wrote a few days ago to the effect that if the colt had not actually jarred himself he was as near to it as made no matter. His last work, even though it was only on the moss litter at no great speed, put the finishing touch to him.

Rhodes Scholar is a brother in blood to Canon Law, who was also out of Book Law, but by Colorado instead of Pharos, and, although he was a very good colt indeed, Canon Law had very bad forelegs and had to be severely pin-fired. Rhodes Scholar seemed to have a better pair of legs than Canon Law, but they have not stood up to the hard ground.

Lord Astor still has a worthy representative in the race in Pay Up.

Final Derby Gallops

Most of the Derby candidates did their final gallops yesterday morning, except Abjer, who only cantered, and will gallop to-day. I doubt, however, whether Mr. Lambton will ask much of him.

This trainer declares that of all the good horses that he has had through his hands Abjer has puzzled him most. He is never two days alike—one morning a hurricane and another morning a puff of wind that would not move a leaf. He is not a bad-tempered horse or a rogue, or even moody, but he does just as he pleases in his work.

Mr. Lambton is a magician and in a class to himself when it comes to making an accurate diagnosis of the temperaments of horses and realising when they are not on good terms with themselves. Who, for instance, but he would have had the courage and the prescience to send Tranquil out of his stable and away from Newmarket to complete her preparation for the St. Leger—which she won—under the late Charles Morton at Wantage? But he had realised that the filly was not happy for the moment in her own surroundings and sent her away.

A Gambling Chance

There is no doubt about Abjer being a very good colt, indeed, who is likely to stay the Derby distance on firm going, and I firmly believe that if he is in the right frame of mind on Wednesday he will win the Derby. He is a pure gambling chance, but not a betting one, because if he is in the wrong mood he is just as likely to finish well down the course as to win.

All Butters' four worked well on Saturday—Bala Hissar with Mahmoud and Noble King and Taj Akbar with Sind. Their trainer does not even pretend to know which of the four is the best. Only if the going were soft could I fancy Noble King. We had some rain on Friday night, followed by a harsh North-East wind yesterday, and to-day it is still drying.

There is said to be rain coming from Germany, and we shall be grateful for the gift if it arrives. It would make the going good at Epsom, but it will come all too late for the horses that have not been able to take their full quota of work in the last few weeks.

No horse worked better at Newmarket yesterday than Boswell, who went a mile and a quarter with Monument and the Jubilee winner, Inflation. He went extremely well earlier in the week with Omaha, and if this Gold Cup colt and the Jubilee winner are good enough to test a Derby horse highly Captain Boyd-Rochfort will probably decide to-morrow whether to run Monument or not.

Some rain would probably help the chance of Boswell, but it is a good one as it is; that is, unless the ground is much firmer at Epsom than it is at Newmarket.

Carioca in a market sense grows in favour, and instead of being at a long price is now only 20 to 1, which is full short odds in a year like this.

I do not expect to see any great changes in the market when the card is called over to-morrow. Taj Akbar and Pay Up are likely to harden a little and Boswell may come to a shorter price.

No Springer Likely

There is hardly the faintest possibility of there being a genuine springer in the market on the day of the race unless there is some false betting, as there often is, on account of covering money from the sweepstakes tickets.

Acceptances are rather poor for the various events at Epsom this year, and there is really nothing of much interest except the Derby, the Coronation Cup and the Oaks. The Coronation Cup is likely to be a very good race, although Omaha will miss it for an engagement at Kempton on Saturday.

This long-backed horse is not an ideal one for the course, and might run a stone below his from there. The race, however, is likely to produce Omaha's greatest Gold Cup rival, Lord Derby's colt, Plassy, and he will be opposed, among others, by Theft and Robin Goodfellow, who showed himself a good colt on the Epsom course when he finished second to Bahram in the Derby.

Theft's Chance

My own opinion of that Derby has always been that Theft should have been second. His best distance hitherto has been a mile and a quarter. If, however, the pace is not too hot, and Smirke can hold him up, then he has a very good chance of beating Lord Derby's colt.

I can see nothing in the race outside these three, for, although William of Valence has a 10lb. pull with them, he has never reproduced his Grand Prix form or anything like it since he came to England.

The interest in the Oaks depends a good deal on Tideway. After Lord Derby's filly had won the One Thousand Guineas she had a recurrence of the bother with a joint that caused her retirement so early last season.

Recently she has been moving well in her work, and her trainer is pleased with her again. All the same, should the ground be hard on Friday, we might not see the real Tideway. It will be a pity if she is not right this week, because I am sure she is the best filly in training. She might conceivably be the best three-year-old, but that is conjectural.

A Slow Start Spoils

Then there is Lord Astor's Traffic Light, This filly was much fancied for the One Thousand, but through a slow start she was left with an impossible amount of ground to make up. Even then she finished close to the placed horses.

Feola was second in the One Thousand and has been coming on well since. The King's filly is much fancied, but it should be remembered that she is by Friar Marcus, and that the race is over a mile and a half.

If there should be rain there would be a chance for Ferrybridge, but not otherwise, I think. She found the ground even at Newmarket too firm. Silver Birch is a good staying filly, as she demonstrated by winning the Haverhill Stakes. This seems to complete the list of likely fillies.

Oaks Trial Plate

There was an Oaks Trial Plate yesterday at Lingfield, where the racing was good. It was won by the Maharajah of Rajpipla's Miss Windsor, who will be in the field on Friday, and is likely to stay the distance well, for she finished strongly here when she beat Windrush and Eastway by two lengths and a short head.

Miss Windsor is a grand-looking filly, bred at the Fort Union Stud, and when Lord Adare sent her to Doncaster Marcus Marsh gave 1,900 guineas for her. She is by Foxlaw from Gwyniad, and like the rest of the Foxlaws has been slow in developing, but her trainer has given her every chance.

She was raced very little last season, and on her only appearance this season finished fourth to Silver Birch in the Haverhill Stakes. She ran a little lazily now, but after E. Smith shook her up she came away and won handsomely.

An Exciting Finish

Although the field was a small one there was a most exciting finish to the Cosmopolitan Cup, in which Plunger beat Owers by a short head, a subsequent objection by the jockey on the second being over-ruled. Plunger, another good stayer, sired by Winalot, is owned by Mrs. Chester Beatty, and is trained at Manton by Lawson, who won the Yorkshire Cup on Wednesday with Valerius. Both these long races cut up badly at the acceptance stage, and yet both provided magnificent finishes.

Stage Coach and Jack Tar made the early running, but half a mile out Owers took it up from Elmstead. Then at the distance Plunger moved up on the inside. The opening on the rails was a narrow one, but Sirret forced him through, and keeping him going strongly he was just too good for the other.

After his scintillating performances at Bath and Salisbury, where he had ten winners in the three days, Gordon Richards did not ride a winner nor was he placed in any of the four races in which he had mounts.

Both selling plates were won by favourites, Rough Play, by Truculent, taking the first for Tabor, and Ticanto, by Stratford, the second for Wootton's stable. Then Miss Windsor was favourite and so was Plunger, so that everything seemed delightful when we came to the fifth race.

Multissimo's Win

This was the Lingfield Three-year-old Handicap, and odds were asked for about Richards's mount, Hollands. This one was not nearly good enough, and the 11 to 2 chance, Multissimo, trained by V. Smith for Mr. Misa, won easily by four lengths and the same from Pont Neuf and Darned Clever.

Richards had an unfancied ride, Abscond, in the last race, the Weir Courtenay Plate, in which Bob Each Way was favourite from Mickey the Greek. Some of the earlier winnings were dissipated here, for the winner, Bagpipes, was a 20 to 1 chance, and beat Dark Vixen and Mickey the Greek by two lengths and a short head.

Mickey the Greek was unlucky, for he never got a clear run until they were in the last hundred yards. Bagpipes belongs to Mr. J. V. Rank. He is a brown colt by Black Watch, and as a yearling Mr. Rank gave 280 guineas for him when his National Hunt jockey, Jack Fawcus, sent him to Newmarket in October.

I see that the very useful six-year-old Meldrum broke a leg at Newmarket yesterday morning, and had to be destroyed. He was by Yutoi, and was a fair class performer in distance handicaps.

JACK'S THE BOY SCORES

Favourites Fare Well at Naas Meeting

THE bitterly cold weather on Saturday afternoon notwithstanding, there was a splendid attendance at Naas, and some very interesting racing helped to mitigate the unpleasant conditions. The two steeplechases provided the best contests, and the May Plate, for maidens, produced a particularly good finish. Favourites fared well during the afternoon, four of the six races falling to the best fancied candidates.

Mr. R. Fetherstonhaugh's stable was doubly represented by Mrs. W. Bagwell's Merry Abbott and Miss M. R. S. Laidlaw's Shanter, and the former of this pair triumphed after a great race with Liscarney and Maid of Brandon. Liscarney landed first over the last fence, and looked to have the race won, when Merry Abbott put in a strong finish, and, staying on the better, beat the other by three-parts of a length. As regards Mrs. Bagwell, the owner of Merry Abbott, who resides in Clonmel, it was a case of beginner's luck, for the son of Melleray is the first horse she ever owned. Silken Rose was at the head of the field when she fell half a mile from home, and Wolfram and Regal Raiment also fell at a later stage of the race.

FORM HORSE WINS

The Hunters' Plate provided a consolation race for some Punchestown failures, and in this instance form worked out well, for Jack's the Boy, who had finished second to Pontet at Punchestown, and again was second to Lady Sen at Dundalk, now, at the altered weights, turned the tables on the latter and won very comfortably. Cash Girl, who led for most of the way, ran very wide at different parts of the race, but for which she would doubtless have made a bolder bid, but she should not be long about winning a race.

The Wallop Plate was won in easy style by Mr. J. J. Parkinson's Soltava, ridden by Mr. E. Parkinson, and another easy win was that of Lucky Catch in the Sallins Plate. Lucky Catch was bred by Mr. H. S. Gray, being by Mascot out of Lasso, and he ran five times last year without winning. He is now owned by Mr. J. T. Rogers, and was ridden by E. Gardner. This combination was again to the fore later when the odds-on chance, Mademoiselle Eileen, romped away with the Kill Plate.

Almeria, a filly by Allenby—Scythe, who was bred by her owner, Mr. T. H. Griffin, accounted for a much better fancied candidate in Geanarla and others to win the Newlands Plate.

Catering by Mrs. Lawlor and Sons, Naas.

WYE AND SHIRLEY

Selections for Meetings Under National Hunt Rules

TWO meetings under National Hunt Rules—at Wye and Shirley—start the most important racing week of the year. Entries are unusually numerous for the time of the season, due, no doubt, to the fact that owners and trainers of jumpers are trying to make up for the long spell of no racing during January and February caused by severe weather.

Courtesy is not under orders to run for the Dover Handicap Steeplechase, and in his absence top-weight will be carried by Saint Christopher. The only other probable runners are Windy, Grovella, Zane Grey, Drakensburg and Yarmouth. Saint Christopher, a winner at Worcester about a month ago, makes more appeal at the weights than Windy. Grovella has not a lot of finishing speed, and over this sharp course I prefer Zane Grey, who has done well since he joined Herbert Smyth's string. He has the beating of Windy on recent Folkestone form Drakensburg, who started favourite last time out, has a handy weight, and he may be the danger to

ZANE GREY.

The Chilham Hurdle, also worth £100, can attract a few useful class performers. Tuxedo who has earned most of the penalties, started at 6 to 4 on and won in a canter at Pershore early this month, and Wing Commander and Shipbourne are certain to be dangerous. Gosden, the Lewes trainer, has preferred to be represented by Mesmerist, last year's winner, instead of Band of Hope.

MESMERIST

ran the greatly improved Max to three-parts of a length at Folkestone, and he should be good enough here.

GOLD CUP

may repeat his last year's success in the Canterbury Hunters' Steeplechase, and, judging by the way he has been running of late, he has reached the top of his form.

PRINCESS AVRIL

is taken to beat Mazda in the Harville Novices' Hurdle.

I anticipate plenty of runners and some open betting races at Shirley.

CAPTAIN'S CHOICE

may defy a 7lb. penalty in the Knowle Hurdle. He won with a lot in hand at Newton Abbot about a fortnight ago. Selections:—

NEWMARKET NOTES

Winding-Up Gallops of the Derby Candidates

NEWMARKET, Sunday.

THERE was much activity on the Heath over the week-end, but little could be seen of the winding-up spins of the Derby candidates due to torrential rains, which made visibility very bad. Rain had held off so long that trainers were getting very anxious about their charges; in fact, the position looked so critical that some of the candidates would have had to face Wednesday's ordeal without having had a good gallop over the distance.

Most interest on Saturday centred in the work Frank Butters gave his four aspirants. Taj Akbar, the favourite, had a mile and a quarter gallop with Noble King, Sind and Wordsworth. Mahmoud (W. Pugh) was given a gallop with Bala Hissar and El Sbaa over the same distance at a nice pace. To my way of thinking Noble King has made the necessary improvement from the time that he won the Greenham Stakes at Newbury to prove to be the best of the Fitzroy House quartet.

Boswell was ridden by P. Beasley, and moved freely in a striding mile and a quarter spin with Precipitation, Flares, Monument and Inflation. I have no regret in having taken Boswell on my side. Prior to the Jubilee he galloped so well with Inflation that I did not fancy the latter's chance at Kempton, yet he won with 8st. on his back. I am still of the opinion that Boswell, despite his poor show in the Two Thousand, will be a fighting factor.

Harvey Leader's Spinalot had a mile and a half spin with St. Magnus, Somersault and Fairhaven.

Mr. A. de Rothschild was present to see Ted Leader give Midstream a good stripped mile and a half spin with Suzerain and Flambeau. I am afraid that Midstream will be found lacking in stamina.

To-day the Hon. G. Lambton stripped Abjer (Connorton) and gave him a useful gallop over a mile and a quarter with Elzear (W. Rickaby). I have no fancy for Abjer's chance on Wednesday next.

Basil Jarvis sent Walvis Bay the full Derby distance with Satanic and Detention, while Jack Jarvis's Fearless Fox, who many regard as a likely outsider, had a six-furlong spin.

DERBY PROBABLES AND FORM

RHODES SCHOLAR was struck out of the Derby on Saturday, and J. Sirett, who was to have ridden him will now steer Plaster Cast, who is also the property of Lord Astor.

F. Lane, who won the Derby in 1932 on April The Fifth, has been engaged to ride Mr. Minoprios Haulfryn. He will also ride Chinese Star in the Oaks if the filly is saddled. She finished last in the Oaks Trial Plate at Lingfield on Saturday.

Rumours to the detriment of Mahmoud were prevalent at Lingfield on Saturday, but Frank Butters, the trainer, states that there is no ground whatever for alarm, and that the colt is well.

Two of J. Lawson's Derby candidates, Mendicant Friar and Raeburn, had a mile and a half gallop on Saturday with Miss Dorothy Paget's Ormstead, who went well, and his trainer, D. G. Snow, states that the colt is a certain runner for the Derby if more rain falls.

The card on the Derby will be called over at the Victoria Club, to-day at 12 noon, and on Tuesday at 7.15 p.m. The probable starters and jockeys are:—

CLAY PIGEON SHOOTING

THE INTER-STATE SHOOT

A 13 POINTS VICTORY FOR NORTHERN IRELAND

The three principal events of the Irish clay pigeon shooting season were held on Saturday at the Phœnix Park Racecourse. They included the Irish Single and Double Rise (individual) Championships and Inter-State team shoot.

A strong wind and poor light made the conditions difficult at the start. They improved later, and a high standard of marksmanship was reached. J. J. McDermott (Maynooth) and D. Smyth (I.S.G.C.) figured most prominently in tieing with 45 kills for the "Singles" (a fifty bird event), the former winning the shoot-off "Double" honours were taken by Commandant Hannon (Curragh) with a total of 31 points.

Teams of 17, each member shooting at 25 birds, took part in the Inter-State shoot, with the aggregate of the 14 best scores on each side counting. Northern Ireland totalled 256 against 243 for the Free State. For the winners, J. Maxwell (Newtownards), J. D. Stewart (Belfast), J. A. Campbell (Limavady) and G. Clarke (Belfast) with 21 each were top scorers. On the Free State side, J. J. McDermott (Maynooth) 23, T. Glynn (I.S.G.C.) 22, W. Power (Wicklow) 22, and D. YACHTING

WEATHER STILL UNSUITABLE

ROUGH SEAS SPOIL RACING

Saturday was an improvement upon the previous week-end, but only in degree. There was a fresh breeze this time—from Nor'-East—but it was on the cold side, and a lot of rough water was showing in Dublin Bay. The Bullock mark-boat could not be placed out—at least it would be swamped quickly if this had been done—and so the signal for "alternative courses" was hoisted early. Taking things on their face value, the day was far from inviting, and a general hesitancy about racing, or getting ready to race, was noticeable before the hour for starting arrived.

The R.A.Y.C. match (a handicap for yachts not exceeding 16 tons) came to nothing, only one entry having been made. She was entitled to a sail-over, but did not take it, and the race probably will be resailed later in the season.

ESTELLE IN FORM

It is early yet to talk about the form of the 21-Footers, but Estelle on Saturday confirmed that shown on the previous Thursday; she led from start to finish in the D.B.S.C. match and won handsomely at the end.

At the start (3.5 p.m.) she led Oola, Geraldine and Innisfallen through the line and easily did beat on the beat out of harbour. Rough water was met going to the Seapoint mark, from which they had a beat up to the South Bar buoy. Then came a run home again, and wide gaps were showing at the close of the first round. Back to Seapoint again; then home to harbour, where the finish was timed:—

	H.	M.	S.
Estelle (winner) (Mr. F. FitzGibbon, K.C.)	4	56	32
Geraldine (2nd prize) (Dr. W. M. A. Wright)	4	58	38
Oola (Messrs. Falkiner and Wilson)..	5	1	59
Innisfallen (Messrs. C. and A. Odlum)	5	2	18

NEPENTHE SCORES ON HANDICAP

The starting line accident was startling, and occurred just before the Unclassified Boats (Section I.) were sent away. There were three in the match—viz., Norah, Punctilio and Nepenthe—and at the time they were reaching on the port tack towards the Carlisle Pier, the intention being to cross the line on the starboard tack. With about 15 seconds to go, and when close to the pier, the after portion of Norah's boom became foul of Punctilio's bowsprit, and the former yacht swung round, heading into the pier. This she struck a glancing blow, her bowsprit (which remained intact) and bobstay (which carried away), together with the deep piling of the pier, softening the force of impact. No great harm was done to the yacht, but she was hors de combat and crippled so far as starting was concerned.

As for the race, Punctilio led Nepenthe through the line at 3.20 p.m., dallied a little to see how Norah was faring, and then went away to lead Nepenthe around the Bar and Rosbeg buoy. She had to concede Nepenthe 7 m., but on the shortened "alternative course" failed to do so by 1 m. 23 secs. Finish:—

	H'cap.	H.	M.	S.
Punctilio (Messrs. Jacob and Stephens)	Scr.	5	2	37
Nepenthe (winner) (Mr. T. A W. Purefoy)	7m.	5	8	14

ONLY TWO WAGS

General indecision as to whether there would or would not be a Wag race resulted in only two boats, Pansy and Phyllis, coming to the line at 3.35 p.m. Pansy led, but Phyllis took the first mark from her. Through over-reaching, the latter lost the lead at the same mark on the next round, and from that on Pansy was in front. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Pansy (winner) (Dr. J. H. Stephens)	4	30	36
Phyllis (Mrs. Newsome and Mr. W. R. McFerran)	4	30	42

IN BELFAST LOUGH

A strong north-easterly wind and a choppy sea made oilskins necessary at Cultra on Saturday afternoon, when the Royal North of Ireland Yacht Club opened their season. The most exciting incident was the duel for third place in the Fairy class, when Mr. W. Beck's Lorelei passed H. T. McColl's Psyche practically on the finishing line to win by two seconds. Weather conditions led to the non-appearance of any of the new Dinghy class, of which there are nine at Cultra.

The winners were:—Island Class—Eriska (Mr. R. E. Workman). Fairy Class—Minx (Mr. A. Kent). Lake Class—Chiquita (Mr. J. R. Workman). Waverley Class—Talisman (Mr. W. T. Neill).

Horse Destroyed at Ayr

Ellanar, one of the competitors for the Stewards' Selling Handicap at Ayr on Saturday, stumbled on the rails and fell heavily. As she had broken a hind leg she was destroyed.

POLO

REDS SCORE SEVEN GOALS

INTERESTING MATCH AT A.I.P.C.

REDS .... 7 WHITES 3

Plenty of good, hard galloping was seen in the six-chukkar match of the All Ireland Polo Club, at the Nine Acres, Phœnix Park, Dublin, when superior hitting at goal decided the issue in favour of Reds, who beat Whites by 7 goals to 3.

Reds had a big advantage at number three and back positions, filled respectively by Major Kirkwood and Mr. J. Martin, who were both at the top of their form. Major Kirkwood's stickwork was exceptionally good, and Mr. Martin put plenty of dash into the play the way he came through several times. Mr. H. Tyrrell did plenty of good work at number two, a position which he changed for a couple of chukkars with Mr. Quinlan.

Whites had little luck with their shots at goal, and had more of the play than the score indicates, but Major O'Rorke, who was again in fine form, was only inches wide with a couple of good efforts, and Mr. Johnson and Mr. P. McCann also were unfortunate to see good shots going just wide of an upright.

Mr. J. Martin and Major Kirkwood narrowly missed scoring for Reds in the first period, which was scoreless; but early in the second chukkar Major Kirkwood took the ball right through from almost his own goal, to score, and give Reds the lead. The same player hit the second with a very long shot just before the bell, and, continuing to have rather the better of the play in the third period, Reds increased their total to five, with goals from Mr. J. Martin (2) and Major Kirkwood.

Whites had more of the play in the fourth chukkar, and Mr. Johnson scored for them from a free at an open goal from forty yards, but in the fifth chukkar Messrs. H. Tyrrell and P. McCann scored for Reds, before Mr. Leonard hit the second goal for Whites. The last chukkar was a slow one, and Mr. Leonard scored Whites' third goal.

Whites—Mr. P. McCann (2 chukkars), Mr. W. Tyrrell (5), Mr. W. Hilliard (5), Mr. J. A. Leonard (3), Major J. O'Rorke (4), Mr. J. Johnson (5).

Reds—Mr. L. Martin (3), Mr. P. McCann (2), Mr. H. Tyrrell (5), Mr. H. Quinlan (2), Major T. W. Kirkwood (6), Mr. J. Martin (6).

Umpire—Mr. W. Magee.

GAELIC GAMES

LIMERICK WIN AGAIN

New York Hurlers Well Beaten by Touring Team

SPECIAL TELEGRAM.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

The Limerick hurling team overwhelmed New York by 6 goals 3 points (21) to eight points, before a crowd of 15,000, under a broiling sun, at the Yankee Stadium to-day. This was Limerick's second victory over New York, and as a result Limerick were awarded the massive silver cup given by James Reeves.

Limerick led after five minutes. McMahon driving over a point. A minute later Roche goaled cleverly from a difficult angle. New York rallied strongly, Helebert scoring three points in succession. Limerick continued their champion-like display up to the interval, Close, McMahon and Mick Mackey goaling, while Cross and Close scored points. New York obtained two points through Holland and Cordial. Half-time came with Limerick leading by 4 goals 3 points to New York's 5 points.

Limerick continued to dominate the game on the resumption, and after Helebert had scored another point for New York Roche and John Mackey each goaled for Limerick, and shortly before time Mayes and Madigan each scored a point to make the final score 21-8 in Limerick's favour.

CAVAN HELD TO DRAW

The Cavan footballers were concerned in a hard struggle with New York, and only led by 1 goal and 2 points to 1 goal and 1 point at half-time. It was a thrilling and desperate struggle, and neither side gave any quarter.

Jim Smith and Hugh O'Reilly were outstanding for Cavan, and Johnny McGoldrick for New York. Two minutes from the start Tom O'Reilly drove in a point for Cavan, while Boylan quickly followed with a goal. New York attacked furiously, Stynes scoring from a pass from McGoldrick and Linehan. McGoldrick tied the score at 4-4 from a free, and just before the interval Cavan regained the lead with a lead from Devlin. The final score was 9 points each.

FAUGHS QUALIFY FOR FINAL

GREAT EFFORT BY EOGHAN RHUA FAILS

FAUGHS .... 5-5 EOGHAN RHUA 4-2

When Eoghan Rhuas put Young Irelands out of the championship the "juniors" jumped to first flight of senior hurlers, but Faughs were favourites at Killester Park yesterday in the semi-final of the Dublin senior hurling title. The teams were level twice in the hour, and Rhua's goal for the lead in the fifthieth minute brought a thrill to the finish. Faughs had sufficient steadiness to recover with two brilliant goals, and qualified to meet U.C.D. in the final.

Inside a minute Byrne was through for an Eoghan Rhua goal, and when Faughs worked upfield Connolly, Nicholl and O'Brien were sound in defence. Butler centred to Downes for Faughs' opening point, and Devitt and Egan gave him assistance for a second minor, while Wade drove the balancing score across from a distant free. Rhuas were the livelier group and Ryan was called on repeatedly in Faughs' goal. He never erred in cool judgment, and it was a rushed ball of Byrne's which beat him for Rhua's second goal.

Egan cut in a perfect ball from a side line puck, which beat O'Hara and set the teams level for the second time, and Butler got Faughs' second goal before half-time.Interval—Faughs, 2-3; Eoghan Rhua, 2-0.

J. McElinn came on for Kelly in Rhua's attack and both goals withstood a siege before R. Donoghue lifted skilfully and raced through for a goal. The Galway man put Faughs further ahead with a point. Connolly pointed for a free and Gleeson had a chance from a side line drive to point well.

The next five minutes had Rhua's supporters cheering wildly. P. Melinn crashed a goal through, and before Faughs' backs recovered a free was placed for Gleeson and he shot low to the net, to give Rhuas the lead. Downes broke through and goaled for Faughs to recover the lead, and a typical movement of O'Connell's brought the ball across the goal for O'Brien to double at lightning pace. Downes finished with a flying point, and he must be seriously considered in the 1936 Dublin selection.

GARDA BEST IN LEAGUE GAME

Garda .... 9-5 U.C.D. 4-2

University College were short six of their championship team, and took matters listlessly against Garda, who ran up scores quickly at Killester Park yesterday. Burke and Brown were on the mark for Garda before Foley pointed for U.C.D. McCarthy and Power stretched Garda's lead to 9 points to 1, and, although the students had a goal by Butler, the Garda were far the stronger side. Matt Power was in a scoring mood, and Mullane added to their wide margin before half-time. In a poor second half Power, Burke and McCarthy brought Garda's goal list to nine, and U.C.D.'s rally failed to bring them on terms, though J. McCarthy and Flanagan scored.

DUBLIN DEFEATED AT MULLINGAR

OFFALY .... 0-8 DUBLIN 1-3

In the Leinster Senior Football Championship at Mullingar yesterday Offaly beat Dublin by 8 points to 1 goal 3 points. Dublin had the advantage of the breeze in the first half, and changed sides leading by 1-2 to 0-2. In the second half Offaly added six points and Dublin one. Lynam and O'Reilly scored for Dublin, and for Offaly the scorers were O'Connor, Leonard and Corrigan.

CAMOGUIDHEACHT

DUBLIN BEAT KILDARE

DUBLIN .... 5-1 KILDARE 0-1

At Killester Dublin beat Kildare in the first round of the Leinster championship by a margin of fifteen points. Kildare were outclassed and would have been beaten by a larger score but for the fine defensive play of Miss Gannon, who was easily the best player on view. From a "25" Miss Ennis pointed for Kildare, and Miss Delaney (goal) and Miss Egan (point) replied for Dublin. Before half-time the Misses Hannon and Sheehan stretched Dublin's lead by two goals. In the second half Miss Egan and Miss Hannon again scored for Dublin.

EASY WIN FOR LEINSTER

Another Success for Trinity: Phœnix Score Freely

A BRILLIANT innings of 86 by F. J. Reddy and an excellent bowling performance by J. R. Graham were the chief factors in the easy win of Leinster over Clontarf at Rathmines by 113 runs. Batting first, Leinster declared with eight wickets down for 203, the result of two and three-quarter hours' play, and then Clontarf were dismissed in one and three-quarter hours for 90.

Reddy's contribution was quite free from blemish, and during his two hours' stay he hit one 6 and 9 4's. W. C. Pemberton batted very well for 30, and was unbeaten at the declaration. Against the bowling of Graham the Clontarf batsmen fared poorly, and G. J. Morgan was the only one to offer any real resistance. He made 35 in bright style, and his hits included one 6 and five 4's. Graham bowled in deadly form. Sending down 17 overs, 7 of which were maidens, he had seven wickets for 26 runs.

Trinity beat Merrion in the Senior League in the College Park by 58 runs. Trinity have now won three of their four League matches and drawn the other, while Merrion have only won one of their five engagements so far. The match was mainly a two-man affair. Trinity, batting first, totalled 140 in a little over two hours and a half, but, of this, R. J. Barnes scored 51, in which were a 5 (run out) and three 4's. Merrion rang the changes on their attack, and, of six bowlers, the most successful were Shortt, with four for 58, and O'Higgins, three for 23. Merrion lost four wickets for 20, but Little proved the backbone of the batting. He stayed for an hour and a quarter for 46, hitting two 6's and five 4's, but he got no support. Cope came out with the fine analysis of seven wickets for 34.

QUICK SCORING

Phœnix had a good win on their own ground, when they easily defeated their neighbours, Civil Service, whom they had put in after winning the toss. They got Service out for 95, C. E. Boyle's well-hit 41 being the only notable batting effort, while M. P. Ruddle, with seven wickets for 54, did most of the damage. D. R. Pigot played a good innings of 39 for Phœnix, and T. G. McVeagh rapidly scored 46 in excellent style, but the best effort of the day was F. M. Quinn's 71. He hit all round with equal facility, and especially strong to the on-side, and had eight shots for four and one for six. The innings eventually realised 257, Ruddle scoring freely later on.

Pembroke gave another indifferent display, and had to be content with a draw, against Y.M.C.A. at Sydney Parade. They lost three for 20 and four for 43, but, thanks to a fine innings of 49 by S. E. Law and a stolid 44 from M. B. Williams, they reached 160 for nine, at which they declared. They gave the opposition two hours' batting, but never looked like getting them out in time. V. Dobson batted really well for his 37 (not out), and never looked in difficulties with the bowling. G. J. Balmer defended resolutely for 23 (not out), and E. C. Smith was batting well when he was unfortunate in being out l.b.w.

A CLOSE FINISH

After a great finish St. Mary's Past beat the Present at Rathmines. Batting first the Past did badly, and but for Collison, who scored a fine 31, would have cut a sorry figure. I. Hooper (19) and B. Scott (11) batted well for the Present, and Wilson, with 5 for 19, and Boyd 4 for 9, bowled in deadly fashion for the Past.

LOW SCORING IN NORTH

North Down are now the only unbeaten team in the Northern Union League, consequent on the victory over North of Ireland and the defeat of Lisburn by Woodvale. North were all out for 133, and North Down got the runs for the loss of four wickets. Although the champions, Woodvale, scored only 90 runs against Lisburn, this score was large enough to inflict the first defeat of the season on Lisburn, who were all out for 40, C. W. Billingsley, the Woodvale fast bowler, taking six wickets for 14 runs.

Cliftonville recorded their first success at Armagh, where they obtained 129 and put the home side out for 86, the last four Armagh wickets adding 58 runs.

There was an exciting finish at Donacloney, where the home team beat Lurgan by two runs. The latter lost six wickets for 19, but eventually made 97, thanks to Campbell, whose 62 included eight boundaries. Donacloney also started badly and eight wickets were down for 48, but McCullough (31) and Armstrong (16) put on 37 for the ninth wicket, and the total reached 99

PROSPECTUS

OBJECTS.—The Company was incorporated in the Irish Free State on 19th May, 1936, with the objects stated in its Memorandum of Association and in particular to build and equip up-to-date factories for the manufacture of Standard Portland Cement and Rapid Hardening Cement.

LICENCE TO MANUFACTURE. The Company has on 19th May, 1936, received a Licence from the Department of Industry and Commerce, under the Cement Act, 1933, to manufacture cement, subject to the conditions set out in a Schedule attached to the Licence. This Schedule provides inter alia that the Company shall commence to manufacture cement not later than 19th May, 1938, and it also fixes the maximum prices at which Standard Portland Cement and Rapid Hardening Cement are to be sold, ex Works, exclusive of the cost of bags, subject to variation, from time to time, in the event of alteration in the cost of labour, fuel, power and interest charges.

OUTPUT.—The present Licence, with attached Schedule, covers the erection and operation of two factories, one of which will be erected near Drogheda and the other near Limerick. The two factories will have a normal capacity per annum of 150,000 tons and 75,000 tons, respectively. It is understood that the Company is not to exceed these figures by more than 25,000 tons per annum at any one factory. Should the consumption of cement in the Irish Free State be sufficient to warrant the erection of a third factory the Company will have the opportunity of submitting proposals for the building of such factory and of making an application to the Minister for Industry and Commerce for a further cement manufacturing Licence, which application, it is understood, will be given favourable consideration by the Minister.

CONSUMPTION OF CEMENT.—The total consumption of cement in the Irish Free State during the past three years has been as follows:—1933, 285,067 tons; 1934, 329,571 tons; 1935, 335,001 tons; the average of which is considerably in excess of the contemplated output of the two factories.

ESTIMATED PROFIT.—No cement is at present being manufactured in the Irish Free State and none can be imported except under Government licence. Having regard to the arrangements made by the Company, it is anticipated by the Directors that the two works will be kept fully occupied and the prices charged for Standard Portland Cement and Rapid Hardening Cement will be such that whilst they compare favourably with prices ruling in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland, they should leave a Profit of about £125,000 per annum, before meeting the following items: Depreciation, Income Tax, Corporation Profits Tax; Interest and Sinking Fund on Debenture Stock. The Directors further anticipate that they will be able to recommend a reasonable dividend and place moneys to reserves during the first year's operation of the works and subsequent years. The two works are expected to commence operation before the end of 1937.

TECHNICAL AND COMMERCIAL MANAGEMENT.—Under Contract No. 2 (mentioned below), The Tunnel Portland Cement Company Limited, Horseferry House, Westminster, London, have undertaken, for a period of ten years, to act in an advisory capacity in connection with the production of cement and the organisation of sales, transport and similar matters and will, during that period, provide a qualified person to be Managing Director of the Company. Mr. Harald Osterberg will be the first Managing Director and has entered into an Agreement with the Company (Contract No. 3, mentioned below) to serve in that capacity during the period of construction and for three years thereafter. Mr. Osterberg has been engaged in the cement trade for 25 years. He has been responsible for the planning and erection of numerous works in France, Belgium, Scandinavia, the Far East and the U.S.A. He has also an extensive experience in the technical and commercial management of cement works and is relinquishing his present post as First Vice-President of the National Portland Cement Company, Inc., Philadelphia, U.S.A., in order to accept the Managing Directorship of this Company.

CAPITAL REQUIREMENTS.—The proceeds of the issue at par of Debenture Stock and Shares of the Company will amount to £750,000, which will be applied approximately as follows:—

Erection and equipment of works at Drogheda and Limerick	£611,000
Cost of sites and deposits	£33,000
Preliminary Expenses	£36,000
Interest on Debenture Stock, less interest earned and discounts during the period of construction	£20,000
Working Capital	£50,000

SITES AND LANDS. Extensive investigations in regard to the suitability of raw materials, water supplies, rail, road and river connections, have been carried out throughout Ireland during a period extending over several years by the well-known cement experts, F. L. Smidth and Company, Limited, London. They have selected Drogheda and Limerick as the most advantageous districts having regard to the quality of the finished product, cost of production, availability of labour and distribution of the finished product. The Company is empowered under the Cement Act, 1933, to make application to the Minister for a compulsory acquisition order with respect to the purchase and taking of any land which, in the opinion of the Minister, is necessary for the purposes of the business of the Company authorised by the licence referred to above if he is satisfied that the Company is unable to acquire by agreement any such land. F. L. Smidth and Company, Limited, have, however, secured options on the requisite land suitable for the erection of the Cement Factories (at Drogheda and Limerick) and for the manufacture of cement at such Factories, which options they are transferring to the Company (see Contract No. 1 mentioned below). The respective acreages are:—For the Drogheda Factory, 263 acres and for the Limerick Factory, 378 acres. It is estimated that the raw materials at present secured are sufficient to provide for the operation of the two plants at full output for a period in excess of 60 years.

PLANT AND MACHINERY.—Under Contract No. 1 (mentioned below), F. L. Smidth and Company, Limited, have undertaken to supply, at a satisfactory price, the special cement-making machinery required and they have also agreed to act as Consulting Engineers for the planning and construction of the remaining plant. The Contract contains a Guarantee to the Company that the two works will be able to produce first-class Portland Cement at the rate of 150,000 tons per annum at the Drogheda factory and at the rate of 75,000 tons per annum at the Limerick factory. F. L. Smidth and Company, Limited, and their associates have specialised in the erection and equipment of Cement Works for more than 50 years. They are the leading Engineers in this branch and have been responsible for the construction of Cement Works in practically every country in the world. The said Contract also provides that F. L. Smidth and Company, Limited, shall be paid their certified out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with the investigation of raw materials and sites and for the assignment to the Company at cost of the various options obtained, provision for which has been made in the estimate of preliminary expenses given above.

QUALITY OF CEMENT.—F. L. Smidth and Company, Limited, have made extensive trials with the raw materials available at Drogheda and Limerick and report as follows:—

"To the Directors,
Cement Limited, Dublin. London, 11th May, 1936.

We have carefully investigated the materials available at your proposed sites at Drogheda and Limerick and have also made trial cements from these and we have no hesitation in stating that it will be possible for you to manufacture Standard Portland Cement and Rapid Hardening Cement which will compare favourably in quality with cements made elsewhere.

F. L. Smidth and Co., Ltd.,
(Signed). E. H. LEWIS, Director."

Under Contract No. 5, mentioned below, The Industrial Credit Company, Limited, has agreed to underwrite the balance of 150,000 Shares of the present Issue not taken by the Tunnel Cement Company Limited and their friends, and the £450,000 Debenture Stock for an underwriting commission of 2 per cent. and an overriding commission of 1 per cent. calculated on the nominal amount thereof, and in consideration of the further payment by the Company to them of £6,000 to act as Issuing House in respect of the Issue and to pay the cost of printing, circulating and advertising the Prospectus in the Irish Free State and all other expenses incidental to the Issue, except Stamp Duties and other duties, fees and expenses payable on registration of the Company, transfer fees and any legal and accountancy fees payable by the Company. The cost of printing, circulating and advertising this Prospectus in England is payable by the Company.

STATUTORY INFORMATION.

A copy of the Memorandum of Association of the Company, with the names, addresses and descriptions of the signatories, and the number of shares subscribed for by them respectively, is printed in the fold of the full Prospectus and forms part thereof.

The Articles of Association provide (inter alia) as follows:—

3. The Company shall be managed and controlled in Saorstat Eireann.

36. The Directors may decline to register the transfer of any shares upon which the Company has a lien and in the case of shares not fully paid up may refuse to register a transfer to a transferee of whom they do not approve, and shall not be bound to give any reason for such refusal. The Board may also refuse to register a transfer when in the opinion of the Board registration would result in a contravention of Article 37 hereof.

37. More than one-half in nominal value of the issued shares and at least two-thirds in nominal value of every class of shares issued and carrying voting rights (whether immediate or to arise in certain future circumstances) shall be in the beneficial ownership of (1) a person who is, or (2) two or more persons each of whom is either a "qualified person" or a "qualified holding company" as defined in Section 7 (3) of the Finance Act, 1935 (No. 28 of 1935).

38. The Directors may from time to time and at any time serve a notice in writing upon the registered holder of any share requiring such registered holder within 28 days after service of such notice to send the Company a return stating whether he is the beneficial owner of such share and if not the name and address of the person or each of the persons on whose behalf he holds such share, and whether he (if the beneficial owner of such share) of such person is or is not a "qualified person" or a "qualified holding company" as aforesaid and the Directors may require from such registered holder a certificate to that effect in the form and containing such particulars as the Directors shall consider necessary.

39. If at any time any share shall not be to the satisfaction of the Directors in the beneficial ownership of a person who is, or of two or more persons each of whom is either a "qualified person" or a "qualified holding company" aforesaid or if the registered holder of any share shall fail to comply with the provisions of the last preceding Article within the time therein mentioned then and in any such case the Directors shall be at liberty to serve a notice upon such registered holder requiring such share to be sold and if the registered holder shall make default in complying with such notice for a period of one month after service of such notice, then the Directors may proceed to sell the share, and may cause the name of the purchaser to be entered in the register as the holder of the share, and shall hold the purchase money in trust for the former holder of the share, and the validity of such sale and registration shall not be questioned, but the Directors shall only exercise the powers conferred on them by this Article if and when in the opinion of the Directors it shall become necessary to exercise such powers in order to prevent the possibility of a contravention of Article 37 hereof.

58. The Directors may from time to time at their discretion raise or borrow or secure the payment of any sum or sums of money for the purposes of the Company provided that the amount for the time being remaining undischarged of moneys raised, borrowed or secured by the Directors (otherwise than by the issue of share capital) shall not without the sanction of a General Meeting exceed in the whole double the amount of paid up share capital for the time being of the Company, but no lender shall be bound to see that this limit is observed.

59. The Directors may secure the payment or repayment of such sum or sums in such manner and upon such terms and conditions in all respects as they think fit by mortgage or charge or by the issue of debentures or debenture stock or other securities of the Company charged upon all or any part of the property of the Company (both present and future) including its uncalled capital for the time being and any debentures or debenture stock may be perpetual or redeemable and may be issued at a discount, premium or otherwise and may be secured either by trust deed or otherwise and the trustees may be remunerated for their services and the Directors may purchase, redeem, or pay off any such securities.

78. Subject to any special terms as to voting upon which any capital may be issued, or may for the time being be held, on a show of hands every member present in person and entitled to vote shall have one vote and upon a poll every member present in person or by proxy shall have one vote for every £1 of share capital held by him.

91. The qualification of a Director shall be the holding in his own right alone, and not jointly with any other person of Shares of the Company of the nominal value of not less than £500 and Section 73 of the Act shall be duly complied with by every Director. A Director may act before acquiring his qualification.

92. Unless otherwise determined by the Company in General Meeting the remuneration of each of the Directors shall be at the rate of £200 per annum with an additional £100 per annum for the Chairman and such further sum (if any) as shall be voted to them by the Company in General Meeting. The Directors shall also be entitled to be repaid all traveling, hotel and other expenses incurred by them in and about the business of the Company including their reasonable expenses of travelling to and from Board or Committee Meetings.

93. The Directors may grant special remuneration to any member of the Board who being called upon shall be willing to render any special or extra services to the Company or to go or reside abroad in connection with the conduct of any of the affairs of the Company. Such special remuneration may be made payable to such Director in addition to or in substitution for his ordinary remuneration as a Director and may be made payable by a lump sum or by way of salary or by a percentage of profits or by any or all of those modes.

103.—(1) The Directors may from time to time appoint one or more of their body to be Managing Director or Managing Directors of the Company for such period, at such remuneration and upon such terms as to duties to be performed, the powers to be exercised and all other matters as they think fit, but so that no Managing Director shall be invested with any powers or entrusted with any duties which the Directors themselves could not have exercised or performed. The remuneration of a Managing Director may be by way of salary or commission or participation in profits or by any or all of those modes.

The Articles also provide that the minimum subscription upon which the Directors may proceed to allotment in the case of the first allotment of any shares payable in cash shall be seven shares of the value of £1 each. As the whole of the present Issue has been underwritten, or will be taken firm, the Directors will proceed to allotment on the closing of the Subscription List.

No shares in the Company are being issued otherwise than for payment in cash and no shares are under option. The present is the first Issue of Debenture Stock or Shares made by the Company.

The Preliminary Expenses are estimated at £36,000, and are payable by the Company.

LONDON STOCK MARKET FEATURES

FACTORS IN THE GILT-EDGED SECTION

AMERICA'S SILVER POLICY

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

59 FLEET STREET, E.C., Sunday.

Various indications point to the livelihood of a temporary subsidence of speculative activity in securities. Such a development would be only natural, seeing that over a long period—almost since the Bank rate was reduced to 2 per cent., nearly four years ago—the trend of price movements, more especially of ordinary shares, has been upwards. The greatest boom must be followed by a reaction at some time or another, and usually the difficulty is in determining when the setback is likely to come. In the case of gilt-edged securities it seems reasonable to assume that the peak of the upward movement in prices was reached in the early part of 1935, and that the level touched then will not be repeated. The probability is that there will be no violent break in this section, but that the future trend of values will be gradually downward, and this might be witnessed without any drastic change in the monetary situation.

INVESTMENTS OF THE BANKS

This view is largely based on the signs that the trade revival is beginning to tell upon the position of the Banks. These institutions were an important factor in the past, for the smaller demand for bank loans compelled them to employ surplus funds in gilt-edged securities. Now, their advances are increasing, and a position may arise when they will deem it advisable to sell part of their securities in order to strengthen the ratio of cash to deposit liabilities. In June, 1935, the aggregate investments of the London clearing banks established a high record at £624,188,000. The latest total (excluding the figures of the district bank, which entered the clearing in January last) is £607,322,000 — a reduction of nearly £17,000,000, while compared with the amount in April, 1935, a shrinkage is indicated of nearly £10,500,000.

LOANS INCREASING

On the other hand, the total of the advances has risen in the course of a year by fully £64,000,000, a significant movement, when it is remembered that considerable amounts of bank loans have been paid off by industrial and other companies as a result of trade improvements, and, more especially, the facility for raising new capital. English municipalities, for instance, can borrow on a basis of little over 3 per cent., and obviously it is good business to use money obtained on such terms in repaying bank loans that cost more. In April, 1935, the proportion of cash held by the clearing banks to their deposits was 11.19 per cent.; but for last month the figure was 10.56 per cent. With every increase in the advances the deposits expand, so that without an addition to the cash the ratio would further decline. A drop to below 10 per cent. would probably be considered dangerous, and to prevent that movement the banks would almost certainly resort to a sale of investments.

INTEREST RATES

In these circumstances it would be foolish to look for a further substantial advance in fixed interest securities. A question that may arise in the future is the power of the authorities to prevent a material rise in interest rates should that threaten. As far as can be seen, the situation can be controlled, as it has been for months and years past, so long as the country is off gold, thus precluding the necessity of occasional advances in the Bank rate in order to check a foreign demand upon our reserves, and so long as there is an embargo upon foreign lending. Still, the Chancellor of the Exchequer in last week's debate on the Finance Bill mentioned the possibility of a rise from the present abnormally low rate for short-term money, which might cost the Government anything up to an extra £10,000,000 for Treasury bills. As it is, this form of the floating debt is at present being financed at a cost of little more than half of one per cent.

DISADVANTAGES OF CHEAP MONEY

A decided advance in money rate would thus make a material difference to the debt charge, and it might possibly necessitate some additional taxation, but it would be welcomed by a good many people. The banks would be very thankful to get a higher return on their surplus funds; the discount houses might be able to make reasonable profits once again from their ordinary business without being compelled to invest in gilt-edged securities, and many investors would be pleased to see trustee stocks obtainable on more favourable terms than at present. Since the 5 per cent. War Loan was converted to a 3½ per cent. basis in 1932 the percentage return on investments has fallen very considerably, for the replacement of securities by new ones bearing a lower interest rate has not been confined to Government or Municipal Loans, but has extended to a good many industrial and other undertakings. As compensation for this reduction in income, investors have received very little in the shape of a lightening of the burden of taxation, and relief in that direction is still a long way off.

EQUITY VALUES

While reasons can be put forward against a rise in fixed interest securities, several can be adduced in favour of at least a maintenance of prices of Ordinary shares. It is certain that the internal trade of the country will continue good for a considerable time to come, especially as there is apparently an understanding that, while work in connection with rearmament will be largely executed by private concerns, the circumstance will not be allowed to interfere with the progress of the general trade of the country. In one or two directions there may be a diminution of activity, such as in the building trade, more especially as regards dwelling-houses, but this will probably be neutralised by expansion in other directions. Against these points must be placed the fact that to a considerable extent the prospect of a continuation of good profits and dividends has been discounted by the rise in prices during the last twelve months or so. In some cases, too, the international trade situation is a factor. A good many companies depend at least partly on export business, and how difficult this still is was indicated by the reduction disclosed in the net profits of the Dunlop Rubber Co. and J. and P. Coats.

OIL SHARES

Under more favourable conditions, the very satisfactory Royal Dutch and Shell Transport Oil dividends would have caused a substantial advance in the shares of those two companies and of Oil shares generally. The dividends were announced at a time when there was liquidation in connection with certain difficulties in the Stock Exchange, largely caused by a severe fall in one particular share. Very soon afterwards the Chancellor of the Exchequer came out with his rather disturbing warning as to the continuance of high taxation, accompanied by remarks on the alarming increase in expenditure. These circumstances had the more effect probably because the present account is one of twenty-one days duration which will cover Derby week and the Whitsun holiday. Further, rather more attention is now being given to foreign politics, including the threat of fresh Japanese aggression in China. Some of these factors will disappear or lose their force, but for the present the feeling is not optimistic, and some time may elapse before markets generally regain the buoyancy which characterised them some time ago.

AMERICA AND SILVER

The United States appears to have taken considerable credit for its action in buying a large amount of silver from China, and apparently believes that by doing so economic conditions in the latter country have been improved. America, however, made a big mistake some time ago when it assumed that its silver policy, by raising the price of the white metal, would increase the purchasing power of China. It did nothing of the sort; instead, it was an important factor in deciding China to abandon the silver standard and resort to a managed paper currency. America is scarcely disinterested in this matter, for it is possible that if this silver had not been bought from China the latter would have thrown large quantities on the open market, thus bringing about a severe fall in the price, and greatly depreciating the value of the huge stock that the United States has acquired.

A POTENTIAL LOSS

This position raises the question of what would happen if a future American Administration decided that the whole silver programme was economically unsound, and that the silver acquired towards establishing a ratio in the monetary stocks of 75 per cent. gold to 25 per cent. silver should be disposed of. In that event who would buy the silver, except at a figure representing a very serious loss to America? The amount of silver acquired by that country is estimated at upwards of 1,600,000,000 ounces, or a figure equal to eight years' world production. No other country could absorb even a small proportion of this, and in any case it is difficult to see how America will benefit from the acquisition. The "Silverites" in the country are pleased, but otherwise no advantage has been gained, and it is doubtful if the establishment in the monetary stocks of the ratio mentioned above would really help the country. In any case the operation would be costly, while ultimately it might involve a serious financial loss.

RECOVERY IN THE FRANC

Owing to the depreciation in the franc at the time of fixing, the price of gold declined 3½d. to 139s. 8d. per fine ounce, its lowest quotation since November, 1934, while the premium on the French parity eased from 10½d. to 9½d., and on the American parity from 1½d. to 1d. Only £134,000 of the metal was disposed of. From India the week-end gold shipments will amount to £532,000. At the Bank of England a further £1,125 in bar gold was purchased.

As a result of Indian buying the price of silver improved 1/16d. to 20 3/16d. per ounce in each case.

Discount rates were unchanged, but the tone continued quite firm on the announcement that the amount of Treasury bills to be tendered for next Friday will be £5,000,000 in excess of maturities. For three months fine commercial drafts leading houses quoted a minimum buying rate of 9/16 per cent., at which figure they changed hands, but dealings between the market and the clearing banks were virtually non-existent. The "hot" Treasuries for delivery next week were offered at 11/32 per cent., but were not taken.

Although there was no pressure to sell francs the tendency remained weak during the earlier dealings, while the trend of other rates was also in favour of sterling. Francs were dealt in up to 75 11/16, but recovered and finished without alteration at 75 9/16. Dollars closed rather cheaper at 4.97¾, as compared with 4.97 9/16 after being up to 4.98¼.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Cement, Limited

The full prospectus is published in our issue to-day of Cement, Limited. The authorised capital is £300,000 in £1 shares, and there is also an issue at par of £450,000 5½ per cent. First Mortgage Debenture stock. Of the 300,000 shares 150,000 are being subscribed for in cash by the Tunnel Portland Cement Co. and their friends, so that the total available for subscription in the Free State is 150,000. The final instalment of 10s. per share is not payable until the 30th September next. The debentures are also being offered in London, where a subscription list is being opened at Barclay's Bank and branches. The Industrial Credit Co., Ltd., will act as trustees for the debenture stockholders, and the first payment of debenture interest, amounting to £2 6s. 2d. per £100 of stock, will be made on the 31st December next. Redemption of the debentures will commence on the 30th June, 1940, either by purchase below £102 per cent. or by drawings at that figure, and all stock outstanding on 30th June, 1974, will be repaid on that date. The stock will be secured on the whole of the assets of the company present and future, together with a first specific charge on the freehold and leasehold properties of the company. The statutory relief in respect of income tax has been applied for, and in the case of the debenture stock this relief offers a net yield equivalent to a gross yield of approximately £5 16s. 4d. per cent. on a security to which the relief does not apply.

The company has been formed for the purpose of building and equipping two factories for the manufacture of standard Portland cement and rapid hardening cement. A licence has been granted by the Department of Industry and Commerce, which provides that the company shall commence to manufacture cement not later than 19th May, 1938, and it also fixes the maximum price at which the product is to be sold. Two factories are to be erected, one near Drogheda and the other near Limerick, the first having a normal manufacturing capacity of 150,000 tons and the second of 75,000 tons per annum. Should a third factory be required the company will have the opportunity of applying for a further licence. During 1935 335,000 tons of cement were consumed in the Irish Free State, and the average of the last three years is in excess of the contemplated output of the factories. The directors anticipate that both the factories will be kept fully occupied, and the prices charged for the product, while comparing favourably with those ruling in England and Northern Ireland, will be such that they should leave a profit of about £125,000 per annum, which, after providing for all charges, would provide reasonable dividends and reserves. Both factories are expected to be in operation before the end of 1937. The Tunnel Portland Cement Co. will act in an advisory capacity for a period of 10 years, and will during that period provide a qualified person to be managing director. Mr. Harald Osterberg will occupy that post during the period of construction, and for three years thereafter. This gentleman has been responsible for the planning and erection of numerous cement works on the Continent, in the Far East, and in America. The suitability of the sites for the factories has been certified after careful investigation, and extensive trials of raw materials by F. L. Smidth and Co., Ltd., the well-known cement experts, who have specialised in the equipment of cement works for more than 50 years. The proceeds of the issue of debenture stock and shares will amount to £750,000, and will be applied as follows:—Erection and equipment of works at Drogheda and Limerick, £611,000; cost of sites and deposits, £63,000; preliminary expenses, £36,000; interest on debenture stock during period of construction, £20,000, and working capital £50,000. The £150,000 shares and the whole of the debenture stock have been underwritten by the Industrial Credit Co. for an underwriting commission of 2 per cent. and an overriding commission of 1 per cent.

The list of subscriptions will be opened tomorrow (Tuesday) and closed on or before Wednesday, and applications for debenture stock and shares may be lodged with the Bank of Ireland, College Green, Dublin, and branches, or Barclay's Bank, 54 Lombard street, London. Preferential consideration will be given on allotment to applications by Free State shareholders of the Tunnel Portland Cement Co. and by builders and contractors in the Irish Free State. The debentures of this issue are an attractive investment, and to those who are prepared to wait until the producing period the shares should return good dividends. The company has a practical monopoly for the manufacture of cement, and it is being launched under the auspices of one of the most successful cement concerns in England.

Pessimistic Americans

American business men visiting England are in an extremely pessimistic mood regarding the future of their country. They see no possibility of Mr. Roosevelt being defeated at the forthcoming elections, and thus look for a continuance of confiscatory legislation, with growing expenditure and increasing indebtedness. Their only hope lies in the possibility that either Congress or the Senate will prove to be strong enough to keep the President and his Administration in check (writes The Observer). They are not pessimistic regarding the resources of the United States, nor the ability of its business men to develop those resources, provided they are allowed to do so. Their pessimism lies in the belief that those resources are being squandered and that the avenues for enterprise are being steadily closed up. They see a vast army of officials of all grades extending their grip on almost every phase of business activity, an alarmingly increasing national indebtedness, and continually growing burden of taxation made necessary by revenue deficits. On the other hand, they realise that business in many directions has been expanding, giving apparent evidence of the inherent vitality that exists in the nation. They fear, however, that much of this expansion is due to the extravagant outpouring of capital by the Government, and that once this stream of expenditure becomes exhausted the position of the country will be worse than ever.

Conditions in Canada

The Canadian Bank of Commerce reports that a more widespread, if moderate, improvement in industry appeared in April, with favourable prospects particularly for the forest and metal-mining industries. Construction has been backward, but a substantial volume of new work is contemplated. Export trade has been seasonally lower. A late spring has retarded seeding, but moisture conditions in the West are better than a year ago.

Southern Rhodesia Gold Output

An official cable from Southern Rhodesia reports a further increase in the gold output —68,694 ounces having been produced in April compared with 67,350 ounces in March. The total value of the April gold output was £472,722 (including £180,681 premium). There were 697 producing mines. The value of all minerals produced during April was £590,849 (compared with £560,347 in March). There is a remarkable increase in the output of mica indicating the success of the efforts at present being made to re-establish this branch of the industry.

Union-Castle Stock

Marketing of Union-Castle Ord. stock, which totals £2,740,000, was foreshadowed at the recent meeting. It will be effected either by distributing the stock now held by the R.M. and E.D. Realisation Companies among the members of those companies, or by disposing of it on the market to a large number of buyers (says the Sunday Times). In either case the stock will eventually have a free market. Its voting rights will be equal to that of the Pref. shares, one vote for each £1 unit of stock, and this power will give the Ord. a small majority vote. But the steps taken effectively prevent control of the company being obtained, as in the past, for the purpose of tying it to any other group. In assessing the value of Union-Castle Ord. stock consideration must be taken of the fact that the profit on voyages for the past year declined by £16,700, against which income from investments increased by £21,000. The modest balance of £47,400 is available towards providing arrears of Pref. dividends. Nevertheless prospects are promising, and an initial quotation of well over par may be expected.

Last Saturday morning Matthew Anderson, of Ravensdale road, Dublin, was treated in Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital for injuries to the head, received while he was working at the Pigeon House Fort.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

CAUTIOUS DEALING

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stock Exchange operators were again cautious to-day, but, buoyed by the strength of Steel and specialty shares, the market quietly extended yesterday's creeping advance. Sales totalled 440,000 shares.

The market closed firm, with gains of fractions to one dollar in the Steel, Rail, Industrial, Mining, Chemical, Motor and Merchandising groups.

While many of the Wall street brokers expect only trading markets for the time being, a number of them are quite bullish in the expectation of an extended advance from the current levels.

Sterling exchange opened 1/32 up at 4.97 11/16 and closed ⅛ higher compared with the previous close at 4.97 11/16.

No official silver price was fixed in New York to-day.

AMERICAN FINANCIAL NOTES

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS).

"VERY IMPORTANT" ADVANCE IN STEEL PRICES.

The Carnegie Illinois Steel Company has opened its books for third quarter business with an advance of 2.00 dollars per ton for re-rolling billets, sheet, bars, structural shapes and plates. The advance is considered to be very important, as it is the first time for many years that initial action has been taken by a subsidiary of the U.S. Steel Corporation. Moreover, this is the first upturn in actual quotations since July 1, 1934. It is expected that other steel companies will follow suit.

COMPANY RESULTS.

The Greyhound Corporation reports a net profit of 183,000 dollars (equal to 25 cents per share), compared with 271,000 dollars (41 cents) for the first quarter of 1935.

The United Gas Company announces a first quarter net profit amounting to 3,991,000 dollars (equal to 21 cents per Common share), against 2,172,000 dollars (1.56 dollars per Second Preferred share), for the first quarter of last year.

DIVIDEND INDICES.

The Standard Statistics Company states that favourable dividend changes during the past week numbered 42, compared with 25 in the previous week and 28 the week before. The unfavourable actions were 2, 2 and 3, respectively.

PRODUCTION OF MOTOR VEHICLES IN APRIL.

The production of motor vehicles during April, as announced by the Department of Commerce, totalled 417,130 passenger cars and 85,640 motor trucks, compared with 345,170 and 79,400, respectively, in March.

NEW YORK METAL MARKET REVIEW.

COPPER—The export market has been easy during the past week, and the domestic market has been quiet, though manufacturers are operating actively. Producers' export price lost 10 on the week, and closed at 9.05. Standard futures finished 8 to 11 points lower.

TIN prices moved upwards, in sympathy with the advance of sterling. It is estimated that warehouse stocks totalling 1,400 tons are virtually all owned by consumers. Deliveries during May are expected to be around 5,500 tons. Spot New York lost 107½ on the week, and closed at 45.80.

SPELTER has been firm on buying confined to car lots for prompt delivery on the week. Price was unchanged at 4.90.

TIN PLATES—Operations have been the highest in history, and slightly above 100 per cent. standard running time, with current shipments equal to production. The price per box f.o.b. Pittsburg basis was unchanged at 5.25 dollars.

STEEL — Production is resisting the seasonal downward trend, due chiefly to a diversified demand for heavy products. Third quarter price increases are announced by a leading subsidiary company of the U.S. Steel Corporation, and are expected to become general very shortly. The advances have been imposed as a result of the mounting costs of operation, the granting of vacations with pay to mill workers, and to the new tax and social security legislation.

HIDES AND LEATHER

(SPECIAL REPORT.)

There was a steady demand for domestic hides, and prices were steady to the turn dearer. English ox and heifer first clear 90lb. and up sold at 6⅝d. to 7d., 80-89lb. 6⅝d. to 6⅞d., 70-79lb. 6⅝d. to 7d., 60-69lb. 5¾d. to 6d., 50-59lb. 5⅛d. to 5¼d., and 49lb. and under at 5¼d. First clear cows made 5d. to 5¾d., and first clear bulls 3¾d. to 3⅞d. per lb. Calfskins were about steady, with 9-16lb. sold at 8¼d. to 8½d. per lb. The bounty of 10/- each on calfskins exported from Irish Free State will cease on May 31. Quiet conditions prevailed for imported hides, and prices were occasionally a shade easier. B.A. Americanos were quoted at 6½d. and dry first Capes at 6¼d. per lb. The market for sole leather was rather quiet, and, apart from a fair trade in cheap dry hide bends, the demand was disappointingly slow. In the market for upper leathers there was a better demand for glazed kid in black and browns, but blue attracted less attention. Suedes were a firm market, there being an improved demand for all classes.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW

THE BACON POSITION

FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Business in the provision trade during the past week can hardly be described as brisk, and, with the exception of butter and cheese, which tend in sellers' favour, quotations are rather on the easy side. Demand for bacon has been very disappointing, although factors showed a disposition to grant concessions to induce business. Spot prices for Irish are 5s. lower, and at the weekly meeting of the Manchester Bacon Committee it was decided to reduce the price of English and Polish 3s., and Danish, Swedish and Dutch 5s. per cwt. The market closed steady at the lower prices ruling. The Danish official quotation for butter has this week been wired 13 kroner higher, and "top" now stands at 183 kroner per 100 kilos; at the corresponding period of last year the figure was 158 kroner, and in 1934 138 kroner. New season's Irish creamery butter is now coming on to the market in very good condition, and prices are on a parity with New Zealand. Continental makes rule firm, with an upward tendency, and Colonials are held for full rates.

SMALLER BUTTER SHIPMENTS.

Shipments of Colonial butter to this country have declined materially, but continue on a larger scale than a year ago. Gradings of Australian during April were 29 per cent. smaller than in the same month of last year; total gradings in the first ten months of the current season were below last season's corresponding figure by 22,100 tons, or 19 per cent. The New Zealand output continues slightly above last year's figures. In the cheese section the recent steady advance in values causes special interest at this time of the year, because of its being the producing season both in this country and in Canada. It is certain that the production of cheese in Great Britain is not so great as last year, and will probably show a shortage on the season. Such shortage may be accentuated on account of the tendency to withhold the home make from sale until it is in a more matured condition for marketing than hitherto. The position in Canada at the moment is not clearly defined, and, although the season is about normal up to now, the quantity to be made for export will depend to a great extent on the course of prices in England during the next few weeks. It is possible there will be some increase. The tone of the egg market has not been so strong. Irish Free State descriptions sell at less money as compared with last week, and other sorts are also on the easy side.

LIVE-STOCK.

Taken in the agregate, there was a rather marked falling-off in the number of fat cattle penned at the Manchester Cattle Market on Tuesday last, although arrivals from the Irish Free State were about equal to those of the previous week. Lambs were plentiful, but Irish dairy cows were a smaller offering. Fat cattle generally sold steadily at firm to dearer rates. Sheep ruled firm, but lambs were easier to buy. Arrivals to the Manchester Pig Market were ample for the demand; but, taken all round, values have ruled fairly steady. Business at the Manchester Meat Market has been rather on the quiet side throughout the week. There was a rather better finish for both home-killed and imported beef, but mutton and lamb occasionally showed an easier tendency.

Most descriptions of dead poultry have met with a quiet consumptive demand, but quotations have ruled fairly steady. Available supplies of salmon have met with a good demand, and Irish closed dearer on the week at 2s. to 2s. 2d. per lb. (wholesale).

IRISH FREE STATE BUTTER AND EGGS

(OFFICIAL PRICES.)

Issued under arrangement with H.M. Commissioners of Customs and Excise by the Liverpool Provision Trade Association, Limited, these prices will form the basis of assessment for duty on all butter and eggs imported from the Irish Free State into the ports of Liverpool, Bristol, Cardiff, Fishguard, Holyhead, Preston, Douglas (I.O.M.), and all parts of Northern Ireland, as from the 25th May, and, in the case of butter only, into the port of Glasgow:—Butter—Factory, per cwt. (variable), 88s., fair average; creamery, salted, in 56lb. pyramid boxes, per cwt., 98s. Eggs (fresh)—17lb. extra selected, per long hundred (120), 8s. 2d.; extra selected, 8s.; selected, 7s. 9d.; medium 7s. 3d.; pullet, 6s. 9d.; trade, 6s. 3d.; duck, 7s. From these prices falls to be deducted in respect of post-importation charges and selling commissions an allowance of 5 per cent.

DUBLIN SCOTS' EXCURSION

Over a hundred Scots and their friends spent Saturday afternoon at Kilmacurra Park Hotel, County Wicklow. The occasion was the annual excursion of the Dublin St. Andrew's Society. The President, Dr. A. T. MacKay, was in charge of the large party, which was conveyed in G.S.R. 'buses by way of the Glen of the Downs and Rathnew.

GOLF

BENTLEY FANCIED AT ST. ANDREWS

A SIX-DAY BATTLE FOR THE AMATEUR TITLE

The entry of 268 for The Amateur Championship, which starts to-day at St. Andrews, is only three short of the record field which contested the championship on the classic green in 1930. In order to reduce the number to thirty-two there will be twelve hours' continuous play to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday, and the final will be decided on Saturday.

Fully a score of competitors are regarded as having equal chances of winning the title, which last season went to the American, W. Lawson Little, who since turned professional. Harry Bentley, the recent winner of the English Championship at Deal, is, perhaps, the most fancied of the home players; others who are likely to go far are the Scots, John McLean and Hector Thomson. No American "stars" have entered, but a strong challenge is being launched by A. D. Locke, holder of the South African Open and Amateur titles, and the Australian, James Ferrier.

IRELAND'S INTEREST

Ireland, as usual, is also interested, among the contenders being Dr. J. D. MacCormack, Cecil Ewing, Dr. J. A. Flaherty, Lionel Munn, W. B. J. Armstrong, and William Gill. Dr. MacCormack has not been playing as well as usual recently, but he usually strikes his best game at St. Andrews. Cecil Ewing's tremendous power, if he should be on his short game, should bring him into prominence, and other Irishmen who may spring a surprise or two are Dr. Flaherty and W. B. Armstrong. The former, a graduate of University College, Dublin, played for Ireland in 1934 and last year, and is presently in excellent form; whilst Armstrong, the former Dublin University player, who is scratch at Royal Dublin, and holds a commission in the Royal Engineers stationed at Chatham, finished third in a field of 157 for this year's Army Championship, beaten by three strokes over 36 holes.

Two Walker Cup selectors, Dr. William Tweddell and Robert Harris, are entered, and the third, W. J. Guild, will also be at St. Andrews.

Eric Martin Smith (Royal St. George's), winner in 1931 at Westward Ho!, is one of sixteen who have withdrawn from the championship for business reasons. He was to have played in the first round against H. M. Bray (Royal and Ancient), the Oxford Blue.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

FRUIT.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—
There is little, if anything, to be added to the remarks already made by us regarding the management of this department. As we observed, there is a great deal to be gained by going over wall trees carrying a good crop and removing surplus or crowded fruits. This may seem to some an unnecessary proceeding, on the ground that Nature generally rights herself in this respect; but, as experienced gardeners know, an even crop of well-placed fruits, which do not unduly tax the resources of the tree, is more desirable than the alternate "feast and famine" accruing from want of skilful attention in this respect. The summer pruning or pinching the breastwood of some wall trees must soon be attended to. The gooseberry caterpillar will soon make its presence felt on our bushes, and, if not immediately and vigorously taken in hand, will speedily denude the bushes. Several remedies for this pest are in commerce, but timely hand-picking is, perhaps, the most effectual as well as the safest method of getting rid of it. The spraying of fruit trees, especially apples, at this time, to clear them from injurious insect pests and fungoid diseases—notably the apple scab—is now generally recognised as absolutely necessary, and practised in all the principal orchards and gardens.

A COMPLETE OVERHAUL.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—
Each must be thoroughly cleaned, disinfected, lime-washed inside in the case of the rearing houses and tarred or treated with wood preservative on the outside. Having completed the overhaul of the houses, the land must be tackled. All long grass (if any) and weeds should be cut and cleared away. Should the plot seem to require it, it may then be either dug up or ploughed, according to size and whatever is convenient. After this a dressing of basic slag or lime may be applied according to needs. In cases where a digging or ploughing is unnecessary the dressing may be applied direct after the cut grass is removed. For all general purposes the basic slag seems to be the most satisfactory. Given this treatment, and an ensuing rest of five or six months, the rearing ground will become quite fresh and sweet, and should be in excellent trim for next season's batches of chicks.
